LIGHTNING-RAIN STORM HITS LOS ANGELES

Nature's elements produced a great show in Southern California last night, first hitting the sprawling city with lightning flashes, then with thunderstorms. More than two inches of rain fell in Glendora in 30 minutes to bring to an end a week-long heat and smog spell. This view is looking south-southwest from First and Spring streets. (AP Wirephoto)

Greyhound Bus Lines Seeking A Blanket Hike

Request Includes Elimination Of Bargain Books

Marin bus commuters may again be forced to dig a little deeper into their pockets.

The Greyhound Bus Lines, which says it is losing $2.1 million annually on Bay Area commuter service, yesterday asked the California Public Utilities Commission for a blanket fare increase and the elimination of cheaper prices on commuter books.

MARIN FARES

This is what the increase would mean to Marinites who commute to San Francisco:

From Sausalito and Marin City, the fare would rise from 55 cents to 60 cents. From the area between Mill Valley and Larkspur, the cost would go up from 70 cents to 75 cents.

The trip from San Rafael or anywhere within the Ross Valley, now costing 85 cents, would increase to 90 cents. The area within the Terra Linda and Hamilton Air Force Base stops, now priced at 90 cents, would go up to 95 cents.

10-CENT HIKE

Ten-cent hikes would come in the Ignacio area where the fare is now $1, and in Novato, where the fare would increase from $1.05 to $1.15.

Under the company proposal, commuters would pay these same fare rates for 20-ride ticket books, good indefinitely.

The company said the hikes would cut its $2.4 million loss throughout the state in half.

If granted, this would be the second Greyhound fare increase in less than a year. Last December, the PUC granted the company a 7 per cent across-the-board rate-hike.

Greyhound also wants to establish a 20-ride book with the price based exactly on 10 round-trip fares. These new tickets would be usable any time.

PRO-RED PAPERS ORDERED CLOSED

Suspension Of Two Papers Comes On Eve Of South Vietnam's Presidential Election

SAIGON (UPI)—The Saigon government announced the indefinite suspension today of two Vietnamese newspapers as this nation at war prepared to vote Sunday for a president and other leaders.

A government communique said the two papers, the second and third shut down in the last six weeks, published articles favorable to the Communists.

Only hours before, Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu assured President Johnson's 22 election observers that his government favored freedom of press.

MILITARY CRITICS

Both newspapers — Than Chung (Sacred Bell) and Sang (Morning) —have been critical of the military government and have favored civilian tickets opposing the military in Sunday's elections.

The government said both papers published articles "damaging to national prestige" and provided propaganda for the Communists. Than Chung was closed down once before this year for publishing articles "against the war . . . and the army."

The Saigon Military regime, which lifted press censorship six weeks ago under American pressure, earlier closed down the newspaper Dan Chu (Democracy) after a staff member was arrested by police on charges of being a Communist agent.

The papers were closed on the eve of voting that Washington hoped would be a turning point toward peace.

NO ILLUSIONS

As the hour neared for the opening of the polls, Thieu declared that he had "no illusions that this election will solve all our political problems, but it is a significant step towards the right goal."

In a meeting with the American delegation of poll watchers Thieu said his government had ensured freedom of the press and freedom of association. He said these steps brought the government harsh criticism.

Thieu, installed in office along with Premier Nugyen Cao Ky by a coup two years ago, was expected to win as the military's candidate and then call for a new pause in the bombing of North Vietnam.

Almost six million South Vietnamese prepared to elect a president, a vice president and 60 senators at some 8,000 polling places, many guarded by American soldiers and a few watched by 22 observers appointed by President Johnson.

Hand grenades burst and sniper fire echoed in some sections of Saigon. Viet Cong mines placed in roads to discourage voters from traveling to the polls took at least 72 lives.

Sleeping Marines Wounded

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong terrorists rampaging on national election eve attacked slumbering U.S. Marines and Da Nang armed with rockets today. They stormed a provincial capital and blew up three packed buses to send Vietnamese civilian casualties in a week of fright-mongering well past 1,000.

American GIs in South Vietnam were warned the Communists had supplied street vendors and shops with booby-trapped cigarette lighters, fountain pens, candy bars and clocks in another plot to disrupt and discourage Sunday's presidential voting.

BITTER COMBAT

U.S. spokesmen said the guerrillas invaded Tam Ky, capital of Quang Tin province 360 miles northeast of Saigon, and battled government workers, Popular Force home guards and teen-aged youths in bitter combat.

The Viet Cong killed four defenders, wounded six others and destroyed 14 homes before withdrawing, leaving five Communist dead behind.

In the air war, U.S. warplanes bombed communications links and antiaircraft sites in North Vietnam during 119 missions today. There were no reports of American planes lost.

LOSSES UNKNOWN

U.S. officials said the Communists launched a ground attack against a Marine position 15 miles west of Da Nang, getting close enough to use hand grenades. Reports reaching Saigon said some guerrillas penetrated the outpost but losses were undetermined.

American officials released figures accounting for 853 Vietnamese civilians killed, wounded or kidnaped by the Viet Cong from last Sunday through Friday. The figures did not include today's casualties which logged 91 dead or wounded in the bus explosions.

Military spokesmen updated American aircraft losses over North Vietnam to 670, giving no indication where, when or how the one plane not previously reported went down.

One Marine was killed and 38 wounded when 140mm Communist rockets crashed into six billets at the Leathernecks' 4th Logistic Command post five miles from Da Nang.

Union Selects Strike Target; Critical Talks

DETROIT (UPI) —The United Auto Workers resumed a long weekend of crisis negotiations today after picking Ford Motor Co. as the "target" for some of the most extensive contract demands ever sought by the union.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther led his showdown bargainers back to the table at Ford headquarters at 10:11 a.m. EDT for a continuation of the last-ditch talks he began last night just hours after fingering Ford as the strike target.

After the late meeting, Reuther and Malcolm L. Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations, agreed little had been accomplished in the first night session, which came only five days before the present contract expires.

Denise said much of the session was taken up by Reuther's abusing the company. He said the outlook for a settlement was not much different from when the negotiators walked in to begin the crisis bargaining.

Reuther agreed. He said the meeting, the first he had taken charge of since negotiations began July 10, made no real progress "in resolving the differences between the company's position and our position."

The fundamental problem in the discussions is "the right of Ford workers and their families to share in the increased productivity and profitability of the company," Reuther said.

Reuther charged Ford with "penny pinching" in small areas such as the refusal to pay $3 a month into Medicare for retired workers over 65.

Reuther was asked if a strike against Ford would be "selective," permitting Ford's $375 million a year defense operation to continue running.

Ambulance Service Balks At Day-To-Day Operation Order

United Ambulance Service of San Rafael chopped off all police call emergency service in Marin County at 8 a.m. today, saying it cannot operate on the "day-on, day-off" basis ordered Tuesday by the board of supervisors.

The company will continue to provide emergency service on a private basis, owner and operator Richard Angotti said today.

United's action gives all police emergency calls, processed through the Marin County Communications Department, to Marin's newest ambulance service, Doctors Ambulance Ltd.

The board of supervisors Tuesday directed that every other day, starting at 8 a.m., one of the two ambulance services will get all calls unless it is completely tied up. In such a case, the other service would be called.

Kenneth M. Hale, partner in Doctors Ambulance, told the Independent-Journal that United, by its refusal to operate on the basis set by the supervisors, is "trying to put us out of business."

"This is strictly a move on Angotti's part to try to strangle me and he's doing it at the expense of the Marin County citizens," added Hale. Hale declared that United "pulled a thing like this before on Cal-Marin (ambulance service)" but said, "If he thinks he'll put us out of business, he's got another think coming."

Denying this charge flatly, Angotti said, "This is absolutely false. This is not our intention whatsoever.

"We know," said Angotti, "what it takes to operate a successful ambulance service. Let him (Hale) produce a past record for successful ambulance service."

Alan Barrows, assistant county administrator, who worked with the two ambulance companies, the communications department and police on the new schedule, could not be reached today for comment on what the county plans to do as a result of the situation.

Yesterday he said: "The only thing the county is interested in is getting ambulances in the fastest possible time."

Angotti explained that he can operate on a month-on, month-off schedule which is "practical" from the standpoint of getting personnel and scheduling them. He said he does not like the new set-up. "From my standpoint, I won't approve of it."

Angotti said the decision was forced upon his company by Barrows. Angotti also said that he is able to get part-time help by hiring men from Hamilton Air Force Base. This works out on a month-on, month-off basis but not on a day-on, day-off basis, he said.

Hale, whose partner is Allied Ambulance Inc. in Alameda County, has been in business one week today, serving an area south of Marinwood, west to the San Geronimo Valley and south to the Golden Gate Bridge. Hale reported he has been loaned men and equipment from all over the Bay Area to get his company in service.

United Ambulance, with offices in San Rafael and at Alto, has been in business 12 years, serving the whole county. Angotti has also operated the San Francisco Ambulance Service for the same period.

A County Communications Department spokesman said there had been no effect of United Ambulance's decision before noon today since there had been no calls for ambulances.

Ex-Novato Physician Sues For $5 Million

A former Novato pediatrician, accused of cheating Marin County out of welfare funds, asserted yesterday a "personal society" of Marin physicians and hospital officials blocked his right to practice.

Dr. Henry Chaker, a native of Lebanon, asked $5 million damages in a suit filed in Marin Superior Court.

Among the defendants are Dr. John C. Siemens, administrator of Ross General Hospital, and former Marin General Hospital Administrator William W. Turner.

Chaker alleged the group prevented him from treating patients, excluded him from their "personal society," and taunted him as an Arab. Chaker is a naturalized American citizen.

Other defendants are Drs. Robert L. Mills, Donald C. Barbour and T. Scott Strathairn, all of San Rafael; Thomas P. Lowry of Kentfield, Arthur R. Ablin of Greenbrae, Leo A. Wagner, medical consultant to the county public social services department; John T. Korn of Novato, John McGee of Ross, and Robert F. Schell.

In filing the suit, Chaker, through attorney Lynn S. Carman, asked Judge Joseph L. Wilson to dismiss the charges against him. Wilson postponed a decision until Sept. 11.

Chaker charges the defendants in December, 1965, physically prevented him from treating one of his patients at the hospital by forming a "semi-mob" at the hospital, then daring him to "run their gauntlet."

He said they taunted him with statements including, "We will send you to jail or to Napa Hospital (for the insane) if you try to come here again," and told him they controlled the sheriff and the press.

Later that month, his suit adds, the defendants again prevented his treating a patient at the hospital, and caused his temporary staff privileges there to be revoked. Chaker further complains the defendants conspired to prevent him practicing unless he underwent psychiatric treatment, and tried to "find something" against him "to get rid of him."

As a result of these pressures, his suit states, he withdrew his applications for permanent staff

Nigeria Sends Soviet-Built Jets Against Rebel Warriors

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—Soviet and Czech-built jets today pressed the federal government's atack against breakaway Eastern Region rebels in Nigeria's civil war. The advantage of air power could bring a swift end to the conflift that began July 6.

Federal spokesmen announced Friday that recently purchased Soviet MIG15s bombed three airfields in rebel-held territory Monday and Thursday.

The Eastern Region, led by Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, declared independence May 30 and called itself the Republic of Biafra. Civil war broke out in Africa's most populous state five weeks later.

The announcement of the use of Soviet-built planes came as Radio Enugu, the voice of the Biafran capital, reported new ground action in three towns.

The broadcast said rebel troops were advancing deeper into the Western Region after a "difficult" battle with federal troops at Ore, a key Western Region highway junction twon about 100 miles east of the federal capital of Lagos. Radio Enugu reported other fighting at the Northern Region town of Ok Enne and the Midwestern port town of Burutu.

The rebels captured the Midwest Region capital of Benin and marched on the Western Region and the federal district of Lagos. The federal district is within the Western Region.

Season's First Tropical Storm Poses No Threat

MIAMI (UPI)—The season's first tropical storm, Arlene, limped toward the barren north Atlantic today slowly losing her punch.

Arlene, generating 55-mile-an-hour winds, posed no threat to the U.S. mainland.

Navy reconnaissance planes fixed the storm's position about 475 miles east of Bermuda and moving northwesterly at about 17 miles an hour, fanning gale force winds for about 150 miles.

Little change in the storm's intensity was forecast for the next 24 hours, although weathermen expected it to take a more northerly course.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Mechanics of Laws Paying Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government indirectly will help insurance companies cover some of their riot losses this year because of the mechanics of income tax laws.

The Internal Revenue Service says payments made by insurance companies to cover claims are part of the cost of doing business and can be deducted for income tax purposes.

This has the effect of reducing the income subject to taxes and thus the total amount of tax to be paid.

The corporate tax rate is now 48 per cent, but like individuals, corporations don't pay taxes on everything they take in.

An individual, IRS noted, can deduct for federal income tax purposes the amount paid in state income taxes. An IRS spokesman compared an individual's state tax payments— and deductions—to the payments by insurance companies of claims by policyholders in riot-hit areas.

But he emphasized there's no provision in the Internal Revenue Code for it to pay money directly to insurance companies to cover riot damage.

James L. Bentley, Georgia insurance commissioner and president of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, said in Atlanta earlier this week that in some cases the federal government will pay as much as 48 per cent of recent riot losses through income tax refunds to insurance companies.

To Rejoin Fallen Comrades

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Marcus Reno will rejoin his fallen comrades on the battlefield of the Little Big Horn in Montana next Saturday, 91 years after the massacre known as Custer's last stand.

Remains of the Army officer, who died 78 years ago, will be taken from Washington to the Custer National Battlefield for reburial.

Reno was accused and later cleared of charges of cowardice in that legendary fight. But he was later dishonorably discharged from the Army for conduct unbecoming an officer.

This summer—acting on a petition by Maj. Reno's grandnephew—an Army board of review exhonerated him and made it possible for him to be buried with honor in Custer National Battlefield, with Custer and more than 200 of the soldiers who died with him.

Reno's remains will be removed from an unmarked grave in Washington's Glenwood Cemetery and transferred to Montana.

Windfall Must Be Given Back

CHAMBLEE, Ga. (AP) — Five children must give back $19,635.51 they found Friday in a suitcase in the woods.

The suitcase, said 10-year-old Larry Ledbetter, "was just under some leaves." He said he and four friends ran yelling "we're rich, we're rich" to his home.

The suitcase was dumped on the floor amid a shower of bills, silver, traveler's checks and one treasury bond.

The FBI said the money was part of $23,000 stolen July 27 from the Bank of Gray, Ga., when four men fled with the loot stuffed in two pillowcases.

Mrs. James D. Ledbetter commented: "What an experience— all that money lying on my kitchen floor."

"We've been trying to explain to our son that although he found the money, he couldn't keep it," she added. "I think he understands now."

Eartha Collapses

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Actress-singer Eartha Kitt collapsed last night during a performance of the pre-Broadway musical "Peg" and was rushed to a hospital in this suburban Washington community.

A hospital spokesman said Miss Kitt was "having back troubles," but would not elaborate. She was said to be in satisfactory condition.

Kidnaping Ban

NUORO, Sardinia (UPI)— Italian federal police reinforcements were ordered to Sardinia today to combat the upsurge of kidnapings in the past month.

More than 20 killings and nine major kidnapings this year have made Sardinia's traditional banditry a challenge to the authority of the Italian state.

Filing Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Permission is being sought again by Southern Pacific to discontinue the Lark, overnight train between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The petition was filed yesterday with the State Public Utilities Commission which earlier had denied a similar request.

A Hefty Bite

ROSEMEAD, Calif. (AP) — Burglars who entered Dr. Herbert Finley's office are prepared now to put the bite on somebody else.

They absconded with 512 sets of porcelain false teeth, worth about $1,800, police said today.

Bus Fatalities

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UPI)— Nine persons were killed and 29 injured yesterday when a bus and minibus collided on a bridge near Burdur in southwest Anatolia, police said.

Driver Charged With Violation

Ray C. Veal Jr., 20, of 35 Carmelita Avenue, Mill Valley, was cited early yesterday for failure to drive on the right half of the roadway after he allegedly drove his car into another driven by a San Francisco man.

The accident happened on California Avenue in Tamalpais Valley. Veal told California Highway Patrol officers he swerved to avoid an animal.

Driver of the other car was Herman Reinberg, 69. His passenger, Gerta Reinberg, also of San Francisco, suffered cuts on her knees and right arm, and said she bumped her head on the windshield. She said she would see her doctor.

New Viet Deputy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Maj. Gen. Raymond L. Murray is the new deputy commanding general of the 76,000 Marines in Vietnam.

Murray, a much-decorated World War II and Korean War veteran, was named yesterday to succeed Maj. Gen. Herman Nickerson Jr., as second in command of the Third Marine Amphibious Force.

Nickerson will be reassigned to Marine Corps headquarters in Washington.

Rifle Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fast-firing M16 rifle, highly criticized for its reputed tendency to jam during Vietnam combat action in Vietnam, was given a stamp of approval yesterday by the Army when it ordered another $25 million worth.

Under the new contract, the Colt Co. will produce another 245,716 of the weapons. It has already manufactured 704,357 M16s for the Defense Department.

'Twiggy" Program?

PITTSBURGH (AP) — In a speech to the Young Americans for Freedom last night, Republican Barry Goldwater drew an analogy between Johnson administration programs and Twiggy, the wspy young British model.

"I call them Twiggy programs," he said, "They look good, but there's nothing there."

Lyn Allergic

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Luci Johnson Nugent called her father from Austin, Tex., yesterday to tell him little Lyn is allergic to strained spinach.

But President Johnson was hearing no adverse reports about his 6-week-old grandson.

"I think she (Luci) is allergic to housework," he told newsmen.

Active At 103

HATBORO, Pa. (AP) — She had such a good time at the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition of 1876, she says she hopes to be around for the nation's bicentennial in 1976.

That was the 103rd birthday anniversary wish expressed yesterday by Anna Thorn Newman, a Philadelphian now living at a nursing home.

Shortage Ends

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. Mint Director Eva Adams says the manufacture of proof sets will resume in January.

The proof sets—shiny, uncirculated coins in all five denominations — will be sold $5 per set, she said. Proof sets have not been made since 1964 because of a coin shortage.

Swearing In

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Paul R. Ignatius has been sworn in as the new Secretary of the Navy.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara administered the oath yesterday to Ignatius, who had been assistant secretary of defense for installations and logistics.

Four Injured In Collision; None Serious

Three members of a Ross family and a Fairfax woman suffered minor injuries yesterday when their cars collided near Ross police station on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Police said the accident occurred at 12:10 p.m. at the intersection of Lagunitas Road, when the northbound car, driven by Gay Gale, 16, of 50 Laurel Grove, Ross, turned in front of an oncoming vehicle driven by Beatrice Lust of 167 Ridgeway Road, Fairfax.

Miss Gale and her 15-year-old sister, Wendy, were treated at Marin General Hospital for minor cuts, while their mother, Gertrude Gale, 52, was admitted for treatment of a broken right leg. She was reported in good condition today.

Sargis Plea Date Is Rescheduled

Plea entry of Samson Sargis, 42, charged with child-stealing, was continued yesterday in Marin Municipal Court until Sept. 15 at 1:30 p.m.

Sargis, a merchant marine, is accused of taking his son, Gabril, 5, from the ex-wife and mother, Mrs. Lila Sargis of Homestead Valley, on April 21.

RIOT SCENE — Police in Milwaukee rush civil rights marchers in an attempt to carry out Mayor Henry Maier's decree against demonstrators. At least 13 were injured when police broke up the march last night by using riot clubs and tear gas. (AP Wirephoto)

DRY MARTINI OLIVE COSTS LIKELY TO SOAR

CORNING (AP) — Because of California's wet spring, the olive in your dry martini might cost just a little bit more this year, state agricultural officials indicated today.

The crop in the Corning area, north of Sacramento, is expected to be the worst ever, said Wally Schreader, an olive specialist for the University of California. Corning is one of the state's major olive-producing areas.

The Corning area crop is estimated to run about 1,000 tons this year compared with 9,000 tons in 1965 and 6,000 tons last year.

The wet spring prevented the olive trees from pollinating properly and the olives didn't develop as they should have, Schreader and olive industry officials said.

Statewide, the crop was expected to be only about 10,000 tons compared with a normal 45,000 to 50,000.

Cathedral Candlesticks Back In Place

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A pair of crystal and gold candleof Grace Cathedral today after two police inspectors let the word out to underworld contacts that the stolen items were "too hot to handle."

The candleholders — one an antique wrought of gold and crystal and the other a copy — sticks were back on the altar the Chapel of Grace last April 18. Together they were worth $500.

Police inspectors Eugene Fogarty and Eugene Osuna, assigned to the case, made it clear they would never give up until the thief returned the candlesticks.

On Wednesday things began to happen. A letter postmarked Los Angeles informed the inspectors the candlesticks were in a basement locker at the Hilton Hotel. On Thursday another envelope arrived containing the key to the locker.

Pair Cited For Climbing Span

The Golden Gate Bridge is to look at and to drive and walk over, but the California Highway Patrol does not appreciate persons who climb on it.

That's why a Mill Valley youth and a Honolulu girl were cited yesterday by patrolmen who spotted them at 3:15 p.m. sitting in the safety net below the north end of the bridge. They were just "taking some camera shots," said the youth, Dennis M. Quinn, 19, of 102 Del Casa Drive.

His companion on the perch more than 100 feet above Fort Baker was Juliana Renshaw, 18.

The pair had parked below the bridge tower and climbed up a ladder, officers said.

Police Storm Church To Halt Rights March

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Police, caught in a barrage of bottles and bricks minutes after cracking down on a forbidden civil rights march last night, rushed a Roman Catholic school yard and showered it with tear gas.

The police sweep that sent tear gas filtering into the buildings of St. Boniface parish climaxed a night of racial tension that resulted in 13 injuries and 14 arrests. A spectator collapsed and died of natural causes, authorities said.

PRIEST ARRESTED

Among those arrested was Rev. James E. Groppi, a white assistant pastor at St. Boniface, a parish in the heart of the Inner Core, where most of Milwaukee's 86,000 Negroes live.

Father Groppi, who led the attempted march from St. Boniface, is adviser to the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

It was the second straight night in which the priest was arrested and the third night in which police have broken up a youth council demonstration that defied a ban by Mayor Henry Maier.

The ban on nighttime demonstrations, originally in effect for 30 days, was declared Wednesday after two nights of violence that accompanied youth council marches into masses of heckling whites on the predominantly Polish South Side. The mayor decided Friday to lift the ban beginning at 9 a.m. today.

RALLY CLIMAX

The tension is expected to reach a climax with a rally today that Father Groppi said may attract Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Negro comedian Dick Gregory; Floyd McKissick, head of the Congress of Racial Equality, and H. Rap Brown, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

No decision has been made as to where they would march but trouble is expected if they decided to return to South Side.

Friday night's march toward youth council headquarters, destroyed by fire Tuesday night, began after a delay of more than four hours while lawyers tried in vain to get a temporary restraining order blocking the mayor's ban.

"We're going to walk in our black neighborhhod and no power on earth is going to stop us," said Father Groppi to the demonstrators assembled inside the playground. "They'll have to kill us to stop us."

Police began massing at the end of the street as the marchers filed out of the playground.

Police, advancing in a solid phalanx, met the demonstration head on and stopped it, using their nightsticks.

One Negro was thrown onto the fender of a car and disappeared under a pile of blue uniforms. Another was thrown to the ground. "Get the handcuffs on him!" a policeman shouted.

Other demonstrators sat down on the lawn of North Division High School, adjacent to the parish.

CRIES IN NIGHT

The air bristled with cries. Soon the rocks and bottles began flying out of the darkness—seemingly from all directions. Police ducked behind their cars.

The Rev. Michael T. Neuberger said the bottles didn't come from the church grounds. "I don't know where they were coming from but it certainly wasn't from here," he said. "The people over here were just standing, watching."

Police Chief Harold A. Breier said he arrived after the tear gas was fired. He had no comment on the police action.

But, the chief said, "You can't violate the law. You can't defy authority."

Father Groppi saw solace in the tear gas. "That tear gas did us a lot of good," he said. "When people suffer together, it unites them."

Dumke Against Any 'Charges' For Students

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Glenn H. Dumke, chancellor of the California state college system, has warned against raising charges to college students to the point where they would be a financial barrier.

Speakingg yesterday, one day after the University of Caifornia Regents voted to impose a "charge" on university students Dumke said that, whatever its name, charges "represent an additional hurdle standing between the student and a college education and a more siginificant role as a citizen."

Though the regents can set the amount of the university charge, the legislature is responsible for setting charges to students at the 19-campus state college system.

Dumke, speaking to the executive committee of the statewide college Academic Senate, reminded that the policy of the state colleges has been "to keep direct costs to students at an absolute minimum."

Marks' Costs For Election

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Sen.-elect Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, shelled out $122,034 in campaign funds to defeat Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, it was disclosed yesterday.

Documents filed with the Registrar of Voters office showed Marks spent $578 from his own pocket while his campaign committee came up with $121,456.

Marks defeated Burton 106,-767-100,694 in the Aug. 15 election to fill the Senate seat left vacant by the death J. Eugene McAteer, D-San Francisco.

Burton has until Sept. 19 to file his campaign funds statement.

Old Dollar Bills Profit Being Missed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a speculative furor, many Americans apparently are missing or ignoring a chance to turn a profit on old dollar bills.

Treasury officials said almost $8 million worth of silver certificates — bills backed by silver—have been retired since July 1 but only $4.7 million were redeemed for silver, which can be sold on the open market at a higher price.

The rest were retired through the normal money circulation process and sent to the Treasury by Federal Reserve Banks.

Some speculators are offering 20 and 30 cents on the dollar to buy silver certificates—paper money issued from 1929 to the early 1960s. They then redeem the certificates for Treasury silver at the rate of $1.29 an ounce and sell the silver at the higher market price—now above $1.60.

During July, officials said, $2.24 million worth of certificates were retired but only $1.16 million worth actually were redeemed for silver.

For August, $5.67 million worth of silver certificates were retired through Aug. 29—the last date for which figures are available — but only $3.56 million worth were turned in for silver.

Because of this process, the Treasury's stock of free silver—the amount not backing silver certificates—actually increased by about 3 million ounces on Aug. 29 when the latest batch of retirements showed up in the figures.

This raised the stock of free silver to 103.9 million ounces.

The government is selling 2 million ounces weekly and bids accepted Friday ranged up to about $1.64 an ounce, that compared with more than $1.80 an ounce brought on the open market in July after the Treasury abandoned its policy of holding the price at $1.29 an ounce to protect the coinage.

The Treasury still redeems silver certificates at $1.29 an ounce and plans to do so until next June 24.

As of last Tuesday, the government estimated there was $389.7 million worth of silver certificates in circulation.

Arabs Decide Oil, Not War, Most Important

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Arab chiefs came home from their summit today in agreement to stop plotting war against Israel and concentrate instead on the simple economics of selling oil, their nation's livelihoods.

A final communique from the Arab summit in Khartoum, the Sudan, yesterday showed how far the "moderate" attitude toward the Middle East war had penetrated the Arab camp.

IN CAIRO

Iraqi President Abdel Rahman Aref was in Cairo today for talks with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser. Aref was flying to Algiers later to meet Algerian President Houari Boumedienne, the Arab militant who declined to attend the summit in person and urged a guerrilla-type war against Israel.

Informed sources said Aref likely would go to Damascus from Algiers to talk with Syrian President Noureddin al Atassi. Syria, the other staunch Arab militant, boycotted the summit altogether.

The Arab summit had been billed as a conference to decide how to "eliminate the consequences of Israeli aggression" and to adopt measures against Israel's Western "friends" such as America and Britain.

OIL STATUS

Some were demanding that all Arab oil shipments to the United States, Britain and West Germany be stopped. While the conference was in session, Algeria nationalized five U.S. oil firms and told the Arabs they should follow its lead.

During the summit it became apparent the Arabs were leaning toward a "moderate" stand. There were unofficial reports Nasser was advocating a "political" settlement of the war instead of a military one.

Only when the final communique was issued Friday did it become apparent how far the Arabs were willing to go to achieve a "political" settlement. The summit decided to send oil once again to the United States, Britain and West Germany. The World "war" did not appear in the communique.

HELP COMES

The oil-producing states of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Libya agreed to help bail out Egypt and Jordan from losses they suffered in the June war against Israel at a cost of $378 million. Even militant Syria was given $14 million to help pay for its losses.

Nasser and Saudi Arabia's King Faisal agreed on a plan to end the 5-year-old Yemeni civil war. Yemeni President Abdullah al Sallal rejected the agreement. The fact remained that Nasser and Faisal formerly arch rivals, had agreed on a peace plan.

Nasser insisted on keeping the Suez Canal closed. But he also led the delegates away from anti-Israeli sloganeering into acceptance of a soft line policy.

Commission Size To Be Discussed

The Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Commission will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the city manager's office in city hall.

The commission will resume discussion of whether to have seven or five members. Three applications to be heard are a plan review for the Odd Fellows at 142 Throckmorton Avenue, a sign review for the Norge Laundry at 393 Miller Avenue, and a sign review and variance for Chicken Delight at 389 Miller Avenue.

OBJECT: 'CHARLIE'

Marin GI Writes Home About War

"From here you can hear the big guns from the DMZ blasting away at night," a young San Rafael paratrooper wrote anxiously from Vietnam.

"Our mission is to clean up and give assistance to the Marines. From landing zone 'Montezuma,' we made an air assault to an old artillery battery in the mountains where we have been rebuilding every day . . .

"Tomorrow we are leaving here because there isn't enough action. We are going to someplace hotter."

Pfc. John W. Walton, 20, of 8 Woodlands Place, wrote this in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Walton, on Aug. 8.

The next day, Walton and the men in his outfit — A Co., Second Platoon, 8th Battalion, 1st Cavalry Division — were awakened early. They stepped briskly to helicopters.

"We took off for our first real air assault in that area," wrote Walton Aug. 9. He had been in Vietnam less than four months.

"We knew Charlie was around but not like we got it. The first choppers went in under small sniper fire (but that happened everytime we made an air assault.)

"As more and more choppers dropped us off, the more firing (sniper) there was. I was on the 18th ship so you can guess what we were landing in.

"Instead of my M-16, I had an M-79 grenade launcher, which looks something like a single-shot shotgun. We jumped out of the choppers and, like everyone else, we were immediately pinned down by sniper fire.

"I was firing my M-79 trying to knock out the SOB's and guys around me were dropping like flies. One of our machine guns to my right was hit with a mortar. He was about 20 feet from me."

At this moment, a sniper's bullet hit Walton in the neck and jaw.

"I called the medic and he was right by me. He put a bandage on me and went on to help the others. I took my '79' ammo back a few feet and got it to the other '79' men who could see the (enemy) bunkers.

"I didn't have much pain; it was just the knowledge of my jaw . . . I was still between everyone and the sniper so I used my .45 pistol for cover and crawled toward the machine gun that had been hit . . .

"I was up there for more than three hours before the medi-vac helicopter could get in to us. We lost seven men and had 22 wounded. Charlie was really waiting for us."

Walton lay in a Yokohama, Japan, hospital yesterday, recovering from his wounds.

His father said his son expects to return to Vietnam.

membership at the hospital. It estimates he would have earned $2 million during the rest of his life as a doctor, and suffered $2 million in mental anguish.

The suit asks the $4 million total in general damages, and an additional $1 million punitive damages.

Chaker is accused of one count of grand theft by overbilling county welfare patients and three counts of presenting claims for "throat cultures" on county-referred patients who never received the treatment.

He contended the three counts of presenting false claims are not violations under the penal code section charged because they allege the doctor sent the claims to the board of supervisors. Actually, said Carman, the doctor sent them to California Physicians Service.

He also argued that a search warrant issued by Judge Wallace W. Cox of Solano Municipal Court was illegal and evidence gained through the search should not be used in prosecution.

The warrant resulted in obtaining of medical records at the Vallejo home of Dr. Chaker's father, Albert Chaker, investigators said.

Chaker had offices at 1305 Grant Avenue, Novato, for two years until March of 1966.

AUTO

The outlook for a long walkout if no agreement is reached by midnight on Wednesday was evident as Reuther announced earlier yesterday the union's choice of Ford as the target.

General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. would be allowed to continue their operations even if Ford is struck, Reuther said. But at a UAW meeting just before his official announcement, the union chief left little doubt he expects to take Ford's 152,000 UAW members out of the plants when the present contract expires.

Attorney In Slaying Case Withdraws

UKIAH (UPI)—A second defense attorney has been given permission to withdraw as counsel for one of two Washington teen-agers accused of killing a district attorney's son.

Mendocino County Superior Court Judge Wayne Burke relieved attorney Leo Cook of defending Thomas Braun, 18, of Odessa, Wash. Cook told the judge that he and his wife were acquainted with Lake County Dist. Atty. Davis L. Luce.

Braun and Leonard Maine, also 18, of Ritzville, Wash., were accused of killing Timothy Luce, 18, near Hopland, on Aug. 21.

The victim's girlfriend, Susan Bartolomei, 17, was kidnaped, raped, shot and wounded and tossed from a car in Tuolumne County. She has been in critical condition at a Sonora hospital since the crime.

Braun and Maine were also charged with abducting and assaulting Miss Bartolomei.

A public defender had been appointed to defend Braun but he also asked to be disqualified on grounds he knew Luce's father.

A hearing for the suspects was delayed until next Thursday to allow appointment of an attorney Braun.

Attorney Newell Rawles of Ukiah, Maine's counsel, protested Cook's refusal to represent Braun as being prejudicial to his client.

Mink Coat One Of Items Stolen

A burglar who pried open a sliding glass door stole a mink stole, jewelry, watch and cash from the home of Fred F. Enemark of 170 Main Drive, San Rafael, during daylight Thursday, police reported.

Mrs. Enemark discovered the burglary on returning home after a two-hour absence. No estimate of the value of the stolen items was available.

Elvina V. Morosi of 11 Manderly Road, San Rafael, reported Thursday to police that a gold pin and coins worth $275 were stolen from her home while she went shopping for an hour in the afternoon. Entry apparently was through an unlocked kitchen window, police said.

Youths Put In Juvenile Hall

Three juveniles were placed in Marin County Juvenile Hall after Sonoma County sheriff's deputies said Wednesday they found them in a teen-age "love nest" in Healdsburg with a 17-year-old Army deserter.

The soldier was turned over to Presidio authorities in San Francisco. The teen-agers were a Novato girl, 16, a runaway from Marin County Family Rehabilitation Center; a Corte Madera girl, 16; and a Mill Valley boy, 15. No action was taken against the woman who owned the home and was being considered as a foster parent for one of the girls, deputies said.

Drunken Driving Jail Time Set

William Neal Seals, 29, of San Carlos, was given five days in county jail yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

He also was fined $289 and placed on six months probation. San Rafael police arrested him on Woodland Avenue March 26. He had a prior conviction.

Pistol Stolen

Theft of a 7.65 caliber Mauser automatic pistol he got from a German general during World War II was reported Thursday to sheriff's deputies by Robert L. Streere of 5 Circle Road, Los Ranchitos. He said it was missing from a bedroom dresser when he returned from vacation.

WAR

Rockets also hit the air freight section of the sprawling airfield, wounding four Americans and damaging seven cargo planes.

U.S. officials said huge B52 bombers flew three raids today over the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), blasting suspected strongholds of North Vietnamese soldiers menacing American Marines strung along South Vietnam's northern border.

The raids, 13th of the week by the eight-engine jets on the no-man's land, were designed to discourage any Communist blitzkrieg into South Vietnam on election day.

Cancer Executive Resigns New Job

Edward W. Bullard notified members of the Marin chapter of the American Cancer Society yesterday that he will not be able to accept the vice presidency to which he was elected Thursday night.

Named to take Bullard's place is Dan E. Anderson, city manager of San Rafael.

Weekly Needlework Class Is Scheduled

The San Rafael Park and Recreation Department's weekly Needlework Guild for older adults will start Tuesday in the community recreation center, Second and Brooks streets, at 10 a.m., department director Andrew J. Snyder has announced.

Mrs. Estelle Smith is chairman of the program, in which the participants make articles of clothing from donated material and distribute it to organized charities.

Hypodermic Needles Stolen From Home

A box of 100 disposable hypodermic needles was taken from the kitchen cabinet at the home of Maria Annette De Rosa, 2017 Feliz Road, Novato, Mrs. De Rosa reported to police yesterday.

She said the needles, used to treat her son, a diabetic, were found missing between 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and 10:30 a.m. yesterday. Value of the needles is $5.98.

Warm Holiday Weather Seen

Old man sunshine is expected to be smiling down on Marin County throughout the Labor Day weekend.

The weather bureau said patches of clouds and early-morning overcast may appear over most of the Bay Area, but generally warm and sunny weather will prevail.

Temperatures in San Rafael are forecast for the middle 80's.

New Director Decision Due

Should a new director be hired for the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District?

This question will probably come up at the next regular session of the district directors to be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the recreation center, Secretary Cleo D. Murray announced today.

Kevin Ragan, who had been serving temporarily as director, has resigned to return to his teaching duties, Mrs. Murray said.

Worthless Check Charge Dropped

Complaint of passing a worthless check was dismissed in Marin Municipal Court yesterday against William Spores, 34, because of insufficient evidence.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Robert Birkie told Judge David R. Baty that Spores, of Oakland, also has made restitution. He was accused of passing a worthless $202.52 check Aug. 6, 1965, with intent to defraud Marin Lights Inc. of San Rafael.

School Building Architects Selected

The San Anselmo School District Board at a special meeting last night selected architects Schactman and Veliknia of Vallejo to design additions to district schools which will be financed if the district's $950,000 bond issue and 75-cent tax rate increase pass in the Oct. 10 election.

Supt. Stephen L. Parodi said the firm would design additions paid for by those bonds to be sold immediately, about half of the total bond issue.

Concentration Camp Figure Is Found Dead

AICHACH, Germany (UPI)—Ilse Koch, one of the dreaded figures of the Buchenwald concentration camp, hanged herself in her prison cell here, officials said today.

She was serving a life prison term for atrocities committed at the Nazi Buchenwald death camp, where she was married to the commandant. She became known to inmates and survivors as "The Bitch of Buchenwald."

She was sentenced to life in prison by a West German court in 1951 for atrocities committed against camp inmates. One of the charges against her was that she made lampshades from the skin of her victims.

Attempts by lawyers to obtain her release had failed repeatedly.

A prison spokesman said Mrs. Koch, 60, took her life during the night.

She was first sentenced to death by a U.S. military court in 1947, but the sentence was later commuted to four years in jail. A West German court sentenced her to life.

As the wife of Buchenwald commandant SS Col. Karl Koch, she used to stride around the camp in tight-fitting riding breeches, lashing out at inmates with an ox whip.

Her husband was executed by the Nazis in 1944 for corruption.

Los Angeles Is Cooled By Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A sudden downpour, with thunder and lightning, snapped Los Angeles' long dry spell last night.

For 17 minutes, power was off to portions of downtown Los Angeles and Hollywood. The half-hour storm caused street flooding.

The storm also hit the cities of Duarte, La Puente and Azusa and in nearby mountains.

Los Angeles, which had gone without sizable rain since May 9, got .41 inch of rain.

The rain is expected to help clear away a record siege of smog.

An Auto Theft At A Drive-In?

All sorts of things happen in drive-in movies, but a car theft?

Jesse J. Page of 26 Eureka Street, Marin City, reported Thursday night to sheriff's deputies that his car was taken while left unattended for 20 minutes at Motor Movie, San Rafael. He had gone alone to the drive-in, he told deputies, and left it unlocked and with the key in the ignition to find a friend.

His car is a dark green 1958 two-door hardtop convertible, license BFW 390.

Wind Flips Auto, But Driver Unhurt

A Tiburon youth escaped with minor injuries yesterday when his sports car flipped over on Highway 101 near the Waldo tunnel.

The California Highway Patrol reported that, as Mohammed Shamzad, 18, of 106 Howard Drive, Tiburon, changed lanes to avoid a slowmoving vehicle ahead at 11:15 p.m., his lightweight sports car was caught by a gust of wind, swerved and overturned.

Shamzad told patrolmen he would see his own doctor.

Motorists Warned Towing Care Needed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Stranded motorists should not allow anyone to move their disabled cars without a clear agreement of the contract terms, warns the National Automobile Club. According to police, some drivers have lost their cars or been forced to pay exorbitant rates because they failed to read the contract handed them by tow truck operators.

The automobile club says some tow services have been known to prey on stranded, frightened women whose cars were disabled in an accident or stalled with mechanical difficulty.

Entrance Fee To Muir Woods Begins Sept. 15

The National Park Service said yesterday a 50-cent entrance fee to the Muir Woods monument will be charged beginning Sept. 15.

The service said several month ago it would impose an admission charge. A ticket office will be installed inside the main gate.

Children under 16 and groups visiting for educational purposes will be exempt from the charge. The park service is levying similar fees nationwide to provide recreational expansion money.

Reagan To Return To Official Desk Monday Morning

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— Gov. Ronald Reagan returns to his Sacramento desk Monday afternoon after being absent from from the capitol since a July 31 bladderstone operation.

The governor's press office distributed a schedule for the governor yesterday indicating he planned to arrive in the capitol Monday.

Reagan will participate in a "back to school day" ceremony Tuesday and hold his first regularly scheduled news conference in more than a month at 1:30 p.m.

Anchor, Paddles Among Loot Items

Theft of a generator, two canoe paddles and anchor worth $360 from his house boat at Kappas Yacht Harbor, Waldo Point, was reported Wednesday to sheriff's deputies by Joseph J. DeOliviera of Redwood City.

Deputies theorized the thieves came by boat, and that it would have taken at least two men to lower the generator from the houseboat roof.

A $200 gas motor was stolen Monday night from a workshop at Fireside Acres Nursery in Inverness, reported Owen B. Potter, and Bernice Wilkowske of 396 Pinehill Road, Tamalpais Valley, reported Thursday to deputies that a $37 battery was stolen from her car while the vehicle was parked outside her apartment.

Pair Booked On Narcotic Charges

Two 20-year-old Mill Valley youths were booked into county jail early today on suspicion of possession of narcotics and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Robert Charles Drolla, 16 Strawberry Circle, and Robert Anton Nelsen, of 19 Knoll Road, were being held on $5,500 bail apiece. A small package, believed to contain a narcotic was found on the floor of their car, San Rafael police said.

With them when arrested at 5:05 a.m. was a 15-year-old runaway girl from Denver, Colo. The girl, who allegedly had a substance believed to be marijuana in her purse, was booked into juvenile hall.

The trio was stopped on Fourth Street by patrolman Mathew J. Conlin.

Bridge District Sessions Slated

Two committee meetings of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District will be held in the district offices at the toll plaza Wednesday.

The Building and Operating Committee meets at 10:30 a.m., followed by the Joint Employment and Conciliation, Rules and Policy Committee at 2 p.m., according to Helen Jack, district secretary.

Soft Drink Can Hits Child In Novato

Penny M. Bauman, 10, of 1201 Olive Avenue, Novato, was struck with a soft drink can thrown from a passing car at 12:20 p.m. yesterday at Olive Avenue and Second Street, police reported today.

Danny White of the same address reported that the can, tossed from a car in which two juvenile boys were riding, hit Penny's left leg, causing a small cut.

A CEREMONY in Ross united in marriage Roberta Faltin and Peter John Heyman. After the St. John's Church wedding a reception was held at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley for the newlyweds. (Milton Mann photo)

Roberta Faltin Weds Peter John Heyman

Roberta Frances Faltin exchanged wedding vows with Peter John Heyman at St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross in an Aug. 20 ceremony.

A reception followed at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

Roberta recited her vows wearing a gown of peau d'ange lace on white organza with chapel length train.

The attendants wore light blue full length linen dresses and the maid of honor wore a similar gown in lavender. Hope Greenhill was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Donna Schultz, Doris Wasserman, the bridegroom's sister; Merna Strassner and Mrs. Joanna Shafer. Donna is the bride's sister.

Karl Schmid was the best man, and ushers were Donald Sitter, Robert Georges, Robert and Stephen Schultz, the bride's brothers.

The couple will live in Lafayette after a Mendocino wedding trip.

Roberta is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Robert Faltin of San Francisco. She was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and University of California.

Peter is the son of Mrs. Ruth Wasserman of San Francisco and the late Andreas Heyman. He was graduated from Berkeley High School and Chico State College.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A new guide for press chairmen who are interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is now available at the San Rafael main office and Mill Valley, Tiburon and Novato offices of the newspaper.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper" is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for Marin women's organizations.

Features of the guide explain policies of coverage, how to handle news stories and meeting notices, and what pictures are used.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard operator.

PLEAT PACE-SETTER

SEW SIMPLE

Dental Floss Can Secure The Buttons

By EUNICE FARMER

This is the season for buttons, buttons, buttons. Most of them for fall will be metal, which has caused many problems since the metal cuts the thread. Thanks to many of you who have written to me, I am able to pass on the best suggestion yet. Get dental floss for your sewing basket. It is very tough, already waxed, and easy to use. May I also suggest that since these metal buttons are fairly inexpensive, buy one or two extra in case one is lost. It's no fun because of one.

Fall is here, which means getting back to the sewing machine for many of us. New fabrics make new problems, so please send me your questions. Wouldn't this be a perfect time to win one of my tailor trix pressing boards? Send us your little sewing tips; they may be old to you, but new to someone else. You may be one of our lucky weekly winners! Send all questions and suggestions to Eunice Farmer, in care of the Independent-Journal.

DEAR EUNICE FARMER,

I have trouble with my necklines on blouses when I put my suit jacket on. They fit perfectly when the jacket is off, yet when it is on, the blouse appears too large and wrinkles at the front neckline. How can I correct this?—MRS. H.H.

DEAR MRS. H. H.:

This is no fault of the blouse but a common problem, simple to remedy. After your jacket is on, smooth the blouse to each side into the armhole of the suit jacket. It only takes a second and will assure a smooth, well-fitted look.

DEAR EUNICE FARMER,

I have been making blouses for school and my mother thinks I should make the kind of bound buttonholes she makes for her suits and coats. The buttons are so small that I am discouraged and would gladly give up sewing and buy my blouses. Are you a stickler for this bound buttonhole routine?—SUSAN P.

DEAR SUSAN,

Whether you are in school or not, we rarely find bound buttonholes on clothes that are extremely tailored. Blouses, shirt waist dresses, and cotton blazer jackets, will actually look more professional if we use a machine made buttonhole. You usually use more buttons than the average dress or coat, they are small, and not intended to be especially decorative, just functional. Save your strength and energy and use your bound buttonhole skills when working on your better clothes.

DEAR EUNICE FARMER,

My daughter is learning to sew more or less on her own, although I have been helping her some. I realize she will make lots of mistakes before she learns, but don't want to discourage her by hanging over her shoulder constantly.

She is making a wool jumper and cut right up the center where the pattern had been placed on the fold. We tried making a seam but of course it doesn't fit her this way. Can you suggest anything to remedy this?—MRS. M.M.K.

DEAR MRS. M.M.K.:

Your girl's mistake might end up in a complete surprise; there are many ways she can correct her mistake. I would suggest pressing the two cut edges of the jumper onto a piece of press-on tape. If you are afraid this will not hold, machine stitch these edges to the tape. Now the garment will be the correct size.

There are hundreds of ways you can cover the cut edges. You may use a woven braid and edge each side of the braid with various types of trimmings. Another suggestion is to cover the edges with a band of grosgrain ribbon in stripes and finish with a flat bow at the neck.

Perhaps you aren't covering up a mistake, you will probably find your jumpers would be much more interesting if you too would individualize your garment. A band of contrasting color with tiny buttons sewed down the center could be very attractive. Let your imagination go full tilt; this is what makes sewing the fun it is!

For easy-to-follow instructions on bound buttonholes send for Eunice Farmer's free leaflet "Bound Buttonholes." To obtain your free copy send a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal.

Thomas A. Plants Of Sausalito Plan A Welcome-Home Party

By MOLLY MARIN

The Thomas A. Plants of Sausalito have sent really unique invitations to some 250 guests to a welcome-home party on Sept. 15 at the Sausalito Woman's Club honoring their daughter and her husband, the Jack Moshers. Married in April in England, Mardy and Jack, who is the son of the Carl Moshers of Mill Valley, spent their honeymoon touring Europe and just came back to Marin County last month. Covers of the invitations to the party to be held from 7 to 10 p.m. with buffet at 8 p.m., were printed with pictures of the couple and some of the places they visited. Mardy had taken the scenery shots and sent them home for processing so that both of the young people saw them for the first time on the invitations. Some pictures of the couple had been taken by Mardy's uncle in Italy, and one of them was taken at their wedding supper.

SUMMER MAY be almost over, but apparently travel isn't. A number of Belvedere people are poring over maps. The Milton Romeys and Robert Winkelmans will relax at Puerta Vallarta in the late fall. The Romeys are also planning an extended tour of South Africa, including a safari . . . Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bramante will take a trip to Colorado with their daughter, Kathy, who will enter the University of California this fall. The Bramantes will tour the Rockies and visit the Grand Tetons on their way home . . . The Basil Knauths will travel in Spain and throughout North Africa.

ART GUILD EXHIBIT — "Miss Smith, Seated" is one of three paintings by Inez Storer, wife of Marin Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, on exhibit with works by other West Marin artists in the Tomales Bay Art Guild Gallery at Forester's Hall, Point Reyes Station. The exhibit opened yesterday and will close Monday afternoon. The gallery is open from noon to 5 p.m.

ART REVIEW

Strong Exhibit By Art Association

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Just because an art association has a group show, that doesn't mean it has to be a spotty stream of mismatched work. At least the Tomales Bay Artists Guild is presenting a show of West Marin artists that has a refreshing twist.

The scene, Foresters Hall in Point Reyes Station, is usual enough. Paintings and crafts of all types line the walls while panels loaded with the same, plus free-standing sculpture, fill the center floor. The difference is on emphasis.

For once, there are several works by most of the exhibiting artists, giving a chance to sample the depth and scope of techniques and ideas. But even better, there are two very comprehensive one-man shows by Ron Strong and Inez Storer within the group.

For Strong, this is the first major exposure and though his style isn't startling, it is quietly memorable. Using acrylic and glue, his landscapes have a mystic, organic look that is undefined yet identifiable. Working more abstractly, he often washes layers of paint over a finely furrowed surface, the resulting colored ridges having a fine-lined look that is most pleasing. It's an effect he repeats with excellent results in further work in graphite.

Mrs. Storer's approach is quite different — sophisticated, witty and three-dimensional. Combining collage, relief, assemblage and acrylic, she causes her stiff, moon-faced figures to bulge amusingly on several levels and in all the right places. Their awkward poses, the clothes they wear, in fact all the ideas Mrs. Storer relates through them, are nothing short of marvelous. But she backs her originality with an awareness of color and texture that proves her sensitivity as an artist.

Though these two painters give the show its substance, many others add dimension — such as William Drew with his unusual fantasy paintings and Anne Dick, whose extensive jewelry display includes dozens of beautiful items from brooches to a crown.

They also reinforce the special difference in this Tomales Bay Artists Guild exhibit. Even though not featured, these artists display enough pieces to sate an interest only whetted by the one or two pieces usually allotted the group-show exhibitor. It's a very satisfying idea.

Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. through Monday.

Free Speech Hall Policy Is On Agenda

The Mill Valley City Council is scheduled to adopt a "free speech" policy for use of the city council chamber when it meets at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The policy, drawn by city manager, allows any group to use the hall for "any purpose of general interest" to citizens of Mill Valley. Use of the building became an issue last month when Vietnam Summer-Marin held a meeting on the draft.

The council is also to review plans and call for bids on proposed construction of a stage in the municipal golf clubhouse.

The council may award a contract to Charles T. Hover of Day's Island, Novato, for flood control dredging of Arroyo Corte Madera between Camino Alto and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks. Hover was sole bidder at $2,970. Engineering estimate was $3,800.

Resolution On Business Parking Fees On Agenda

The Sausalito City Council will consider a resolution Tuesday to allow city firms to pay parking fees in lieu of providing off-street parking.

The council meets at 8 p.m. in the city council chamber.

Also on the agenda are two planning commission resolutions opposing the proposed second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge and a plan for rapid transit bus lanes on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way.

The council also will discuss the proposed widening of Bridgeway. A public hearing is scheduled on a use permit application by Miramonte Investment Co. for construction of 16 houses at Butte Street and Highway 101.

New Teachers To Be Honored

Forty-two new teachers at Mill Valley schools and Tamalpais High School will be guests at noon Wednesday at the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce's tenth annual welcoming luncheon for new teachers.

Dr. William H. Pemberton, Mill Valley psychologist, will be speaker at the luncheon at Sabella's of Marin.

Other guests will include Southern Marin Supervisor Peter H. Behr, Mill Valley councilmen and Mayor Albert E. White, City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer, Mill Valley and Tamalpais High School boards and officials from both school systems.

Date For Fair

The Marin City Art and Music Fair will be held at 3 p.m. Sept. 10 at St. Andrew's Church, Drake Avenue and Donahue Street. A headline over a story to that effect in yesterday's Independent-Journal incorrectly stated the fair would be tomorrow.

Tax Question Unanswered By The Tamalpais

The Tamalpais Retirement Home has failed to answer the question as to whether it will pay taxes when it opens next year.

A story in the Independent-Journal recently raised the possibility that the $10.5 million home, under construction on Bon Air Hill in Larkspur, may be tax exempt when it opens. The Larkspur City Council subsequently sent a letter to the owners of the Tamalpais seeking clarification on its tax status.

Unless the question is answered, the letter said, the city would begin public hearings to revoke the use permit.

ANSWERS LETTER

Attorney Thomas M. Jenkins of San Francisco, one of the attorneys for the Tamalpais, answered the council's letter yesterday, but his reply did not answer the basic question.

Jenkins said that the Valley Investment Co., with current title to the property, is a taxable organization, and no claim for exemption from taxes has been filed with the city or county. He also said that the Tamalpais is to be "operated" by Ross Valley Homes, Inc., a non-profit corporation.

Dr. John C. Siemens, medical director of the home, told the Independent-Journal earlier this month, however, that Valley Investment no longer owned the Tamalpais. He said Ross Valley Homes is the owner.

DEFENDS ACTION

"We are not aware of any area in which we have failed to conform to your requirement," Jenkins said.

"At this time there have been expenditures approximating $1.5 million in connection with the project in reliance upon an approval of plans," Jenkins added. "Obviously, any delay in construction would cause considerable damage to the project, and the elderly residents who are to be served," he said.

The council had asked for an answer by Wednesday's council session. Since the council met last, the Independent-Journal has discovered that the Tamalpais has applied for a state license as a specialty hospital for patients not limited to Tamalpais residents, although the use permit specifically allows a convalescent hospital exclusively for residents, managers and employees of the Tamalpais.

Zoning Change Of Property On Planning Agenda

Tiburon Planning Commission again will hear Tuesday an application by Robert Rose of Tiburon Properties to change the zoning of his Red Hill property.

The commission meets at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Rose's seven parcels on nine acres of land would only permit seven homesites under the present single-family zoning. He proposes to add three-and-a-quarter acres and asks for the more flexible planned residential zoning. This would allow 14 homesites plus a community recreational area.

The matter has been continued since the June meeting.

A clearer definition of "home occupation" for the zoning ordinance will be discussed, along with a proposed sign ordinance.

Three Boys Told To Paddle Home

Three young Tiburon brothers were told to paddle for the shore by Sheriff's Lt. William Johansen yesterday, who saw the boys 200 feet out in Richardson Bay on a "rickety raft."

Johansen reported he was first told by an unidentified motorist at 1:20 p.m. that the boys were off shore near 700 Tiburon Boulevard.

When the Agajan boys beached their makeshift raft, Noel, 9, Max, 15, and Brannan, 11, were taken home to 694 Hilary Drive, by Johansen.

Fourth Candidate For Fire District

Richard Price of 1 Rowland Court, Novato, is among four persons who have taken out nomination papers to run for two upcoming vacancies on the Novato Fire Commission.

The Independent-Journal yesterday incorrectly listed only three persons as seeking the offices.

MILL VALLEY COUPLE

60th Wedding Anniversary To Be Celebrated Tomorrow

By ALAN JONES

"At our fiftieth, I didn't think I'd ever be around for a sixtieth anniversary," said Mrs. William Roberts Sr.

She was wrong. Monday Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, of 43 Park Avenue, Mill Valley, will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary. They will be guests of honor tomorrow at a dinner given by their children and a small group of friends at Sabella's in Strawberry.

The Roberts', both British-born, seemed highly pleased at the prospect and ready to start on their next 60 years. At 84 and 83 years old, they look as if they might make it, too.

They gave the same advice for a long married life that they gave on their 50th anniversary — "I think married life is just what we have to learn in life . . . give and take," Mrs. Roberts said.

"Raise your children the way you want them. Go to church," she added.

The couple was married in 1907 in Plymouth, England, and moved to Fishguard, Wales, near Swansea on the south coast, where Roberts was a checker for the Great Western Railroad.

Urged on by Mrs. Roberts' sister, who had moved to San Francisco and wrote of construction opportunities there after the 1906 earthquake, they moved to the United States in 1911, where Roberts went to work as a locomotive inspector for the Southern Pacific Railroad.

In 1921 they moved to their Park Avenue house in Mill Valley, where it promptly rained for 29 days in the first month. That was an era when Mill Valley had few sidewalks and not much paving, and the Roberts' recall that their elder daughter complained bitterly of the mud.

Roberts commuted to San Francisco until his retirement in 1953, first by train and ferryboat and later by bus.

"The ferries were better," he said.

The couple has three children, Mrs. H. C. Kindred of Mill Valley, Mrs. C. J. Stewart of Richmond and William Roberts Jr. of Marinwood, and two grandchildren.

Mrs. Roberts is a skilled knitter, her experience going back to her school days. "We knit in school in the old country because we had to," she said, making sweaters and warm stockings against the cold.

At this summer's Sonoma County Fair she won two blue ribbons for her knitting, doubling her feat of last year when she won one blue ribbon.

While rearing her family, she said, she knit all her own daughters' dresses and sweaters. When her son went into service in World War II, she began knitting items for him — and ended up earning a citation from the American Red Cross for knitting more than 1,000 garments for U.S. servicemen.

Mrs. Roberts also crocheted her own dress, an antique gold one, for her 50th anniversary party.

Roberts' hobby is gardening, and it is evident from the abundant blooms around their house that he is skilled at it.

Mrs. Roberts, who still has a trace of British accent and manner of speech, said: "I feel sorry for young people today. We didn't have much but we were more content."

It appears they still are.

Flood Victims Will Have Chance To Air Complaints

San Rafael residents bothered by last winter's flooding will air their complaints before the city council at 8 p.m. Tuesday at city hall.

A petition with 36 signatures has been filed asking the council to rectify the flooding problem in the Billou and Irwin streets area before winter strikes again.

Also up for final approval is an ordinance adding 400 acres to the city along the southerly edge in the San Quentin area. The proposal, which passed first reading Aug. 21, would include land from San Quentin Point to Highway 101.

Supervisor John F. McInnis' arguments for the city-county services committee's proposal for countywide planning will again be taken up. At the council meeting Aug. 21, members decided they wanted more time to consider the plan.

Joins Band Battle

The Milldips, a San Rafael "rock" group, will be among six Bay Area bands participating in a battle of the bands at 4:30 Sunday, at DK's Double Decker in San Francisco.

UNIQUE

This property, comprising a splendid acre retreat, has a private road leading to absolute seclusion, on a sun-drenched knoll with a view of San Francisco Bay. The property has a recently constructed studio, built of concrete blocks, vast in size, and of fascinating design: wood shingles, huge skylights, 30-ft. ceiling. Across an atrium are dining area with a fireplace, a kitchen and a bedroom and bath. Owner has moved to Europe. A sacrifice at $34,000.

GLENWOOD FOREST
Perhaps we are a bit premature, but we have had so many inquiries from people expressing an interest in this beautiful quiet and secluded area, that we have opened a temporary office, and are now taking reservations on the limited number of breathtaking view sites and secluded sites which are encompassed by trees. The new model homes are not built, and the streets are not paved, but the sites are ready. Wear your old clothes because it is dusty. We are sure that when you see this exciting setting, which we feel is outstanding and cannot be duplicated, you will be pleasantly surprised.

Our salesmen will be on the site all day Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 2, 3 and 4. During the following week by appointment. The phone at the site is 454-3768 or call 479-9611 for further information.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
Building Construction and Site Development

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, will receive sealed bids for the furnishing of all labor, materials, transportation, and services required for the construction of the Marin County Fair Building - Veterans Memorial Auditorium at the Marin County Civic Center, Highway 101 and North San Pedro Road, Marin County, California including Site Development.
2. Each bid shall be in accordance with the Drawings, Specifications and Contract Documents prepared therefor, now on file with the Director of Public Works, Administration Building, Marin County Civic Center: William Wesley Peters, Architect, Taliesin Associated Architects; Aaron G. Green, Architect Associated. The drawings for Site Development are as prepared by the Marin County Department of Public Works.
3. Drawings, Specifications and Contract Documents may be examined at the office of Aaron G. Green, AIA, 319 Grant Avenue, San Francisco, California, at the office of the Director of Public Works of Marin County and at the office of Alexander Boome, Mechanical and Electrical Engineer, 439 Tasso Street, Palo Alto, California.
4. Bidders wishing to bid are requested to contact the office of Aaron G. Green, 982-7398, so that drawings may be reserved.
5. Site Development work plans and specifications may be obtained from the Marin County Department of Public Works or from the Architect. Site Development Drawings will be issued approximately two weeks after original advertising date.
6. Three complete sets of Drawings and Specifications may be obtained by each bidder at the Office of Aaron G. Green upon deposit of $75.00 per set (Building Construction, Site Development and Stage Equipment).
7. Deposit will be refunded if bidder returns documents in good, usable condition, with added marks erased, within 10 days after bid opening.
8. Additional sets of prints or individual prints of individual drawings or sections of specifications may be purchased via your order to the Royal Blueprint Company, 70 Fremont Street, San Francisco, California.
9. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished by the County of Marin, in accordance with regulations as set forth in "Instructions to Bidders", and shall be accompanied by certified check or bid bonds, as specified in Instructions to Bidders.
10. Bids including subcontractor listing, alternates, and unit prices for Building Construction and Site Development shall be sealed and filed with the County Clerk, Chamber of the Board of Supervisors, Administration Building, Marin County Civic Center, on or before 4:00 p.m. P.D.T., September 26, 1967, and will be opened and read publicly at that time.
11. The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids or unit prices, waive any irregularities in any bid and to contract work with whomever, and in whatever manner it may determine. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of 45 days after the date set for the opening thereof.
12. All Bidders and Subcontractors shall be licensed at the time of bid date by the Contractor's State License Board of the State of California to perform the work herein described.
13. A bond will be required for the faithful performance of the Contract in an amount of not less than 100% of the amount of the bid, and a bond will be required to guarantee the payment of wages for services engaged and all bids contracted for materials used in the performance of the contract in an amount of not less than 50% of the bid.
14. Bidders are hereby notified that pursuant to the Statutes of the State of California, or local law thereto applicable, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute this contract. The prevailing rates so determined are based on an 8 hour day, 40 hour week, except as otherwise noted. Existing agreement between the Building Trades and the Construction Industry groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.
15. WAGE SCALE
Summary
This section lists the minimum wages that may be paid on work on this project, in conformance with the Statutes of the State of California.
SCHEDULE EXPLANATION
a. The prevailing rates are based on an 8 hour day, 40 hour week. Existing agreements between the Building Trades and Construction Industry Groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.
b. Verification and further inquiries with respect to these rates and for classifications or trades not listed should be made at the Building and Trade Council, Marin County, California.
c. The wage scale is kept current by the Building and Trades Council as changes are reported from time to time. The following rates were reported on July 1, 1967.
d. The attention of the bidders is directed to the provisions of the specifications relative to labor.
e. In accordance with the provisions of the labor code, the Board of Supervisors has determined that the general prevailing rate of wages applicable to the work to be done which shall be the minimum rates paid on the project, are as follows:

8. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished by the County of Marin, in accordance with regulations as set forth in "Instructions to Bidders", and shall be accompanied by certified check or bid bond, as specified in Instructions to Bidders.
9. Bids shall be sealed and filed with the County Clerk, Chamber of the Board of Supervisors, Administration Building, Marin County Civic Center, on or before 4:30 pm P.D.T., September 26, 1967.
10. The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids or unit prices, waive any irregularities in any bid and to contract work with whomever, and in whatever manner it may determine. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of 45 days after the date set for the opening thereof.
11. Bidder shall be licensed at the time of bid date by the Contractor's State License Board of the State of California to perform the work herein described.
12. A bond will be required for the faithful performance of the Contract in an amount of not less than 100% of the amount of the bid, and a bond will be required to guarantee the payment of wages for services engaged and all bids contracted for materials used in the performance of the contract in an amount of not less than 50% of the bid.
13. Bidders are hereby notified that pursuant to the Statutes of the State of California, or local law thereto applicable, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute this contract. The prevailing rates so determined are based on an 8 hour day, 40 hour week, except as otherwise noted. Existing agreement between the Building Trades and the Construction Industry groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.
14. WAGE SCALE
Summary
This section lists the minimum wages that may be paid on work on this project, in conformance with the Statutes of the State of California.

Negro Chiefs Disagree On A Solution

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Negro leaders disagree on the best way to improve the Negro's position but they agree on the need for rapid betterment.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., in a speech yesterday in Washington, charged white people with being mainly responsible for rioting that has rocked Northern cities this summer.

VICIOUS SYSTEM

King said slums are the handiwork of a vicious system of white society and that the Negro lives in them but does not make them his home any more than a prisoner makes a prison his home.

The head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference told the American Psychological Association: "Let us say it boldly, that if the total slum violations of law by the white man over the years were calculated and compared with the lawbreaking during a few days of riots, the hardened criminal would be the white man."

King proposed massive building and works programs comparable to those of the 1930s as a way to lift the Negro out of the slums.

ANOTHER VIEW

Floyd McKissick, the fiery leader of the Congress of Racial Equality, preached another point of view in an address in Chicago.

McKissick told delegates to the National Conference for New Politics that Negroes do not need a third party, but organization among themselves.

"Organization is what we must have. Organization from the bottom; organization in the house; organization of your sons and your daughters, telling them that black men are equal," he said in a voice breaking with emotion.

"We must start organizing in the precincts, we must organize to gain local political power."

McKissick took note of the work of white people to bring equality to Negroes.

"We know white people have supported us," he said, "and we appreciate their support. But no longer can black people be a plank in someone else's platform. We must be our own platform."

Takeover Of Canton By Maoists In Doubt

HONG KONG (AP) — Rail traffic from Red China's southern metropolis of Canton to the Hong Kong border halted today, casting doubt on the claims of Mao Tse-tung's backers that they have wrested control of the city from Mao's foes.

Canton Radio reported Thursday that Maoists had installed a "revolutionary committee" in the city, scene of reported savage fighting between Red Guards and enemies of Mao.

The broadcast contained the first local news carried on Canton Radio in three weeks. But the radio returned to Peking reports Friday. This, and the train stoppage, led political observers here to question whether the Maoist takeover was complete.

No way was available to check the situation.

Other information gathered here suggested that the takeover was the result of a compromise between the city's warring factions.

It was understood that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai recently made serious efforts to reach a compromise between the parties involved in the power struggle. He reportedly wanted the fighting to stop before the biannual China Export Commodity Fair, scheduled in Canton Sept. 15.

There were also indications that the new regime in Canton, if it had taken complete control, might bring an end to the troubles Hong Kong has been suffering at the hands of the local Communists since mid-May.

Travelers arriving earlier from Canton reported seeing wall posters in the city which condemned Hong Kong Communists as irresponsible.

Hurricane In Baja Region Claims Five

SAN FELIPE, Mexico (AP)—Five Americans were reported killed and two Mexican girls were missing and feared dead early today after Hurricane Katrina lashed this Baja California fishing village.

Winds of 96 miles an hour and pouring rain ripped through San Felipe, a resort town of 15,000.

The hurricane had spun a twisting west-to-east path across unpopulated sections of the peninsula 175 miles wide. Reports of its ferocity were meager.

Outside communication was cut off, except for an occasional brief ham radio operator's report.

The five Americans, unidentified, were reported killed when winds bowled over a car in which they were riding. The girls were said to have been swept to sea.

Rescue equipment from Mexicali, on the U.S. border 125 miles north of San Felipe, and a column of Mexican soldiers were reported bogged down on the roads trying to reach the scene. The Red Cross was also trying to get in.

Many Americans, especially from California, had reportedly already reached the popular fishing spot for the Labor Day weekend, U.S. Counsel Arthur Feldmann said at Mexicali.

Alfredo Lopez Gutierrez, assistant director of the Baja California Department of Tourism, said he lost radio contact with San Felipe but learned they needed help with water and other supplies.

Firemen and Red Cross personnel from El Centro and Calexico, leftb y car and truck. The San Felipe airport was reported damaged.

Fund Raising Official Named

Col. William S. Richards (ret.) of San Rafael has been appointed finance committee co-chairman of Marin County Republican Central Committee, GOP county chairman Charles Michals announced.

Richards, 56, will head the committee with Rodgers C. Broomhead of Ross.

The finance committee has launched a membership program, Michals said, and is asking every Marin Republican to join the party by making an annual contribution. The funds will be used to maintain the new headquarters at 915 Lootens Place, San Rafael, to make contributions to candidates and fulfill Marin's quota to the state GOP.

Fines, Probation

James J. Rustan, 31, and Harold J. Flickinger, 28, both of San Francisco, were each fined $110 and placed on a year's probation in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for possession of a pipe for smoking narcotics. Sheriff's officers arrested the pair June 10.

Guilty Plea To Brawl In Bar

A 31-year-old Sausalito man, William Gabriel LePera, yesterday pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to disturbing the peace in a bar Aug. 14, and to ripping up the county jail's padded cell.

Judge David R. Baty gave him a 60-day suspended jail sentence, fined him $550, and placed him on a year's probation. He also dismissed two other misdemeanor counts, battery and destroying property at the bar, following the guilty pleas.

LePera, of 376 Sausalito Boulevard, was involved in the furniture-breaking fracas at Gatsby's Bar. Sausalito police said the incident occurred after LePera tried to pick a fight with several patrons.

Drunken Driving Felony Charge

Two persons were sentenced in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for drunken driving.

Conrad Clifford Eustace, 40, of 797 St. Francis Avenue, Novato, was given five days in county jail, fined $289, and placed on a year's probation. California Highway Patrol arrested him on Highway 101 May 31. He had a prior conviction.

James Everett Hawkins, 41, of 3 Pepper Avenue, Corte Madera, was fined $174 and given six months probation. The patrol arrested him on Highway 101 May 26.

Adult Reading Classes Slated

Classes in basic reading skills for adults who missed completing a high school education, will be offered at 7:30 p.m. Mondays beginning Sept. 11 at the Saint Andrews Church in Marin City.

Called the "Adult Reading Clinic," the classes are intended as a stepping stone to adult education classes at Tamalpais High School, James Hanretty, dean of the adult school said.

Registration can be completed at the high school adult education office or by attending the first session at the church, Drake Avenue and Donahue Road, Hanretty said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Diverticulitis Deals Misery To The Sufferer's Intestines

VAN DELLEN

Diverticula are peasized pockets in the intestinal wall. These outpouchings usually develop in the last part of the large intestine. Approximately 40 per cent of persons age 40 and older harbor from one to a hundred of these lesions.

Since the frequency increases with age we suspect that degeneration of the tissues of the bowel wall is causative. The protrusions tend to occur most often at a point where the blood vessel pierces the wall of the colon — a site considered to be the weakest spot. Spasm and irritation of the large intestine also play a role. When the bowel clamps down in one part pressure on adjacent segments increases and tends to push out weakened spots. Taking an enema or excessive use of purgatives over the years also induces pressure.

THE POCKET causes no trouble unless it becomes infected (diverticulitis). In most instances this is followed by dull, colicky pain in the lower abdomen on the left side. Tenderness, malaise, fever, and a high white blood count ensue in some sufferers.

Rupture of the pocket may lead to an abscess or peritonitis.

The majority are never bothered and the condition is discovered when X-rays are taken for other reasons. Some have only one attack of diverticulitis and with intelligent care never suffer a recurrence.

OTHERS HAVE repeated episodes of inflammation including complications. In some, surgery is needed to remove that portion of the colon containing these sacs.

Essensials in treatment are bed rest, a bland diet, stool softener, and drugs that relax the intestine. Sulfonamides or an antibiotic help to control the infection.

FOLLOWING the attack the victim should avoid roughage, alcoholic binges and stressful situations.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

PROTEIN IN THE DIET

F. C. writes: What are the advantages of protein to the body?

REPLY

Advantages: Proteins supply energy and aid in maintaining and repairing the tissues. Disadvantages: Certain types of protein are limited when gout is present. Years ago protein was accused of damaging the kidneys, raising the blood pressure, and causing autointoxication, but such theories are no longer given credence.

EXCESSIVE MUCUS

D. V. writes: Could excessive mucus in the throat and bronchial tubes be due to allergy?

REPLY

Yes, but special tests will be needed, to make the diagnosis as there are many causes of this symptom. Our leaflet on postnasal drip, which can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, discusses some of these origins.

NOISY STOMACH

S. L. writes: My stomach makes noises all day long, especially when I lie down. What could be causing this racket?

REPLY

This is known as borborygmus. It is due to overactivity of the stomach and the intestines. Some people are bothered more by rumbling than others before or after eating.

HEART BEAT RATES

T. R. H. writes: Which is more dangerous, a fast or a slow pulse?

REPLY

A slow pulse is preferable although extremes of both have their disadvantages.

GALLSTONES

C. K. A. writes: Are gallstones hereditary?

REPLY

No. They cannot be "passed" to the next generation.

TAKES REST SERIOUSLY

E. R. writes: My 37-year-old wife stays in bed four or five days every month because she says she is weak. When evening comes she stays up late watching TV or is out visiting friends. She has a good appetite and sleeps well. Does a woman have to stay in bed five days each month?

REPLY

To my knowledge, there are no diseases that require this type of treatment.

DIET AFTER CORONARY

P. I. writes: If an underweight person has a heart attack is he supposed to go on a diet to lose weight?

REPLY

No. The question of weight presents no problem to him. If you refer to the low fat, low cholesterol diet used in treating arteriosclerosis of the coronary arteries, more carbohydrates and proteins may be added to the menus. With an adequate intake of calories, weight loss should not occur.

ALLERGY TO TAPE

D. Z. writes: My wife scraped her knee and put a piece of adhesive on the area. After the tape was removed the skin was red and itchy for several days. What could this be attributed to?

REPLY

Irritation or sensitivity to the adhesive tape. The reaction varies from redness to blistering, but healing usually occurs within a few days.

SLEEPY LIMBS

F. M. A. writes: Why is it that when I wake up my arms and legs stay asleep?

REPLY

The sensation of numbness and tingling stems from laying on a nerve. Several moments may pass after easing pressure before the felling disappears. Shake the extremities vigorously and they will wake up.

NIGHT PULSE

B.D. writes: If I awaken at night and take my pulse it usually runs 62. Is this an indication of heart disease?

REPLY

No. If anything, it is a sign that your heart is normal.

Real Vacation Needed As Part Of Full Life

LABOR DAY WEEKEND tradionally signals the end of the summer vacation period.

Children will soon be back in school.

The rest of us will be back at our daily drudgery, reflecting on whatever summer recreation we had the good fortune to enjoy.

Those of us who did not plan full-scale vacation outings will be thinking we should have our heads examined.

Last spring, we just couldn't see any time ahead when we could absent ourselves from our jobs long enough to take a true vacation. We thought we would have to content ourselves with a day or two now and then as conditions would permit.

Now that Labor Day weekend is here, we have only our folly to look back upon. Our only consolation is that our numbers are many.

WE ARE STARTING THE LONG new work year without having had the complete change that we really need to "re-charge the old batteries."

Already the days are growing shorter and the nights colder. In the early morning we can almost feel the fall chill in the air. Another winter cannot be far away.

What folly not to have taken a proper vacation!

IN A SO-CALLED RETIREMENT community down in Carmel Valley there lives a happy, active couple who appear far younger than their birthdates would indicate.

Years ago they had the wisdom to perceive the true place of vacation travel in life.

If you had been standing near them on Waikiki Beach nearly two decades ago you could have heard the man (who spent his boyhood in Olema) say to his wife, "See that old lady in the wheel chair being pushed by the nurse in the white uniform?? Obviously, the old lady waited too long; she should have come here years ago before she had her stroke, while she was still young enough to enjoy it."

A few minutes later you could have heard the wife say to her husband, "See the old lady over there with the cane: I suppose she's here on her husband's life insurance. Too bad they didn't come years ago when they were both healthy and young enough to enjoy it."

HAVE THE MAN AND WIFE who made these observations nearly 20 years ago now joined the "too old to enjoy vacation travel" set?

No. Strangely enough, they are still young in spirit, outlook and appearance, despite physical ailments common to what we call senior citizens.

Perhaps their admirable youthfulness of today is in part the product of their wise value decisions over many previous decades. They were not captives of the idea that they couldn't take an enjoyable vacation trip one year, and the next, and then the next, and so on. They perceived that the time to do such things is now.

Those of us who did not plan a full-scale vacation outing this year are right:

We should have our heads examined.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to the trustees of Dixie and Kentfield School districts, who applied the whole proceeds of new state school aid to reduce their taxpayers' property tax rates. A small nosegay to trustees of Ross School District, who applied half the "windfall" to the same purpose.

BOUQUETS to all school teachers as schools prepare for fall reopening. For the next nine months, these people will have in their hands the training of our youngsters. Their dedication to this task deserves bouquets, also prayers for their success.

BRICKBATS to non-elective public officials who take it upon themselves to withhold facts from the public — and sometimes even from the elected boards who hired them. (We name no names; those for whom this is intended will recognize its aim.)

TEAMWORK: MORE NECESSARY THAN EVER

The last few decades of the 20th century may well be called the era of teamwork.

Individual initiative will never go out of date, but the era of the rugged individualist, "the lone wolf," is generally recognized to be over.

Here is a striking definition of teamwork: "Work done by a number of associates, all subordinating personal prominence to the efficiency of the whole."

To be an effective team member, one must:

* like people enough to cooperate with them without undue friction;

* possess a strong desire for attaining the goal, whether it is better government, world peace, strengthening family life or the like;

* be willing to let personal prestige or feeling take a back seat to the common effort.

God made us to work together with others as truly as He created us as distinct individuals. In meeting complex modern challenges, more teamwork, based on love and respect, is required than ever before.

"That we may be mutually encouraged by each other's faith, both yours and mine."
(Romans 1:12)

Guide us all, Holy Spirit, to pull together more effectively in projects that benefit the many.

PRICE OF DAWDLING

Congress Facing Long Autumn

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long, cold autumn seems likely to be the price Congress will have to pay for dawdling through the long, hot summer.

It's off again on its third vacation since convening last January. And when it returns Sept. 11, the end of the 1967 session won't be in sight.

Legislative leaders no longer have a fixed target date for final adjournment, although they hopefully look to mid-November as the get-away period. In the optimistic opening days of the session, they plugged for July 31 as going-home day. Then they backed it up to Labor Day. They'd settle now for Thanksgiving Day.

ALTHOUGH MUCH has been done during the first eight months, much more remains to be done if the scheduled business is to be disposed of before the end of the year. And most of the remaining legislation is highly controversial.

It deals with tax increases, higher postal rates, pay raises, Social Security, the antipoverty program, civil rights, foreign aid and election law reforms, to list a few.

A tax bill is scheduled to hit the House floor in mid-October, and then it starts all over in the Senate.

The Social Security measure, broadening benefits, has passed the House but isn't expected to reach a Senate vote until late in October.

THE ELECTION reform bill is the Senate's unfinished business when Congress returns. It hasn't been acted on by the House. Also nearing the voting stage in the Senate are a $2.6 billion antipoverty bill and a broad housing measure including a House-rejected provision to exterminate rats in slum areas.

Major unfinished business on the House calendar is a compromise $70 billion defense appropriation bill with a controversial provision banning naval ship contract awards to British shipyards.

House-passed bills to protect civil rights workers and to make it a federal crime to cross state lines to incite rioting are languishing in the Senate Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss.

The House Post Office and Civil Service Committee hopes to have ready soon bills to hike postal rates and to boost the pay of postal and civil service employees. Pay raises for military personnel are being considered by the House Armed Services Committee. The pay bills are "must" for the pre-election year session.

ONLY SIX OF the 17 appropriation bills have gone to President Johnson.

Supervisor's Remarks Given Short Shrift

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This letter is in reference to the reporting job done by a reporter of the I-J on the meetings of the San Geronimo-Nicasio Valleys Target Area Board of the Marin County Office of Economic Opportunity Council. It is the responsibility of a reporter to report objectively. It is not for a reporter to take sides.

On August 29, Mr. Storer spoke at the meeting of the above Board for over an hour, answered all questions he could and was well received by the Board.

Your reporter made no mention of Mr. Storer's criticism of the OEO's high administrative costs. He made no mention of Mr. Storer's criticism of the method by which the OEO forced this program on the Valley, how the OEO had failed to notify the three community organizations in the Valley of their intent, or made any effort to get the cooperations of the Valley residence.

It was residents of the Valley who requested the I-J to send a reporter to these meetings. At no time since this reporter has been covering the meetings has he given a fair report.

At no time has it been mentioned in this reporters column that the cost of this program is being paid for in part by the Marin County taxpayers. That since June 1, 1967, the ratio is 20 per cent county and 80 per cent federal funds. In 1968 it will be 50 per cent county and 50 per cent federal. After that the entire cost of the program will have to be paid for by the county alone.

I think that the taxpayers of Marin County are entitled to a much more correct reporting on this situation than the I-J is presently giving them. It is requested that a more competent reporter be sent to cover these meetings.

Goodwill Essential To Human Rights

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The racial hatred which has poisoned the climate of human relationships in this country for many generations is today violently declaring itself. Civil rights legislation alone, even when observed or enforced, cannot prevent further tragedy in our cities and shame to our nation, because we cannot legislate against the dispair of our Negro fellow-things that cause the utter Americans and provoke their anger. These causes originate in seperative and superior attitude of mind and the selfish indifference of closed hearts. The Negro is condemned to an inferior way of life and excluded as a human being.

We must seek to remedy inequalities and injustices throughout the country by adequate civil rights measures. Specific problems require locally planned social and educational program. Human rights, however, are more important than civil rights.

The real need is for a revolution in the attitudes of mind and heart of white Americans. To be "anti-discrimination" is negative and not enough. Action based on the positive and affirmative example of inclusiveness and respect is required everywhere, impregnating the atmosphere of the nation with manifest goodwill. Goodwill is a contagious energy, based on the principles of right human relationships, equality and love. These qualities introduced into a tense situation will produce long-term effects and strengthen short-term measure. Nothing less will do.

Nazi 'Socialist' In Name Only

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to object to the recent objection made by Peggy Mitchell to the I-J's use of the term "right-wing leader" when referring to George Lincoln Rockwell.

She is perfectly right in describing the word Nazi as a contraction of German words meaning National Socialist. But her reasoning in attempting to put the Nazis in the left wing of the political spectrum because of the word socialist in the party name is patently invalid. Primarily because the German fascists never followed the dictates of socialism any more than the North Vietnamese, who call themselves the People's Democratic Republic, follow our type of government.

Under socialism an industry or business is run by the government and the profit goes to the government; under the Nazis big privately owned businesses were further strengthened and the profits continued to go to the private employer.

As stated by William L. Shirer, in "The Rise and Fall of The Third Reich:" "All the propagandists in the Third Reich from Hitler on down were accustomed to rant in their public speeches against the bourgeois and the capitalist and proclaim their solidarity with the worker. But a sober study of the official statistics, which few Germans bothered to make, revealed that the much maligned capitalists, not the workers, benefited most from Nazi policies."

I would therefore ask those who wish to judge whether the Fuhrer should be inherited by the left or the right to carefully consider what the Nazis actually practiced before they too hastily arrive at a wrong conclusion.

TRY AND STOP ME

British stage star Robert Morley states in his lively autobiography that he's pleased that every time a foreigner arrives in the U.S.A., customs officials consult a long list of names of persons deemed persona non grata in this great land of ours. "I don't believe these people actually exist," confesses Morley, "but it does make one think, 'My goodness, I've been let into the United State!' "

Domestic Marshall Plan Could Pave Way To Peace, Prosperity

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.

Four years ago, I proposed a Domestic Marshall Plan — a special effort program to bring Negro citizens into the mainstream of American life. I felt that such a massive approach involving both government and private industry and institutions was needed because it was the only way we could reverse the effects of 350 years in which Negroes were systematically kept from their fair share of American life.

The precedent for this was the original Marshall Plan of the late 1940s. At that time the United States invested almost $20 billion to get war-torn Europe back on its feet. By restoring Europe to economic health we not only prevented Communist takeovers, but also greatly increased our trade, creating jobs and prosperity here at home. It was a good investment.

A Domestic Marshall Plan would also be a good investment — in our cities and in our people. The original proposal was one of the ideas that led to the War on Poverty, but that was a feeble response to the massive urban problems we face.

BUT NOW, after four years, other American leaders are turning to the Marshall Plan idea for our cities. Vice President Humphrey, congressmen, civil rights leaders, and others are talking about a Marshall Plan to end the conditions which caused this summer's riots.

The first step in such a program must be jobs. Special measures must be taken to cure the persistent unemployment in the ghetto. A special effort is needed to train Negro workers for better paying jobs and insure that Negroes are represented in all levels of employment, right up to the executive suite.

Since training is useless unless there is a job at the end of the line, we need a guaranteed job for every American who wants to work. At the present time, industry probably couldn't provide all these jobs. But how can we allow unemployment when our schools, hospitals, social services and public institutions are drastically understaffed? So long as our parks and streets are dirty, our mail late, and our public services deteriorating, we cannot tolerate unemployment.

LARGE SCALE HOUSING construction is another vital element of a Domestic Marshall Plan. There are more than 3½ million dilapidated housing units — no change since 1950. Here is an area where government can cooperate with homebuilders to organize a national housing industry which would replace these aging structures with good, low and moderate income housing.

Education, too, needs a top-to-bottom reform. Ghetto schools get the least money and the most inexperienced teachers. This pattern has to be reversed, and ghetto schools must be saturated with the expert services their children need. Here, too, private groups would become involved in reforming the schools, since they can probably do as much good as new government programs.

A MARSHALL PLAN would reform the present inadequate welfare system with a cheaper and more humane income maintenance program like family allowances or a negative income tax. Many other areas like health, transportation, etc., would be affected.

Basic to the Marshall Plan would be a total ban on discrimination. It is designed to be the one time in our history when America says to its Negro citizens: "This is for you; we want you to get these benefits also." Negro citizens would benefit most because they have suffered most in the past, but all America would reap this harvest of abundance.

Although the annual cost of such a plan would come to less than the $30 billion we are spending on Vietnam, the boost it would give to the economy would be such that it would pay for itself. If the income of Negro citizens were equal to that of white Americans, for example, it would add about $28 billion to the nation's income.

The Domestic Marshall Plan sounds like a dream, doesn't it? Yet it can become a reality, bringing peace as well as prosperity to our land.

It Takes Two Sides To Riot

(Reprinted from Lake Charles (La.) American Press.)

The celebrated march from Bogalusa to Baton Rouge has been completed, and the marchers have not gained their objective. That is, they have not gained their announced objective of presenting their complaints to Gov. John McKeithen.

On the other hand, if their objective was to call attention to themselves, then they have attained it.

It has been estimated that the latter portions of the march cost the taxpayers some $2,500 per day to provide protection in the form of state police and national guardsmen.

It was, therefore, an expensive demonstration.

IT SERVED FURTHER to point up what responsible people have been saying for some time — it takes two to make a disturbance.

The Bogalusa marches started out with some fanfare, but soon began to lose a lot of steam. There were less than a dozen marchers until the marchers reached Ku Klux Klan territory.

There the white rabble-rousers stepped in to complete the work that black rabble-rousers had started. Without these incidents, the march would have fallen flat. It probably would have collapsed before Baton Rouge was reached.

FOOLISH AND unthinking acts by foolish and unthinking people can create tensions where none had existed before. The same foolish and unthinking people can produce an explosive reaction in a situation where tension has already built up.

These marches have become standard practice in many parts of the country, and some of them have deteriorated into violence. In each case, however, violence broke out because of a confrontation of two groups.

If people along the route of the Bogalusa march had ignored the marchers, there would have been no incidents. There would have been no danger of a riot. There would have been no need for Governor McKeithen to mobilize the National Guard.

WE ARE CONVINCED that the vast majority of the members of both races do not want violence or tension in Louisiana. We are convinced that they are willing and eager to live together in peace and harmony. . .

It is the responsibility of the average citizen to remain civic-minded during times of tension. It is his responsibility, too, to do what he can to relieve tensions when they do occur.

WHAT CAN the average citizen do to prevent riots and violence which have occurred elsewhere?

Primarily, the average citizen can go right along doing what he has always done — working at his job, and mowing the lawn, fishing, barbecuing, or whatever he likes to do at his leisure.

Second, he can ignore incendiary statements when made by others. He can ignore marchers, leaving it to the police to protect them and to see that they observe the laws.

He can help to build up an atmosphere of friendship and well-being in his community. He can take an interest in the people around him. A smile or a friendly word does a great deal to lower any sort of tensions.

He can help build up confidence in the processes of democracy in his own community.

HE CAN DO his part to see that his community has better schools, better housing, and more employment opportunities. He can help build up a feeling of community goodwill, so that every citizen will feel that he is a part of the community, and that he has a stake in the community.

If every citizen does these things, then any call to riot or violence will fall on deaf ears.

MOONPORT I -- Picking the Landing Site

Will the first man-on-the-moon drop in on the Ocean of Storms or the Sea of Tranquility? Scientists have already narrowed the field of potential landing sites to eight, will soon cut it to three or four. Then pilots will get the full course on what to expect at Moonport I.

FIELD BEING NARROWED

Sites For First Moonport

WASHINGTON (AP) — When they first talked of sending astronauts to the moon, American scientists were like tourists plotting out interesting places to visit. Where do you land in a place you've never seen?

At first, scientists picked 30 potential sites. Since then they've gotten back enough pictures to fill many scrapbooks and they know the moon as well as a gambler knows Las Vegas. The number of potential sites has been narrowed to eight.

And by next February, says Dr. James H. Turnock Jr., special assistant to the director of the Apollo program, the field will be cut down to three of four.

"These are the sites about which the astronauts making the first flights will be thoroughly trained," Turnock said. "We don't want just one site. When the spacecraft lands it has to be at a good sun angle.

"For good visibility, the sun should be at an elevation of 13 to 30 degrees behind the Apollo Lunar Module, as it stands on the moon.

"The sun's terminator — the line between darkness and light — moves across the moon from east to west at the rate of 13 degrees a day — an earth day, not a lunar day, which consists of 28 earth days.

"If the sun's angle at a particular site is not right the first day, we would have to wait a month for that one. So we have a four-or-five day 'window.'

"This means that if conditions are not satisfactory at the first site, two days later we can get to another site that is properly sunlighted, and two days later to still another."

On the other hand, said Turnock, there is no need to have more than three or four sites, initially.

Each of the first astronauts must be thoroughly familiar with each of the potential landing sites — as familiar as a pilot training for a different landing field. "Training a man on a dozen sites doesn't gain anything," Turnock said in an interview.

The initial landings will be made where the crater count is as low as possible and the terrain as level as can be found.

In addition, the potential landing area must be within an ellipse some 20 miles long in which there are no mountains or ridges to cause the radar altimeter to give spurious signals. The Apollo astronauts must know with precision their changes in altitude as they descend toward the moon.

Aside from these primary safety factors, there is no particular advantage or disadvantage to distinguish one site from another for the initial landings, Turnock said. On later landings, when various scientific mission are involved, there may be reasons for choosing specific sites.

All of the first landings are restricted to a band along the moon's equator no wider than plus or minus five degrees of latitude and no longer than plus or minus 45 degrees of longitude.

Turnock explained that because of the complex earth-moon geometry, it is possible to get to the equatorial band with less expenditure of fuel than to other parts of the moon.

Furthermore, if the Apollo spacecraft is aimed for the moon's equator and something goes wrong so that no lunar landing is attempted, the vehicle will be on what is called a "free return trajectory" that assures it of homing along an elliptical earth orbit that has extended to the area of the moon.

In the running at the moment are three sites in the Ocean of Storms area on the far western face of the moon: two about 300 miles eastward: one another 400 miles eastward in the very center of the moon's face; the others about 500 miles to the east in the Sea of Tranquility.

Unruh Emerging As One Of Top Strong State Government Backers

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Proclaimed in bold golden letters high over Abraham Lincoln's portrait and the elevated speaker's rostrum of the California Assembly is the Latin sentence: "Legislatorum Est Justas Leges Condere."

Translation: "It is the duty of legislators to make just laws."

But far more than that, believes Assemblyman Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, the 20th Century legislature should be an enlightened, vigorous, inventive body.

The 44-year-old Unruh is California's most potent legislator, and its most powerful Democrat in the wake of last fall's Republican election victories which placed Ronald Reagan in the governor's chair.

Elsewhere, whenever he has the chance, Unruh is one of the nation's most energetic and outspoken advocates of a strong state government and particularly an independent legislature, free from outside pressures and with the prestige and power similar to those of the nation's restless early years.

For decades, too many legislative halls have been power vacuums, Unruh feels, echoing and rubber-stamping the demands of special interest groups.

Now Unruh sees the pendulum beginning to swing back, with California in the forefront.

"It's very slow," said Unruh during an interview in his office, part of an expansive complex which houses the speaker's staff. His own office is decorated with modern paintings and mementos of Unruh's travels and his association with the Kennedy family.

Seldom does Unruh preside over the Assembly, and he normally speaks—in eloquent rising and falling tones—only on the major issues, or a pet bill.

The prime resistance to strong state legislatures comes from the business community, Unruh contends, "not so much out of fear of the legislature, but because businessmen know what their situation is now and they don't know what it would be."

Other opposition comes from the vast federal bureaucracy, Unruh further believes, citing a fruitless attempt to get a federal study grant for legislative leaders.

Despite all this, Unruh says states have done more in the past three years than in the previous half century to equip their governments with the tools needed to act decisively.

"It has begun . . . but there is a long way to go," Unruh said.

California has come far. All 120 legislators—80 in the Assembly and 40 in the Senate—have offices, both in the Capitol and in their home districts. Most have an administrative assistant.

Committees and their chairmen have staff consultants for research, and the legislative branch has its own well-paid fiscal and legal experts.

Last fall, Californians overwhelmingly approved a constitutional amendment, making the legislators' post virtually a fulltime job. The measure established annual general sessions, with no limit on length or subject matter. Legislators' salaries went from $6,000 to $16,000 a year, and they were covered by a code of ethics.

Counting his $25 a day expense allowance, the California legislator earned more than $21,000 for the record 217-day-long 1967 regular session.

It's too early for the amendment to produce dramatic changes, Unruh said. But one effect has been to ease the crush of bills, including critical financial measures, which used to pile up toward the end of the former 120-day regular sessions.

JESSE M. UNRUH
A bold legislator

A major criticism of the national Committee for Economic Development in a recent report was that legislative seats were unattractive to qualified candidates and legislators too often were nonentities, unknown to many of their constituents.

Unruh concurs in the need for legislators to be in public view. "Visibility is the greatest safeguard against corruption . . . the greatest guarantee of performance," he said. "The less visibility you have, the more schlocky (inept) legislators you

THE HOUSEKEEPER IS MAN OF ACTION

Former Hamilton Commander Keeps Tabs On Spending As General Services Director

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — When Andrew R. Lolli was drafted in 1940, he said he was considered a civilian in a military uniform.

But now, as a retired Army major general, Lolli said many people consider him a military man in civilian clothes.

"But I try not to be hard nosed," Lolli said. "All I want is economy."

ANDREW R. LOLLI
Housekeeping chores

In his position as director of General Services, Lolli is in a post tied in more closely with the economy program of Gov. Ronald Reagan than anyone else in state service. The department, a housekeeping organization set up only a few years ago, wields great power over state purchasing, use of state buildings, state automobiles and other areas where economies can be made.

Lolli, 55, retired from the Army in August 1966 and was assistant to the vice president of Hughes Aircraft in Fullerton before taking his position.

Lolli formerly was in command of the Western Noarth American Air Defense Command with headquarters at Hamilton Air Force Base, commanded the Sixth Army Air Defense Command with headqaurters at Fort Baker.)

Lolli is full of enthusiasm. Over a recent hurried lunch, he rattled off some of the following on savings in government spending.

TIRES: "We found that there are wrong times for the state to buy tires. In the summer months, tire sales are high because of vacation trips. In the fall and early winter months, it's new car time and this is a major market for new tires.

"The lull is in the month of May," Lolli said. "We bought 16,000 tires in May and saved $141,000."

DRUGS: "I thought we should try buying drugs by the generic term, rather than by brand name. On one particular drug, we had been paying $34.58 per thousand. We ordered by generic name and got the same drugs for 78 cents per thousand. And, the funny part was, when we got the drugs, they were the same brand that had cost $34.58."

AUTOMOBILES: "The Reagan administration, early in the game this year, put on a freeze order as far as purchase of new cars. Exceptions were made when needed and the order has been somewhat relaxed by now.

"But the net result is that the state will get by with about 2,000 fewer cars that it had in the past." The total of about 18,000 will be reduced to about 16,000. And there have been some modifications in the purchasing.

"One agency recently ordered seven pickups with the deluxe interior," Lolli said. "This amounted to from $400 to $500 per car, quite a bit of money.

"I asked the agency what the problem was and they said there were seven employees who had bad backs and needed the deluxe interior," he said. "I'm not hard-hearted but I explained that, if people were physically unable to carry out their job, there were programs to take care of them."

BUILDINGS AND OFFICE SPACE: Construction of one $4 million office building in the Sacramento area already has been canceled because it was determined the space would not be needed until 1980, if needed then. Lolli said the sate currently has 9.5 million square feet of office space and actually needs only about 6 million square feet.

"As a carryover from my days in the Army, I like to make inspection trips unannounced," Lolli said. "On a recent trip, I stopped in Bakersfield and inspected a building the state is leasing. The lease is $5,000 per month on a 15-year lease. It was empty."

Some of the amounts saved in purchasing are not impressive, Lolli admitted. But the total of state purchasing in a year amounts to some $140 million.

"In March, I informed Governor Reagan we hoped to be able to shave 4 to 7 per cent from that figure," Lolli said. "We already have reached the 14 per cent mark and our goal now is 20 per cent. That will be nearly $30 million a year."

Lolli said most of the state employees are cooperative in his economy moves but he meets some occasional resistance.

"In one agency, I pressed the (former) chief to save some money," Lolli said. "He asked me what the state could do with the money if it were saved. The answer is that, in June, it gave me great pleasure to sign a check for $400,000 in funds to be returned to the state's general fund."

Lolli estimates that next year the savings in the operation of state government will be in excess of $100 million a year. It will come from many areas. One of the practices that has bothered him is the renting of quarters to state employees, at institutions or branch operations. Some of the rents these people have been paying are ridiculous, Lolli said, and now are in the process of being increased to reasonable levels.

Commercial Aviation Success Is Costly

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Commercial aviation is suffering one of the penalties of success—criticism.

The newest attack could be summed up in three words: Is flying safe? On the record, the answer has to be: Very safe.

The argument doesn't end there. The airlines in 1966 posted a record low death rate —0.7 per 100 million passengers in 1966 and there were a total of 273 deaths.

But the statistics mean little when they are placed alongside a picture of a burned out patch of woods in North Carolina showing the wreckage of a mid-air collision that claimed 82 lives in July. Or the scar marks on a field near Urbana, Ohio, where 25 persons died four months earlier in another mid-air crash.

Always, after such accidents, the questions come: Why did it happen? Will it happen again?

Experts agree there is no simple answer. Each air disaster is different. Each investigation can find different probable causes for crashes.

When two planes collide, does that mean that air space is congested?

Not necessarily. The collision involving the jetliner near Hendersonville, N. C., took place near a lightly used airport.

Should private planes be kept away from airports used by commercial airlines? Again, the experts say there is no flat yes-or-no answer.

The light plane owners argue that they have a right to use tax-supported airports. For the most part, they claim they operate under the same restrictions commercial planes do when they land and take off at the same airports. And, they say, the record does not show general aviation to be reckless.

Max Karant, a vice president of the 136,000-member Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, says "it is foolish" to consider building separate airports for light planes just to separate them from commercial planes. He adds there is a need for more small airports, but "you would not improve safety at large airports simply by removing light planes."

He gets some support from the head of the Federal Aviation Administration, William F. McKee. McKee says he does not have the power just to order private planes out of a heavily used, government-run airport. The only way he could act, he said, would be if he considered them to be a safety hazard. As yet, he doesn't.

Others do. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., said the Hendersonville accident "must convince us that we must take small planes away from general airports."

Congress has begun to dig. The House Commerce Committee recently held air safety hearings at which McKee testified that the airways—and the airplane—are safe and getting safer.

He conceded he could use more money for airports, research, and traffic control. But he said there is no way to "guarantee 100 per cent safe air."

Others don't agree. Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., said McKee was "derelict" in his duty. According to Ottinger, McKee should be more aggressive in searching for new ways to improve air safety. It is the FAA's responsibility to "define the needs of air safety," whether Congress approves the budget or not, he said.

There is no doubt about the size of the air traffic problem. It is big, and growing bigger every year.

Ten years ago there were 62,886. By 1976, the total is expected to reach 180,000.

Statistics on commercial airlines show the same type of growth. There are now some 2,000 airliners. By 1976, observers predict there will be more than 3,000.

With the increase in planes comes the increase in the number of air travelers. Last year's total was 110 million, a figure expected to reach 450 million before 1976. Huge 500-passenger jetliners are scheduled to go into service before 1970.

With the traffic problem comes the collision threat. According to FAA statistics, near-misses in the airways are now being reported at an average rate of 532 a year.

What is being done to solve the safety problem? Considerable. Especially in the safety field. An electronic collision avoidance system is being developed and is expected to be installed on commercial airlines in the early 1970's.

Behind The News

THIS WEEK In The World

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

In the predawn darkness, black-clad Viet Cong guerrillas crept up on a U.S. medical clinic at Hoi An, South Vietnam. Moments later they launched a horrifying, heartless attack in which patients were machine-gunned in tehir beds and shot down trying to limp to safety.

By the time the guerrillas were driven out after hand-to-hand fighting, the blood of the patients, hospital attendants and troops was splattered on the walls, smeared on the floors and soaked into the dirt.

The death toll was one American Marine, 18 Vietnamese soldiers, nine children, an unknown number of civilian adults and six Viet Cong. Eleven U.S. servicemen and 35 Vietnamese civilians were wounded.

The assault was one of scores of devastating terror attacks launched by the Viet Cong during the week in an effort to frighten South Vietnamese into staying away from the polls in the national election Sunday. The Viet Cong hit villages and cities from the northern provinces of South Vietnam to the Mekong delta and set off bombs from Hue to Saigon. More than 1,000 civilians were killed and some 100 young South Vietnamese were "drafted" at gunpoint.

But the South Vietnam military junta confidently predicted a turnout of 80 per cent of the nation's 5.8 million eligible voters. More than 1,000 tons of ballots were distributed by truck, plane and boat for voters to select a president, a vice president and 60 senators.

American and South Vietnamese troops manned positions around South Vietnam's 8,908 polling places to discourage election-day terrorism.

Around The World, Around The Clock

Mideast—Israel closed the doors on Arab refugees to the west bank of the Jordan River, ignoring diplomatic pressure to keep them open. In Khartoum, the Arab leaders at a summit conference adopted a moderate attitude toward regaining the areas taken by Israel in the Arab-Israeli war.

Hong Kong—Anti-Mao Tse-tung rebels were reported in bloody battles with Maoist Red Guards in Canton and artillery duels were said to have been fought by rival army forces.

London — Chinese Communist officials charged from the Chinese diplomatic mission to attack British policemen, sparking a battle in which the Chinese swung wooden bats, iron bars and axes. Several of the injured were treated at a hospital. Later in the week, Communist youths harassed British diplomats in Peking.

Detroit — The United Auto Workers Union announced it would strike the Ford Motor Co. Wednesday if contract talks fail to bring a settlement. The union rejected the auto industry's offer of about a 12 per cent wage increase during a three-year contract.

San Mateo — Shirley Temple Black, former child movie star, announced she would be a Republican candidate for congress in a special election called to fill a vacancy created by death. She will have seven opponents.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY

Outspoken Churchman

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Michael Ramsey, Britain's Archbishop of Canterbury, who is to make a coast-to-coast speaking tour of the United States this month, looks a bit like a benign Santa Claus.

He is, in fact, an utterly charming and worldly man. He holds firm opinions on virtually everything and is not slow to voice them. He disapproves the United States role in Vietnam. He speaks frankly of sex in marriage as a "good and joyful thing."

The archbishop, with his fringe of unruly white hair above a red-cheeked face, in appearance might be a Hollywood casting director's caricature of an impish British bishop.

Now 62, he has looked that age and 10 years more since he was in his early 50's. But in that respect his appearance also is deceiving. He is robust, a big man of strong physique.

Dr. Ramsey does not smoke or approve of the habit, but he carries a pack of cigarettes to offer friends or visitors. He will take an occasional pint of beer in a local pub, but more often drinks lemon barley water.

On his three-week visit to the U.S. beginning Sept. 12, the archbishop is sure to speak of—and be asked about—his views of the world as head of the Anglican Church.

Regarding Vietnam, he has urged the war be stopped. He believes the United States should take the initiative to that end, although conceding a cessation of conflict "takes both sides."

On racial discrimination Dr. Ramsey minces no words and has especially castigated landlords who discriminate against non-whites, a hot issue in Britain.

"A landlord who refused to let a house or room to a respectable colored family should examine his own conscience," he says. "Which comes first—an exclusive neighborhood or Christian principles?"

Segregated housing has caused friction and occasional riots in England in the past, as it has in the United States.

Sex, Dr. Ramsey declares, is not "something unclean or needing to be hushed up . . . it is only in the unity of sexual intercouse and lifelong marriage that love finds true fulfillment."

He does not think sexual intercourse outside marriage is necessarily the worst sin, although he says it is always wrong.

The archbishop applauds the new British law permitting homosexuality by consenting males in private.

"There will be no question of thereby declaring homosexual practices to be a right use of sex," he said in supporting the law. "But rather there will be a greater possibility of some to find their way from the wrong use of sex and be helped toward better use of their energies."

The archbishop, who has himself been married 25 years but has no children, regards the Western divorce rate as appalling. He blames the situation on people who enter marriage without responsibility for realizing the marriage is a lifelong bond.

The archibshop favors closer unity with the Roman Catholic church, as did his predecessor, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher who was the first Archbishop of Canterbury to meet a Pope in four centuries.

Dr. Ramsey went to Rome in March, 1966, to visit Pope Paul VI. Earlier this year, he paid a five-day visit to the Roman Catholic Church of France.

The leader of 26 million Anglicans is no stranger to the United States. In 1958, when he was Archbishop of York, Dr. Ramsey attended the World Conference of Churches at Evanston, Ill.

A year later, he was Hale Lecturer at the University of Chicago, and again visited the United States in 1961 after his enthronement as Archbishop of Canterbury.

Dr. Ramsey's schedule as released by the Church of England will keep him in New York two days for talks with church leaders following his arrival Sept. 12. He is then due to go to Chicago to preach an ecumenical service. He will hold other ecumenical services in Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 15; Las Vegas, Sept. 17, and San Francisco Sept. 20.

From Sept. 21 to 25 he is scheduled to be in Seattle for an address to the general convention and other engagements, and in Tacoma to receive an honorary doctorate of divinity from the Pacific Lutheran University.

Returning east he will stop at Milwaukee for an address to students at the Nashotah House Theological Seminary, Sept. 25.

Dr. Ramsey' final public appearance will be on the East Coast. He will be in Newark, N.J., starting Sept. 27 for two days, then in New York where his main sermon will be preached at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Oct. 3 he will go to Boston, and during the visit preach at a matriculation service at the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge. He is scheduled to dine at Harvard University and return to New York Oct. 5 for his flight home that day.

Baptist Hails Bishop Synod

NEW YORK (UPI)—Establishment by the Vatican Council of a synod of bishops is a triumph of the more democratic trend within the Roman Catholic Church, according to the Rev. Arthur B. Crabtree, professor of theology at Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary.

The action, Rev. Crabtree told a joint session of the American Catholic Historical Association and the American Society of Church History, "brought back the image of the Pope as a pastor, sharing decision-making with his episcopal colleagues in the 'circle of bishops.'"

Kept Busy

LUDWIGSBURG, Germany (UPI)—A West German factory has built church organs for Tokyo and El Paso, Tex. The Walcker company reports it has exported 23 organs to Japan, one for a major Buddhist temple in Tokyo and an 11-keyboard model to El Paso earlier this year.

Virgin Island Bishop To Talk At Inverness

Rt. Rev. Cedric E. Mills, Episcopal Bishop of the Virgin Islands, will be guest speaker at 9 a.m. tomorrow at St. Columba's Episcopal Church in Inverness.

For Bishop Mills' appearance the parish eucharist services will be changed to 9 a.m. Later in the morning, he will be a guest at St. Cyprian's in San Francisco.

The bishop is in the United States for the Episcopal General Convention to be held later in the month at Seattle.

St. Columba's vicar, Rev. Francis Read, and Bishop Mills are personal friends. The Reads' daughter-in-law serves as the bishop's secretary and treasury of the missionary district in the Virgin Islands.

Dedication Rites Set Tomorrow

Unity-in-Marin will dedicate its new sanctuary, 24 H Street, at 9:30 and 11 a.m. services tomorrow with Rev. Candida Wright speaking on "A Pearl of Great Price."

The church will also resume its fall schedule tomorrow with graded Sunday school classes at 9:30 a.m. and the youth Bible class at 11 a.m.

The church is a member of the Association of Unity Churches, affiliated with Unity School of Christianity, Lee's Summit, Mo.

Present Study Of Reformation Is Suggested

SILVER BAY, N.Y. (UPI)—Both Catholic and Protestant ecumenical leaders should give serious consideration to the basic Protestant Reformation principles, according to the Rev. Stanley I. Stuber, author and director of Association Press.

Rev. Stuber told a Christian World Mission Conference sponsored by the National Council of Churches that "in view of the 450th anniversary celebration of the Protestant Reformation in 1967-68, a mutual examination of the causes of the Reformation is very much in order." He said the "nature of the 'one true church', of the sacraments, and of the priesthood remain to plague the ecumenical movement."

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI)—While rector of Christ Episcopal Church here in 1736, John Wesley, founder of the Methodist movement, organized what is believed the first Sunday School for children.

40,000 Couples Wed At Church

NASHUA, Iowa (UPI)—More than 40,000 couples have been married at the Little Brown Church in the Vale two miles northeast of here. The church was made famous by the hymn written by William S. Pitts in 1857.

Each year, on the first Sunday of August, the town of Nashua plays host to the couples married at the Little Brown Church, who return with their families and friends.

Nuns Take Over

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Columbia studios look like a convent these days with its new television series, "The Flying Nun," shooting currently with Rosalind Russell's new film, "Where Angels Go. . . Trouble Follows!" which also deals with nuns.

Special Mass By Israeli Catholic Leader Set For Nursing Program

An out-of-doors Mass will be offered to bless the proposed quarters for the Catholic Visiting Nurse Program in Novato. Now under construction, the headquarters are planned to be opened by Nov. 1, Paul Brindel, owner, said today.

The Mass will be said by Rev. Georges Hakim, Melkite archbishop of Galilee, who will arrive on a visit to Brindel from Israel. Altar boys for the Mass are to be "borrowed" from Hamilton Air Force Base.

Brindel explained the private nursing program has long been needed in the Novato area, there being but one other in Marin — Clarke's Home Nursing Service, Mill Valley.

The office will be staffed on a 24-hour basis, first with one nurse, and ultimately, with three or four. A visiting nurse never stays more than one hour, Brindel explained, and usually is sent for emergency purposes to give medical attention under orders of a physician.

Qualifying patients will quite likely be on Medicare, the Catholic writer related, but if not, they will be served at Brindel's expense for no cost. All persons are eligible for the service, not just Catholics.

"We will probably set up a non-profit corporation or trust," Brindel said. He said, too, there is a possiblity of sending nurses in the program back to Israel where Archbishop Hakim is building a small hospital near Haifa. Hakim will need nurses, Brindel said, and those who go from Novato for a year will pay their way, then after a year, have their transportation refunded.

The headquarters will be in a guest house on Brindel's property at 133 Maestro Road. Construction is now under way to enlarge the guest house and provide for six parking spaces.

Rev. Hakim, who lives in Haifa, will also visit Air Commodore Hugh Ledoux of the Royal Canadian Air Force and Catholic vicc commander at Western Norad headquarters, Hamilton Air Force Base.

A visitor to Novato and San Rafael in 1964, Rev. Hakim plans to stay about four days. He is the head of about 30,000 Melkite Catholics in Israel.

Fall Schedule To Be Resumed

Aldersgate Methodist Church, 220 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, will resume its fall schedule of worship on Sunday with worship services at 9 and 10:30 a.m.

Nursery through sixth grade church school will meet at both 9 and 10:30 a.m. while the high school class will be held at 9 a.m. and the junior high class at 10:30 a.m.

Mission Session

CHICAGO (UPI)—A four-day mission conference sponsored by the Division of Mission Services of the Lutheran Council in the United States of America will begin here Nov. 6. About 250 clergymen and laymen are expected to attend.

New Student Stand Taken On Religion

BOSTON (AP) — Religious interest is mounting on American college campuses, students from several of them said recently. But they added that it's not the conventional type of religion.

"Some people may say God is dead, but students are proving He's not dead," said Daniel S. Jensen of Fresno, Calif., State College.

MORE CONCERNED

"Today's students are more concerned about religion, not less."

However, it's an exploratory, open-ended faith, minus many traditional forms and definitions, according to a sampling of youth.

Students "are looking for real answers," said Jeannie Kleinhammer of the University of Kansas. Daniel Hill, a West Pointer added: "A real spiritual revolution is going on."

A score of others from across the nation made similar comments. They were among about 8,000 college students at a three-day college Christian Science conference last week.

REBELLION

Several observed that students today show a rebellious streak, but that the rebellion is at fixed patterns of religion, not at the basis of it.

In a keynote address, Erwin D. Canham, editor in chief of the Christian Science Monitor, touched on the same point, saying:

"One of the few good things about the hipsters is their rejection of a materialistically orientated society. Also, I wish to endorse both love and flowers."

But he added that hippies distort attitudes into a useless escapism.

Symposium To Be A Large Event

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Catholic Educational Association has added 102 participants to its symposium on the future of Catholic Education, to be held here Nov. 5-10.

Those invited represent many fields, including education, both public and nonpublic, government, business, communications media, and civil rights and anti-poverty groups. The objective of the conference is to provide ideas and guidelines for consideration by decision-makers in Catholic education on the local level.

Perry, Linzy, May Get Rest After Record 1-0 Win

CINCINNATI (AP) — The chances are that Manager Herman Franks of the San Francisco Giants may give two of his pitchers extra days off—even if he can't do the same for the rest of the weary team.

Gaylord Perry and Frank Linzy teamed last night for a 21-inning 1-0 shutout over the Cincinnati Reds, the longest night game in both innings and time consumed ever played in National League history.

The five-hour, 40-minute marathon ended after Reds' reliever Bob Lee walked in the winning run and reliever Linzy turned back the Reds in the five innings he pitched.

Both teams missed plenty of scoring opportunities with a total of 31 players left on base. The Giants outhit the Reds 15-12 in the longest 1-0 game on record.

The end finally came in the 21st inning after Jim Hart singled with one out. Ollie Brown doubled and sent Hart to third. Lee then filled the bases with an intentional walk to Hal Lanier. He then walked Dick Groat to force in the only run of the game.

Perry pitched 16 innings, but Linzy got the victory to even his record at 6-6. The Reds used only four pitchers with starter Mel Queen going 9⅓ innings. He was followed by Ted Abernathy, Don Nottebart and Lee, who suffered the loss for a 2-3 mark.

After it was all over, there was relative silence in both dressing rooms—and in the stands where several thousand fans stuck it out to the end in chilly temperatures.

"Herman asked me how I felt in the 14th and I told him I wanted to stay on. But I just had it after the 16th," said Perry, sitting wearily on the rubbing table while a trainer worked on his right arm that had made 186 pitches before he was lifted for a pinch hitter.

Both Perry and Linzy agreed it was the longest each of them had worked.

"I had been throwing since about the seventh inning or so, so I pitched quite a few innings before I ever got out there," Linzy said. "But I wasn't throwing like he (Perry) was. He was great."

Linzy said he thought it might take an extra day or so to get his arm back into shape. Manager Franks didn't mention his star reliever but said, "I might give him (Perry) a little extra rest now. We are off next Tuesday and that would be one additional day."

Cincinnati Manager Dave Bristol also praised Perry's pitching and stamina, but said that a walk in the 10th inning may have hurt the Reds most.

"We had thought of trying a squeeze play but he walked Leo Cardenas to fill the bases. I would not try to squeeze him with the bases full," Bristol said ruefully.

Perry gave up two walks and only 10 hits in his 16 innings of work. He has now pitched 29 straight innings without allowing a run.

During the game there were three occasions when the Reds' leadoff batter got on base—but they couldn't take advantage of it, with either a hit or sacrifice.

"We couldn't hit him, let alone bunt him," Bristol said of Perry. "I never saw anyone hold his stuff that long. He kept right on throwing hard and we couldn't hit him."

Much of the same thing could be said of the Reds' pitchers. Queen gave up only eight hits before he was lifted in the 10th inning.

Hawken Bounces Back With 72 In National Meet

Cerrudo Floundering, Leach Makes Cutoff

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Don Hawken, the surging San Rafael golfing teen bounced back from a near-miserable opening round Thursday to plunk in with a 72 yesterday, right in there with the efforts of the best in the second round of the 67th U.S. Amateur Golf Championships here.

That put Hawken at 153, eleven in back of the leaders, and five back of Ron Cerrudo, a San Rafaelite who is having trouble getting unwound in this tournament, despite being tabbed the pre-meet favorite.

Cerrudo shot a 73 yesterday to go with a 75 Thursday, for a two-day total of 148, six off the pace.

Ray Leach, Novato's teen golf sensation, also made the cutoff to keep Marin's top three golfers in the tournament. But it was a close call. Ray has a two-day total of 79-76-155, which is the cutoff mark.

Otherwise the sun smiled broadly, dispositions and scores improved but that was the only difference as Army Private Bob Dickson continued his dominance through the second round of the 67th U.S. Amateur Golf Championships.

The sweet-swinging former Oklahoma State star and present British Amateur titleholder stroked his second 71 yesterday over the 6,946 yard par 35-35-70 Broadmoor West course for 142 and a three-stroke lead going into today's final two 18-hole rounds.

He's paired with his closest pursuer, Marvin (Vinny) Giles III of Charlottesville, Va., at 145 after a second round 69—only the second subpar round of the weather-plagued tourney.

The 36-hole action today was necessitated by the rainout of Wednesday's first round.

Their final holes are programmed for national television (ABC, 6:30 p.m., EDT).

Both beamed confidently after yesterday's round. Dickson, on a week's pass from Army duties in Arizona, said he felt he could protect his lead through the closing grind.

"I'm young, 23, strong and in good physical condition," he said. "I think that's to my advantage."

Giles, 24-year-old law student at University of Georgia, countered, "If I hit the ball as well as I did in the second round, my chances are pretty good."

Defending champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., was grouped at 147 with long-hitting Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., and Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla. They were a stroke back of third-placer Doug Olson, a Medford, Ore., star on University of Houston's perennial NCAA golf champions. He had identical rounds of 73 for 146.

Fifty-two golfers went into the final rounds after shooting 155 or better to escape yesterday's cut of the original 150-player field.

The top contenders back of the leading six included 1964 champion Bill Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., bracketed at 148 with Bob Smith of Sacramento, Calif., and Robert Jay Sigel of Narberth, Pa.

Another stroke back at 149 were Dick Spears, Port Jervis, N.Y., who turned in the other subpar round of 69, and Cameron Quinn of Providence, R.I., the 1965 Northeast Amateur champion.

Giles credited superb iron play for his 69 that put him in the runner-up spot.

It Won't Be A Bright Christmas For Giants

Horace Stoneham smiled when he read a bright financial report last year at a pre-Christmas meeting of stockholders in National Exhibition Co., which consists of the Giants and a hotel at the Arizona spring training camp of the ball club.

The company netted $981,189 in 1966, up from $535,713 in 1965, so Stoneham announced an $81 per share dividend, almost double the $44 declared in 1965.

Higher revenue from ticket sales and broadcasting rights were cited by the president of the ball club for the jump in profits.

This year Christmas isn't going to come early for shareholders in the Giants. To be sure, they will get a dividend but it isn't going to be anything like last year's.

Marichal, Shelley Bring Bad News

Expenses soared this year, starting with Juan Marichal's holdout for $100,000. Then, Mayor Jack Shelley of San Francisco visited Stoneham during spring training at Casa Grande to explain tactfully that the city was hiking the rent on Candlestick Park which would be beautified and increased from 42,000 to 66,000 seating capacity.

Additional seats are the one thing the Giants didn't need this season even if they were installed which they aren't. Nevertheless, Stoneham agreed to a revision of his 35-year lease, increasing his rent and taxes from $300,000 to half a million.

Shelley told Stoneham he wasn't twisting his arm. He really was protecting Stoneham's public image and that of the ball club. San Franciscans, Shelley explained, were getting an erroneous idea about why Candlestick Park never had been completed. Shelley knew the Giants weren't the culprits, that they would welcome the football 49ers into Candlestick.

Team Got Off To A Bad Start

Following the costly sessions with Marichal and Shelley, the 1967 baseball season finally opened and Stoneham promptly was confronted with more worries. His Giants opened on the road and skidded into the National League cellar on a 1-5 record.

Rains plagued them, among other things, when they got home to Candlestick. Attendance sagged and sagged and sagged until it dropped to a dismal turnout of 11,762 last Monday night for the opener of a Giant-Dodger series.

Stoneham was stunned by the indifference of fans to a Giant-Dodger game, notwithstanding the fact neither of the two old baseball rivals is within shouting distance of the pennant-bound Cardinals. Not in 40 years had the Giants and Dodgers been so ignored.

Stoneham Must Answer Questions

And Stoneham's problems for 1967 still are not ended. There is that year end financial report to make to stockholders. One of them is John Gilbert, a baseball fan who holds shares in many companies, including National Exhibtion.

Gilbert always asks provocative questions whenever Stoneham summons National Exhibition stockholders into annual session.

Pro Stars Find It Tough Going In Rich Carling Championship

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (AP) — The expansive and undulating greens gave touring golf professionals a roller-coaster ride yesterday in the opening round of the $200,000 Carling World Championship at the Toronto Board of Trade Country Club.

Only 17 of the 141 players who play today in the second round of the 72-hole tournament have scores of par or better to build upon.

R. H. "Dick" Sikes, a 27-year-old Cleveland 6-footer, who only last week got his putting game under control, took a one-stroke lead over Gary Player of South Africa and veteran Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., as he fired a three-under 68 on the 7,024-yard, par 36-35—71 layout.

Sikes, who made the most of putting tips from fellow professionals Bert Yancey and Dick Crawford, was the only man to cover the treacherous course without slipping over par on a single hole.

It was the second straight round the slim Ohioan has shot without slipping over par on a hole.

The rest of the field found their scores rising with almost every dip of the greens. By the end of the first round, which saw eight players withdraw and two more disqualified for card-signing infractions, golfers were labelling the layout a thinking man's course and the greens pure murder.

Besides the top trio, only Randy Glover of Sandford, N.C., Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., Chi Chi Rodriguez of Puerto Rico and Tony Jacklin of London, England, managed to beat par.

Ten players, including Dick Eichelderger of Waco, Tex., who got in as an alternate, matched par.

The big guns, including Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., golf's all-time leading money winner, veteran Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., and Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky., were among the also rans after one round.

Palmer, Boros and Beard each have three victories this season on the tour and are second, third and fourth, respectively, in official 1967 money winners.

Each has cracked the $100,000 barrier.

The powerful Palmer, who usually attracts the largest crowds, three-putted eight greens and required 38 putts on the round as he carded a 38-37—75. To stay this close to the leaders, he produced a pair of birdies to close out the first round.

Things were even tougher for Beard, who carded a 77, while Boros closed strongly to register a two-over 73. Defending champion Bruce Devlin of Australia was among 21 players with 75.

Sikes canned putts from 15 and 25 feet to save pars on the first two holes and got birdies on the sixth, 10th and 16th from 12, 25 and 35 feet.

Victory here worth $35,000 would double his 1967 earnings.

"The greens are really hard to putt and they'll be tougher," he said. "When they dry out they'll be lightning fast."

"They're the toughest greens I have putted on anywhere in the world," said Player, winner of every major tournament on the tour.

Palmer said it was a combination of things.

"The conditions, the undulations, the green pin placements could be found on every green that would keep the field putting all day without finishing a round."

Labron Harris of Stillwater, Okla., scored a hole in one, the 12th of the year on the tour, at the 150-yard par-3 seventh. He finished with a 35-40—75.

The field will be reduced to the low 75 and ties after today's round.

Frazier Trainer Shrugs Off Ring Ratings

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It doesn't matter that the World Boxing Association has dropped Joe Frazier from second to ninth, according to his trainer, because the Philadelphia heavy weight is ready to meet anyone, any time.

Yank Durham, Frazier's trainer, discounted the ratings reshuffle that dropped the Philadelphian below all the fighters participating in the WBA's tourney to pick a champ.

"Why not take him out of the ratings altogether," Durham asked Friday. "Take him out of the top 50. It's not going to mean a thing anyway when this tourney is over.

"The people know that you're not going to accept a champ if their champ doesn't beat Joe Frazier."

Frazier, unbeaten in 17 fights, apparently was dropped because he is not participating in the WBA's tournament to pick a successor to Cassius Clay.

Traffic Jam, Pickets Seen For 49er Tilt

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The long-anticipated football game between the Oakland Raiders and San Francisco 49ers will be played tomorrow as a 53,000-seat sellout in strike-threatened Oakland Coliseum.

An Alameda County superior court judge issued a restraining order yesterday forbidding picketing at Coliseum gates if a strike is ordered.

Both the Raiders and Coliseum, Inc., operator of the stadium, said definitely the game would go on at 1:30 p.m. and with as little inconvenience to fans as possible.

There's certain to be a vast traffic jam at best—greater if pickets are posted and bus drivers honor their lines.

Coach Jack Christiansen of the National Football League 49ers plans to start a veteran team and stay with it "as long as they do the job. I will substitute through necessity."

Coach John Rausch of the American Football League Raiders said he will start two rookies, Eugene Upshaw, left guard, and Rod Sherman, flanker, and a former 49er, Howie Williams, at safety. Another lineup change will be Bill Miller as split end for the injured Lionel Taylor.

The 49ers veteran lineup will be dented only slightly, flanker Dick Witcher replacing injured Kay McFarland. No. 2 quarterback George Mira is injured, but his chances of playing anyway were slight.

Quarterback John Brodie of the 49ers has completed 53 passes in 95 throws for 697 yards, five touchdowns and five interceptions in three games.

The Raiders' Daryle Lamonica has completed 56 of 121 for 745 yards and five touchdowns, with one interception, in four games.

Each team will use its own league ball on offense. The AFL's 2-point conversion will be in effect.

The game will be broadcast, but not televised.

Spotlight Turns On Billie Jean In U.S. Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) —This is the day Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., begins a quest to become the first American to win a U.S. tennis championship since Darlene Hard was successful in 1961.

It is also the day a couple of former men's title holders, Roy Emerson of Australia and 44-year-old Vic Seixas, continue their bid in second round matches and it is also the day the harried committee hopes the injury jinx will end.

"I don't think I'm running a tournament," quipped Ernest Oberlander, chairman of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's championship committee.

"I think I'm running a hospital."

This 86th championship has been hit by a rash of injuries. The latest to withdraw were Tony Roche of Australia, seded third, and Tony Ann Fretz of Los Angeles, unseeded but ranked fourth nationally.

Marin Golf Tourney Of Stars Cancelled

Fourth annual Marin Invitational Tournament of Stars, a Hollywood-type golf attraction tentatively scheduled for Sept. 17 at Peacock Gap, San Rafael, has been cancelled.

A spokesman for the event said, "Due to pressing business and personal commitments of committeemen, we have decided to drop it this year, but plan to resume the tournament in 1968."

The event has been without a chairman since William H. McDevitt resigned the time-consuming post after the 1966 tournament. A general contractor in San Rafael, McDevitt said business commitments prompted his resignation.

"We've made several attempts to find a new chairman without success," McDevitt said yesterday. "We will continue and plan to hold the tournament in 1968."

Under McDevitt's direction, the tournament netted approximately $19,600 in its first three years. Proceeds go to the Marin Youth Fund.

In the past, the tournament has attracted such Hollywood personalities as Bing Crosby, Andy Williams, Lucille Ball, Forrest Tucker, the comedy team of Rowan and Martin, Donald O'Connor, Clint Eastwood and many other movie and television performers. They teamed up with leading amateur golfers and Northern California socialites in an 18-hole tournament.

Title Omen Appearing For Rams

The year of the Ram is dawning.

After nearly a decade of floundering as one of the National Football League's patsies, the Los Angeles Rams have finally picked themselves up off the floor.

The transition actually began last season under Coach George Allen when the Rams finished 8-6 for their best season in nine years, but things are improving beyond that stage.

The Rams, demonstrating a powerful offense, made it five exhibition victories in a row last night when they crushed the defending American Football League champion Kansas City Chiefs 44-24 before a crowd of 73,990 at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Such offensive prowess has not been seen by Ram fans since the days of Bob Waterfield and Elroy Hirsch, but the new Rams have their own version of these former greats.

They are quarterback Roman Gabriel and flanker Jack Snow, who combined on aerial scores of 62 and 40 yards last night as the Rams fought back from a 24-13 halftime deficit.

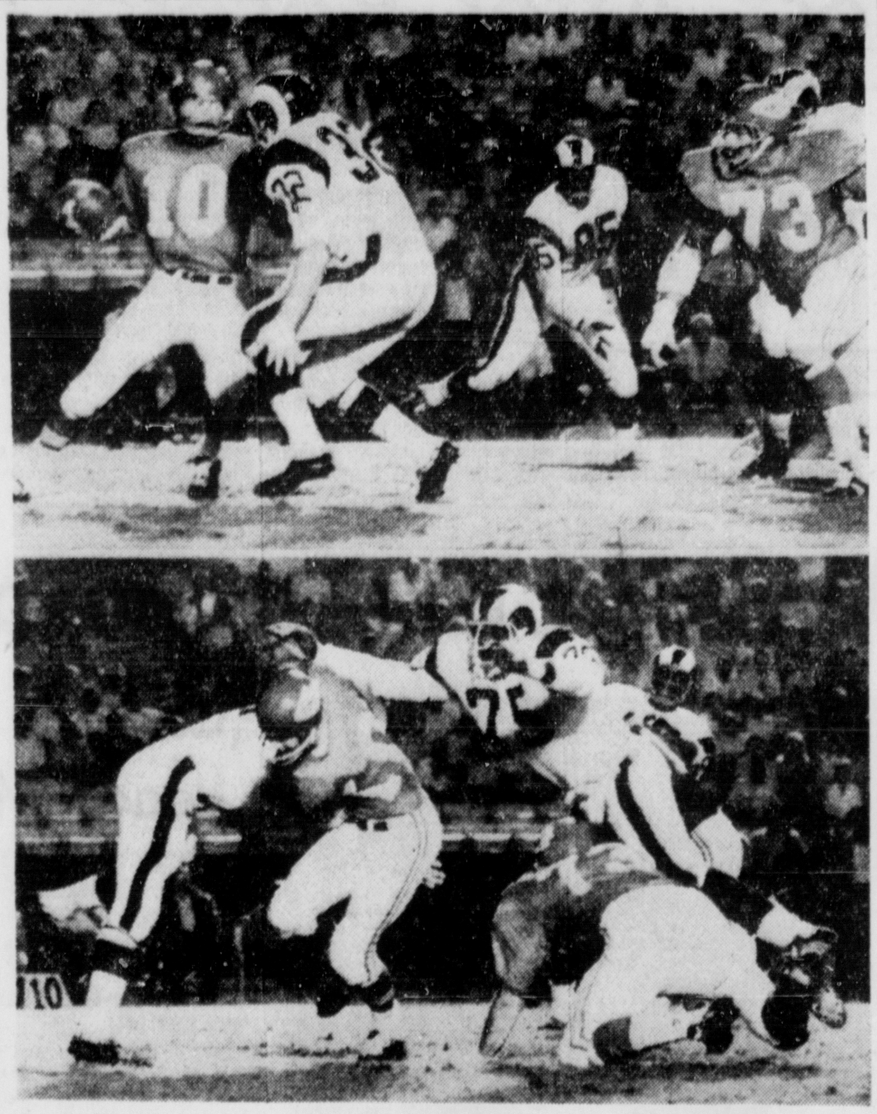
Kansas City got three touchdown passes from Pete Beathard in the first half, but the Rams solved the problem of the floating pocket offense in the second half and blanked the Chiefs over the final two quarters.

In the only other exhibition game last night, quarterback Larry Rakestraw and halfback Gale Sayers led the Chicago Bears to a 42-14 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Sayers carried the ball 10 times for 100 yards, including touchdown runs of 72 and six yards, and Rakestraw completed four passes for 81 yards, including a scoring strike of 38 yards to Brian Piccolo.

A big schedule is slated for today with the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Eagles kicking things off this afternoon at Palmer Stadium in Princeton, N.J.

Other games find Dallas at Houston, New Orleans against Miami at Charleston, S.C. and Pittsburgh at San Diego in inter-league play and Minnesota against Atlanta and Green Bay against Cleveland in an NFL doubleheader at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium.



A LATE SWAMPING — Quarterback Pete Bethard of the Kansas City Chiefs is rushed by the Los Angeles Rams' Jack Pardee (32) but gets off a first-quarter TD toss anyway. Joining in the fun are Dave Hills (73) of the Chiefs and Dave Jones (75) of the Rams.

Late Pickups Bring Grief, Joy To AL Flag Battlers

Fenway Park has opened its arms again to Ken Harrelson and the Boston Red Sox. Minnesota's Municipal Stadium has turned a cold shoulder on Ed Mathews and the Detroit Tigers.

Harrelson and Mathews, prize late-season pick-ups for the Red Sox and Tigers, respectively, found themselves in the thick of the American League pennant scramble last night — with different results.

Harrelson, signed by Boston last week after being dropped by Kansas City, drove in four runs with a homer, triple and double as the Red Sox emerged from a hitting slump, pounded Chicago 10-2 and clung to first place.

Mathews, acquired by Detroit in an inter-league trade with Houston last month, committed two first-inning errors as the Tigers fumbled away a 5-4 decision to the second place Twins at Minnesota.

The Red Sox still lead the Twins by one half-game while third place Detroit is two games behind and the fourth-place White Sox trail by 2½.

California rallied for two runs in the ninth inning and a 4-3 triumph over Cleveland, the New York Yankees edged Washington 2-1 in 12 innings on Mike Hegan's first major league homer and Baltimore shaded Kansas City 2-1 in other AL games.

"I always did like to hit in this park," Harrelson said after leading Boston's 13-hit assault with a two-run triple in the first inning, a bases-empty homer in the fifth and a run-producing double in the seventh.

"I drove in five runs in one game a couple of years ago, and I had a couple of good days here with the Athletics earlier this season."

The Red Sox, who had managed just two hits in Thursday night's 4-2 loss to Chicago, battered White Sox' ace Gary Peters for seven runs in the first two innings and breezed the rest of the way behind the strong pitching of Jose Santiago.

Mathews, who has driven in eight runs in 13 games with the Tigers, made a two-base throwing error on Harmon Killebrew's grounder in the first inning at Minnesota, then slipped on the slick infield after fielding Cesar Tovar's bouncer and was unable to make the play.

Each of his errors sent runs across the plate and two more Detroit miscues in the third gave the Twins another unearned tally.

Southpaw Jim Kaat, staked to an early 5-2 lead, withstood Bill Freehan's ninth inning homer and boosted his season record to 10-13.

"I just threw the first one away," Mathews said. "It was pretty wet at the spot where I slipped on the second one." The infield had been watered down following an old-timers' game before the regular contest.

"You can't give away three runs and expect to win too many games in a race like this," said Tiger pilot Mayo Smith.

Trailing 3-2 in the ninth, the Angels pushed over the tying run against Sam McDowell on a walk and singles by Bob Taylor and Bobby Knoop. After another walk filled the bases, first baseman Tony Horton booted Jimmie Hall's two-out grounder as the winning run crossed the plate.

Hegan, a .146 hitter, belted his game-winning homer off Washington reliever Dick Lines with two out in the 12th. Left-hander Fritz Peterson limited the Senators to four hits on the way to his sixth victory in 19 decisions.

Curt Blefary lashed a run-scoring single in the ninth inning to lift the Orioles past Kansas City. Pete Richert blanked the A's after the first inning, when they scored without benefit of a hit.

A WINNING POSE — Boston Red Sox pitcher Jose Santiago and ex-Kansas City Athlete Ken Harrelson share bites of the same melon after they combined to help the Red Sox whip the Chicago White Sox, 10-2 in Boston last night.

U.S. Women's Crew Drops From Rowing

VICHY, France (AP) — The U.S. crew in the European women's rowing championships withdrew today from quadruple sculls competition after finishing last in a trial heat.

The withdrawal was announced by Ernest Bayer, coach of the Girls Rowing Club of Philadelphia.

Pipe-Dream Of Soccer Playoff Tilt

BALTIMORE (AP) — Clive Toye, general manager of the Baltimore Bays, dreamed the other night that his team won the first game of the National Professional Soccer League playoffs 6-1 before a crowd of 30,000.

On the eve of tomorrow's opening game against the Oakland Clippers, Toye said, "I'd settle for half of each figure."

A crowd of 15,000 at Memorial Stadium for the nationally televised (CBS) 2:15 p.m. game should be more easily obtainable than a romp for the Bays.

RECORD ATTENDANCE

A record Baltimore soccer attendance of 11,000 was reached at the Bays' last regular season appearance, and there are indications 20,000 or more may turn out tomorrow if the weather is good.

On the playing field, the Western Division champion Clippers are given a slight edge over Baltimore's Eastern Division titlists in the league's inaugural title series.

Oakland posted a 19-8-5 record while outscoring the opposition 64-34, while Baltimore's 14-9-9 mark showed only a 53-47 edge in goals. However, while unbeaten at home with 13 victories and three ties, the Clippers are only 6-8-2 on the road.

Baltimore's hope lies in a victory at home, and then playing a defensive battle when the home-and-home series resumes in Oakland next Saturday.

TIED IN GOALS

In event the teams are tied in total goals after the second game, two 15-minute overtime periods would be played. If the deadlock continued, each team would attempt batches of six penalty shots until the tie was broken.

Oakland has three men among the league's top 15 scorers, topped by Ilija Mitic with 13 goals. Fernando Azevedo and Guy St. Vil scored eight goals apiece to top Baltimore.

Mirko Stojanovic posted 10 shutouts in the goal for Oakland and his average of one goal per game was the best in the league. Baltimore's Terry Adlington had a 1.31 average with 32 goals in 24½ games.

In the regular season, the Bays beat the Clippers 1-0 in Baltimore while Oakland scored a 3-1 victory at home.

Eddy Sidelined For Seven Weeks

DETROIT (AP) — Nick Eddy, the Detroit Lions' rookie who flashed brilliance in his first pro football outing and was injured in the second, will be sidelined at least seven weeks, officials said Saturday.

The former Notre Dame star sprained his right knee Aug. 20 in a 34-17 exhibition victory over the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League.

Coach Joe Schmidt said it was possible Eddy's injury could heal sooner, "but I don't want to put the kid back in early and hurt him."

Eddy, a halfback, returned a punt 75 yards in his first professional appearance with the Lions the first time he touched the ball as Detroit beat the AFL's Buffalo club in the Lions' exhibition opener.

Soccer Match Slated Sept. 13

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The president of the Philadelphia Spartans Saturday set a tentative Sept. 13 date here for the National Professional Soccer League Challenge Cup game.

The match will be held here, said president John J. Rooney

Burns' Advice To Republicans: Don't Be Hasty

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate's veteran leader, a Democrat, had some advice today for Republican senators who are plotting to take over his job: don't be too hasty.

Senate President Pro Tem Hugh M. Burns of Fresno suggested they wait until the 1968 regular session in January rather than make an attempt during next week's veto meeting and special session.

SOME ADVICE

"They would have from now until January to make their alignment and do a better job," counseled the sports - shirted Burns in his office yesterday before leaving on a dove-hunting trip. He's been the Senate leader more than 10 years.

"Political life is always shaky. Let's face it," he added.

But Burns, a veteran of many political wars, appeared unruffled by the Republican plans, drafted at a caucus in Los Angeles this past week attended by 19 of the 20 GOP senators.

Burns noted there are at least four potential candidates for his post as president pro tem among the 20 Republicans in the Senate and he doubted if they could agree on any one man.

VOTE CASTING

"If Republicans could guarantee 20 votes for one man, they wouldn't need the lieutenant governor's vote," Burns told a reporter. "I'll give 'em the 21st vote."

With the recent election of Republican Milton Marks of San Francisco, Republicans and Democrats now are split in the senate 20-20 with GOP Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch casting the deciding vote for Republicans in case of a 20-20 tie.

Finch has said he would help Republicans gain control of the Senate if they try.

By calling a special session next week, Gov. Ronald Reagan gave Republicans the opportunity to try for organizational control then if they want. Otherwise, the next chance would be in January.

Reagan called the session for Tuesday to correct a technical error in a bill giving school districts $145 million additional state aid this year.

The legislature has to return to Sacramento this coming week anyway, for the first ever "veto session" established by voters last November.

VETO SESSION

This allows the legislators an attempt to override the governor's vetoes of bills. Otherwise, the legislature would have adjourned without that opportunity.

But there's little chance the legislature will make a serious attempt to reverse any vetoes since Democrats control the Assembly 42-38 and a two - thirds vote is required in each house to override.

Reagan's aides announced the veto of 11 more bills yesterday bringing to 17 the total he vetoed this year. None is considered major. However, aides said the governor planned to veto several appropriations measures over the weekend because the money was not available for them. Friday, he vetoed a cost-of-living increase for 17,000 retired state employees.

Erratic Winds Continuing To Whip Forest Infernos

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Infernos whipped by erratic winds raced rampant through the parched Pacific Northwest today, defying professional fire fighters and frustrating Labor Day weekend campers.

In northern Idaho near Coolin, 30-mile-per-hour winds sent fire sprinting through 25,000 acres of lush timberland. Local residents were warned to be prepared to evacuate their homes.

More than 272 fires were burning out of control in British Columbia. Hundreds of others were unchecked in Montana, Oregon and Nevada. Only in California and Washington were weary fire battlers gaining the upper hand.

The U.S. Forest Service said this has been the most destructive fire year since 1961. Officials estimated the recent three-week binge of fires has ravaged more than 225,000 acres of brush, grass and timberland.

Some early-autumn rain fell yesterday near the coast in western British Columbia, but there was little encouragement for fire fighters inland, where temperatures were in the 80s and winds reached 60 m.p.h.

Frther south, torrential rains triggered by an electrical storm helped firemen quell a 5-day-old brush fire in Piru, Calif., where 3,808 acres of valuable watershed were blackened.

The Piru fire was the last major blaze burning in tinder-dry Southern California.

Cooling temperatures and light rain helped fire fighters corral three major fires in Washington, but gusty winds posed a threat to the state's generally optimistic report.

The extreme fire hazard, magnified by the potential carelessness of thousands of Labor Day campers, led authorities to close hundreds of parks and require the curtailment of logging operations.

Virtually all of Montana west of the Continental Divide was closed to the public. National forests in British Columbia were sealed tight. Oregon state police set up roadblocks on highway 20 outside the Willamette National Forest where flames have danced through 12,000 acres.

Bridge Studio Will Relocate

San Rafael Bridge Studio, located on Grand Avenue in San Rafael, will open at its new quarters at 215 West End Avenue on Thursday, Sept. 7.

Maxine Cantrell, director, announced that the same schedules will continue as in the past at her new studio, adjacent to the Miracle Mile.

Mrs. Cantrell announced her schedule as follows:

Thursday Evening Club, 8 p.m.; Friday Evening Junior, 8 p.m.; Saturday afternoon, 1 p.m.; Sunday evening, 7 p.m. The Mill Valley Monday Evening Club will continue at the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club, starting at 8 p.m.

Continuance On Drunken Driving Sentences Given

Arraignment of William Reid Hoover, 23, accused of felony drunk driving which involved an injury, was continued in Marin Municipal Court yesterday until Dec. 1 because Hoover is still hospitalized.

Hoover, of Portland, Ore., suffered a spinal column injury in the collision Dec. 18 and is at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco.

California Highway Patrol said Hoover was driving on Shoreline Highway when his car went out of control and over a 15-foot embankment. His passenger, William Hornbeck, 21, a soldier stationed at the Presidio of San Francisco, suffered a fractured right arm.

Home Of The Atomic Bomb Little Changed In 25 Years

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — The stocky, mustached general stood on the barren hillside, surrounded by more cows than people, threw his swagger stick to the ground and declared that the spot would mark the center of a new town.

The year was 1942 and, in that tranquil scene, Oak Ridge was born to produce the first atomic bomb, the weapon that ultimately brought an abrupt end to World War II.

Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves was the officer, named by President Franklin D. Roosevelt some months earlier to head the top-secret "Manhattan Project." It was under his direction that Oak Ridge and the bomb were developed.

Now 70 and retired the Army general returns Monday to take part in the city's 25th anniversary celebration. Ironically, the head of the wartime nuclear project will be given a tour only of unclassified sections of the plants which were built under his direction.

"He is so very security conscious I'm sure he understands the system, so to speak," said Dr. Clarence Larson, president of the Union Carbide Nuclear Division, which operates the facilities.

The town, nestled in the East Tennessee hills, is a little different than it was in September 1942, when 58,000 square acres were purchased for $2.6 million as the location for "Clinton Engineering Works." The name was picked, Groves has said, because it was innocuous and wouldn't attract attention."

Bulldozers tore into the peaceful valley farmland and transformed it into a city where 70,000 persons were employed, and only a handful knew what they were doing.

Guarded by six-foot-tall fences and sentries, surrounded by piles of dust and streets of mud, scientists set about producing the enriched uranium which went into the 10-foot-long bomb.

Today, Oak Ridge is a bustling, independent, incorporated city of 30,000 persons, the largest city in land area in Tennessee with 94 square miles.

Almost all the 30,000 residents are turning out to celebrate the 25th birthday of what they call the "youngest world city."

Focal point of the celebration is an outdoor pageant which recounts incidents in the city's history, including the time Groves "borrowed" 15,000 tons of silver from the Treasury Department for use in conducting electricity because copper was scarce.

Even as it looks over its shoulder, however, Oak Ridge is moving full speed toward involvement in the age of the peaceful atom.

The first indication of the new role came in 1953, when scientists here first produced electricity from a homogenous nuclear reactor.

As research into atomic power has grown more sophisticated, Oak Ridge has maintained its ranking as the world's largest supplier of radioisotopes for medical and industrial use.

A Little Plot Reserved For The Tourists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tourists finally are going to get places to park near the Capitol, but not in the House's new $13.5 million underground garages or on convenient Capitol Plaza.

Instead, Capitol visitors—who number in the millions each year— will have set aside for their parking needs a tiny 95-place lot in the shadow of the massive Rayburn House Office Building.

PARKING SPACE

If they can find the lot, visitors will be able to park there up to two hours while they observe Congress at work.

Additional spaces could have been provided by moving some congressional staff members' cars off the Plaza into the new garages. But no one wanted to do that.

Another possibility, tourist parking atop the two new garages, was rejected several years ago in favor of a $1,425,000 beautification project.

Congressmen — and visitors themselves—long have complained that the Capitol was the nation's only major tourist attraction without a tourist parking place.

"It is probably the one place in all America that they want to see that they cannot find a parking place," Rep. Mark Andrews, R-N.D. complained to Capitol Architect J. George Stewart during appropriations hearings earlier this year.

TOURIST PARKING

But Stewart said he didn't know what could be done because of the demand for places by congressional staff workers.

However, Chairman B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., of the House's new parking committee, says the group definitely agrees there should be tourist parking, and has pretty much agreed which lot should be used.

"The general feeling has been that for congressional visitors probably a surface place would be more convenient," Sisk said in an interview. "It's just a matter of working out the mechanics." The lot to be used for tourists has not been in use and recently was resurfaced.

Sisk said the two new House garages, which originally were scheduled to open by April 1966, finally will be ready for occupancy about Sept. 15.

Their 1,276 places will bring to 4,015 the total available on the House side of the Capitol. The over-all total, counting 1,888 on the Senate side, will be 5,903.

All of these except the 95 for tourists are assigned to congressmen, senators, staff members, newsmen and Capitol employees.

Holiday Pool Hours

The Redwood High School pool will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Labor Day, then close for the season, Dick Hart, school recreation director, announced today.

Today is Saturday, Sept. 2, the 245th day of 1967 with 120 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Saturn and Jupiter. The evening star is Mars.

Born in this day in 1850 was American writer Eugene Field.

On this day in history:

In 1789, Congress established the U.S. Treasury Department.

In 1935, one of the worst hurricanes to hit the U.S. inland ripped through the Florida Keys, killing more than 365 persons.

In 1945, the Japanese signed the unconditional surrender on the American battleship Missouri in Tokyo Bay, ending World War II.

A thought for the day — Latin poet Manilus once said: "As soon as we are born we begin to die, and the end depends upon the beginning."

Timid Opening Lead Ruins The Defense In Tourney Play

Montreal won the Congress Playing Card Trophy a few weeks ago in a match against a team of leading Chicago experts, much to the surprise and discomfiture of the Chicagoans.

It shouldn't have been a great surprise since many of the best North American experts live in Montreal.

ISN'T EASY

It isn't easy (and it sin't usually wise) to get to a game contract with four trumps in your own hand and only three in the dummy. Sam Gold and Ralph Cohen found themselves pushed into game during the Montreal-Chicago match, and Gold made the game when the defense slipped.

HELPS MATTERS

If West had started out with three rounds of spades, forcing dummy to ruff, South would have had a more difficult task. The actual club lead simplified matters for Gold.

Gold took three rounds of clubs, discarding a spade from dummy, and then led his last club. West put in the nine of hearts, forcing dummy to overruff with the ace. This play, combined with East's double of four hearts, left no doubt in Gold's mind about the location of the jack of trumps.

DEEP FINESSE

When declarer next led a spade from dummy, East hopped up with the king of spades and retruned a trump. God was bold. He took a deep finesse with the seven of trumps, winning the trick.

Declarer then ruffed a spade with dummu's last trump, got to his hand with the ace of diamonds and tested the trumps with tht king. West showed out, and it was clear that East still had two trumps. Gold therefore got out by leading a diamond, after which he could wait for the opponents to give him his ninth and tenth tricks with the queen and ten of trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ K 7 2
♡ J 6 4 3
♦ K Q
♣ 9 8 6 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

Since you have 9 points in high cards and may also count something for the doubleton you have maximum strength for this response. The hand is not quite worth any stronger response.

Marin Canoe Club Provides Instruction

By MARY HILL

"Paddle your own canoe" is not only the statement of an American ideal, but comes close to being as wholly an American expression as one could find.

In fact, the word "canoe" is not only a native noun (derived from an Arawak Indian word), but was the first "American" word to be printed. Columbus, in his Las Relaciones, the narrative of his exciting voyage of 1492, used it to describe the sturdy boats of the Americans; knowing no European vessel like it, he called it by its local name.

MOST OF us have grown up familiar with some fairly explicit directions for making "birch-bark" canoes — Longfellow told us how in Hiawatha. Although probably few Marinites have taken the trouble to follow the recipe, it cannot all be laid to modern laziness or specialization: There are no suitable birches to bark in Marin County.

For this reason, the Coast Miwok, the Indian tribe native to the county, were not birch-bark canoeists, either. Instead, they constructed canoes of reed wattling and tar that they could not only easily propel up the many canoeable waterways in the county, but could handily portage from one stream to another should they wish.

Today, the canoeable waterways are far fewer, for a variety of reasons all relating to people (filling, blocking, silting from mining, and many others). A would-be canoeist has a hard time finding safe, legal, and, preferably, dry access to such interesting waterways as Richardson, Tomales, and Bolinas Bays, Corte Madera Slough, Mill and Petaluma Creeks, Rodeo Lagoon, or the Esteros Americano and San Antonio.

NONE OF these provide white-water excitement, but all offer good exercise, interesting wild life, and (when not too citified or too close to the highway) quiet. Any can be dangerous if one forgets the tide, braves storm winds, or neglects safety precautions.

Despite the difficulty of getting canoes to the water, the sport is one of the fastest growing in Marin County. The Marin Canoe Club, born not two years ago, now boasts a membership of 27 families, each having an average of four persons.

At the time of the club's birth, the major source of canoes was rental of the seven durable, well-used Boy Scout canoes; today, a large percentage of the member families have boats, or are actively shopping for them.

IN ADDITION, the prime mover and principal instructor, Mrs. Russell Dwyer, has acquired two canoes that can be rented by the day so that the virtually no one who wishes to go with the club need be left for lack of vessels.

The plaguing difficulties of canoe storage and access to the water have prompted the club to seek aid from the county. In an effort to demonstrate the pleasures — and problems — of canoeing graphically, members of the club, under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Terwilliger, this Spring invited Marin County Supervisors to enjoy a short ride. Supervisors Peter Behr, and Ernest Kettenhofen accepted, but insisted, in true American manner, upon paddling their own canoes.

Subsequently, in July, County Recreation Director Pierre Joske (who has many times accompanied the club or its members) has pled the waterways cause.

THE OUTLOOK is hopeful: Plans are presently being discussed to provide a home for the club on Corte Madera Creek, in the City of Larkspur.

In its brief existence, the club has, in cooperation with the American Red Cross, taught 150 canoeists the art; it has sponsored a dozen family trips, including one overnight, and has plans for a doubly active winter and spring.

As a family sport, canoeing has much to recommend it: It is sufficiently difficult to challenge youth; it is considerable exercise for a desk-bound executive; since it requires the cooperation of all voyagers, it promotes discipline.

AS A CANOE will navigate in shallow water, far from motor

Coninued on M3

MIWOC INDIANS, early residents of Marin, traveled along streams, bays and coves in a shallow tule boat, about the size of a small canoe, constructed by tying bundles of rushes together.

boats and motorists, canoeing affords a quiet view of life and a few hours of blessed peace. Last, but not least, modern materials (aluminum, plywood, fiberglass, nylon) have reduced the weight of a canoe so that even a mother can handle it — even, perhaps, with a small amount of help, lash it atop the family car.

Canoes were, and still are, helping to fill the blank spaces in maps of the Americas — especially in the geography of the far north. The Marin Canoe Club does not expect to paddle many virgin waterways in Marin, but it does expect the quiet exploration by canoe to open up new vistas in the lives of its members.

Creative Writing In Remedial Class

Sitting on the log bridge over the creek on the College of Marin campus, a student with pen and pad wrote:

My shadow in the bottom of the creek is a color of my hair, shining where it's light.

The fish with shadows beside them swim close, making round circles.

A shadow of a bird flies in the water. A brown leaf moves down the creek making a familiar shape on the green moss.

The student, Mary Sakai, a recent Redwood High School graduate, until now thought the English language was dull and boring. In fact, she expected lacks in English might keep her from continuing her education through college.

MARY SAKAI is one of sixteen students who enrolled in an experimental program instituted by the College of Marin committee on instructional research, which is responsible for initiating new programs to help the many entering students who, because of deficiencies in English are unfitted to handle academic work.

The committee hired writer and critic Lawrence Hart as consultant and to conduct a special experimental class in cooperation with College of Marin instructor Mrs. Rosalie Brown.

Both Mrs. Brown and Hart are convinced that if a great deal can be done with students who have fallen behind in mathematics, at least as much can be done with those who are slow in English.

"But the colleges have a hard problem with these students," Hart feels. "Although the instructor tries, it's not practical to repair twelve years' failure in English by a remedial class. But, surprisingly, we find we can teach these students if we aim higher, and try to get writing which has some literary merit.

"Then they are motivated to work very hard indeed to correct their English lacks. What you do is ask something unreasonable from the student, and then show him how to get it, Hart explained. "Often he gives you better work than you would think possible."

HART HAS done 12 years of what is considered very successful teaching with the academically gifted, but this is his first class with the slower students. He calls it his "most surprising and rewarding class." As instructor of this class he relied on some of the same methods he had formerly used in teaching the gifted.

Approaching the problem from this new direction makes it possible to get from slow students writing which is as good as he usually gets from the gifted.

He found this to be disconcerting. "It makes us rethink the problem and gives us a new respect for the youngsters we're working with," he said.

The students begin with a technique which he calls "sensory reporting." They write using the simplest words, first fitting the words to what they see and hear, then to their emotions, and finally to their ideas.

WRITING assignments were done at home and during the class which was held from 9 a.m. until 10:30 a.m. five days a week. During the class period, the group would be taken to some scene on the campus, perhaps to the creek or the redwood grove, and asked to do "sensory reporting" on the detail of water, rocks, trees, and even fellow students at work. One student wrote about the reflections in the creek:

A sky creek moves below log railing.

Light is on the yellow buds in fives. Water moves green shadows of leaves, but not the moss. Four shadows on leaves are gone at their tips on the circle of a tire.

Another wrote:

The fish swims from shallow to shadow. He turns in the sunlight, his dark body silver and back to dark. A water-skeeter moves fast across the water making a shadow twice his size on the moss.

WRITING about the ocean on a field trip to Cronkite Beach one student said:

The green waves come in in sections of foam. In the rock at the end of the cove is a dark cave where there are no waves that enter, but on the side of the cave, at different moments, waves.

They liked to write about animals:

His feet barely touch the ground. The hair on his body is blown back. A noise comes out of his mouth, a sound of power. As he returns he is very high with pride, ears back and feet bouncing and a small grin showing the bottom teeth.

A round nest of dry brown grass, and two baby birds. Light pink skin covers the bodies, thin skin covers the black eyeballs. Beaks up and open, show small yellow tongues.

I met a dog yesterday. His name is Lame. His eyes were big brown color in the sunlight. I bent down and stroked him. His mouth moved, his head turned to the right. His eyes seemed to participate.

Portraits were a favorite subject:

Right below the eyes her cheekbones are covered with fair skin. Her lips are colored in orange, and she has a simple smile.

Small Boy with a Toy:

He got it from his grandmother, his first bean shooter. He puts one bean in the tube, then blows. The tube in his teeth, he smiles; his chin becomes wet, then his chest.

The head below me is Paul's head. He sits on the log bridge with his feet hanging. He moves his feet. Sun shines on his unshaved face, white on the tips of his eyelashes. His shoulder blades make a shadow on his spine. His shirt wrinkles under the armpit.

THE STUDENT would write about playing baseball, or about merely watching the sky in the evening:

He catches with both hands curved in. He throws a ball as if to swing the arm to someone.

When he throws the ball, his right sleeve swings. He puts his right hand in front of his face to see the ball come toward him.

There are many stars, but one of them shines most. It seems to change in size as it shines. I can feel air on my skin as I look up.

After the first three weeks in the class, Hart and Mrs. Brown were well satisfied with what virtually all the students were doing. They then moved on into the second stage of the work — short story, article, and literary essay.

The objective, according to the instructors, was to make the student aware that the language is something alive, not dead and abstract. "Anyone who learns to write his own experiences simply and clearly has begun to break his block in English," says Hart, "and is then ready to go on to the next step of narrative and expository writing."

WORDS, according to the instructors, should not merely stand for an idea, but really fit the writer's thought. It was often possible for the student to use some of his skills with detail in more complex writing. One student, for instance, in describing a policeman going into a troublesome area, said:

The yellow light in the back goes on. The right side of a door moves away from the car. A man gets out. His black boots are on the ground; dust begins to cover them. The wind blows but his blond hair does not move. A black belt moves at his waist as the gun on his right side moves. His eyes glance over part of the town and the people who watch him, no smile on his lips. The veins and muscles in his arms show under his skin.

Another described the children in an orphanage:

"They lose their personalities and themselves as individuals: they are locked out from freedom."

"We can do no more in a six weeks class than to find a way to work with these students," Hart feels. "But I think we may have found the beginning of an answer," he said.

While the instructors feel it would take a great deal of remedial work to bring these students up to the usual English course standard, they felt a great deal was accomplished with this class in creative work. "But this was only one program, and it is exciting to be a part of the experimental work being done at College of Marin," Hart said, in summing up his six-weeks of instruction.

Waterfront Living Like A Vacation

House Decks Linked To Boat Decks

Hardly anyone can go on vacation all year, but Marin residents living along the waterfront can achieve that vacation feeling at home throughout the year.

One of the areas which lends itself to the vacation way of life is Bel-Marin Keys, where the population has almost doubled in the past year.

This 2,200-acre waterfront community, along wide lagoons that lead to San Pablo Bay, is a haven for boaters.

Bel-Marin Keys, located on the former Marin Meadows Ranch, lies on a part of the original Spanish land grant acquired by Don Ignacio Pacheco in 1838.

There is a furnished model displayed by Lindsey and Co., adjoining their office at 1017 Bel-Marin Keys Boulevard, which demonstrates the link between home and water.

The living room has a house-width deck where residents can watch the passing sailboats, power boats, water skiers and swimmers.

The home has furnishings emphasizing traditional and European influence and the colors are in warm shades of avocado, brown and beige. The furnished home is open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk, as are seven other furnished models on display. Jack West Jr. is developer of the community.

Youths Aid Handicapped Students

Teeners Gave Up Free Time For Special Education Chores

Summertime is time for baseball and vacations for most youths but for more than 100 Marin teen-agers it was a time to work as volunteers in summer school classes for handicapped children.

They served in the special education program conducted by the Marin County Schools Office under the direction of Rudolph Kupfer.

The 108 volunteers were recruited from high schools and the College of Marin, and without their help there would be no summer school sessions for the handicapped.

THEY WORKED with students, three to 18 years old, in classroom situations, at recess, and on field trips to beaches, zoos, parks, playgrounds, museums and bowling alleys.

The volunteers served three mornings a week for five weeks, with 17 classes at nine locations.

In the physical and occupational therapy departments of Marindale School, the teenage volunteers pattern the children, give walking experience to those learning to use crutches and braces, and assist in the workshop in the maintenance of equipment.

In the classroom the volunteers give individualized instruction to the handicapped children in an academic program that is the same as that of a regular public school. Volunteers also assist the school secretary in the office by typing, filing and in duplicating materials for the teachers.

ONCE A WEEK the volunteers accompany the children to the Elks Club of San Rafael, where a swimming program for the physically handicapped children of Marindale School enables the children to obtain a maximum mobility in the water. Two volunteers for each participating swimmer are required.

At Magnolia Park in Lucas Valley there is a garden, greenhouse, and a well equipped woodshop. The students are completing handsome tables with the able help of volunteers.

At Gallinas School in Santa Venetia, one of our talented volunteers has assumed full responsibility of the arts and crafts activities. Many creative projects are under way.

THERE ARE volunteers who are working for the third summer. Their evaluations of experiences in this program are heartwarming. Friendships formed with the students and others involved in the program, add new insights into themselves and the world around them.

Because volunteer help is really needed the teen-agers find themselves contributing talents, developing relationships and experiencing growth. They find themselves becoming involved on a level never before achieved.

The volunteer's work is not easy, student progress is often slow, but there is great satisfaction. A need is filled where only a void would be had a volunteer not given of his or her time.

VOLUNTEERS from other years are now pursuing education that will lead them into careers in teaching, nursing, physical therapy, occupational therapy and speech therapy.

Each volunteer is evaluated by those with wrom he works. These evaluations are used as references for college, job placement and for placement with Vista, the "Stay at home" Peace Corps.

Villains Receive Just Desserts

By DON KEOWN

THE SEASON TO BE WARY by Rod Serling, Little, Brown & Co., 276 pages, $5.95.

JIM THORNE'S GUIDE TO ADVENTURE by Jim Thorne, Crowell, 159 pages, $5.95.

THE GATEWAY STATES by Seymour Freedgood and editors of Time-Life Books, Time Inc., 192 pages, $4.95

Rod Serling, one of the few "big names" to emerge from the largely faceless and none-to-talented ranks of television writers, has turned his attention from scripts to books in the writing of "The Season to be Wary."

It contains three novellas, all of them based upon the same general theme.

In each Serling introduces one of humanity's more repugnant types, then proceeds in the pages that follow to hand him his just desserts, usually with the kind of macabre or fantasy twist that he used so effectively in his excellent "Twilight Zone" series.

In "The Escape Route" it is a fugitive Nazi war criminal in South America upon whom things begin to close in, following the apprehension of Adolf Eichmann. In "Color Scheme," a cynical professional southern bigot learns what it is like to be on the receiving end of his brand of demagogery. In "Eyes," a promoter-exploiter type, a boxing manager, becomes the victim of his own avarice and manipulations. As a bonus, Serling also throws in a selfish, ruthless, wealthy old woman who tries to buy with money that which she most wants at the expense of another's sight, and, of course, in the end is denied the fruits of her expenditure.

The three stories are not going to establish Serling as any major force on the American literary scene. But they do demonstrate that with or without television cameras he is a very good story-teller. His touch for the dramatic stands him in good stead, as it has in video. He holds his reader's interest and leaves him with a feeling of satisfaction that, in fiction at least, there can be a certain ironic justice in store for those who in real life seem all too often to escape the fate they deserve.

ROD SERLING
Story teller

JIM THORNE, ex-athlete and ex-actor, is a professional adventurer, heading up a firm he calls Adventure Inc. that accepts assignments of all kinds, anywhere in the world.

His feats have included diving under the Antarctic icecap, testing the new Gyro-copter and duplicating the feat of the famed Acapulco cliff divers.

Such experiences have provided him with material for a number of books, the latest "Jim Thorne's Guide to Adventure."

In it Thorne discusses a number of activities open to the adventuresome — diving, fishing, parachuting, soaring, snorkeling, mountaineering, boating, camping. He dispenses advice on facilities, equipment and techniques, and, to whet the reader's appetite, recounts his own adventures including the Acapulco dive and the Gyro-copter test.

Unfortunately, the book is only sporadically interesting. Thorne writes smoothly and seems to have a gift for geographical description. But when it comes to conveying the sense of excitement that accompanied his own exploits, he is far less successful. What must have been intensely thrilling comes off only routine.

An added fillip, however, is the inclusion of a state-by-state directory on "adventurous places to go" that does hit a lot of worthwhile sights and activities the ordinary traveler overlooks.

The book, while less exciting that it might have been, will, nonetheless, have appeal for those drawn to the kind of action Thorne discusses — particularly beginners who can benefit from a veteran's advice — and for those contemplating extensive travel within the boundaries of these United States.

VOLUME THREE in Time-Life's handsome Library of America Series is entitled "The Gateway States" and covers New Jersey and New York.

Seymour Freedman is the principal author, with an assist from the editors of Time-Life Books.

Again we have a brightly-written narrative covering the history, the geography, the culture, the economics, the sociology, the politics of the region. Again we have a splendid collection of Life-quality photographs, many of them beautifully reproduced in color. And once more we have an attractive, tasteful design and cover.

The text will not offer the depth to satisfy the very serious scholar, but will satisfy most readers. And if there is a chamber of commerce quality to the writing, an over-emphasizing of the positive, it gives it a sort of tourist guide appeal that makes for pleasurable browsing through its pages.

The owner of a full set of these books, once they are all off the presses, is going to possess a library that will provide him with quick access to most of the matters concerning these United States that are likely to fall within his scope of interest.

And the $4.95 per volume price tag is most reasonable for a book of this kind.

CROWN PUBLISHERS, under agreement with the National Broadcasting Co. Enterprises, is publishing the "NBC Picture Book of the Year," the first comprehensive yearly review of world events made available in book form by a television network.

The book, which contains 500 photographs and original articles by NBC news correspondents, is edited by Ben Grauer, who has been associated with NBC for more than three decades.

SKYDIVING AND SKINDIVING are just two of the exhilarating adventures of explorer-writer Jim Thorne described in his book, "Jim Thorne's Guide to Adventure."

TIME-LIFE has continued its handsome Library of America Series with "The South Central States: Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas."

Texan Lawrence Goodwyn has written one of the more perceptive texts of the series, delving into the paradox of a region in which the mystique of rugged individualism collides with an urgent need for communal cooperation and government aid. Once again, Time-Life Books editors have assembled an impressive array of illustrations and reproduced them beautifully.

The books sell for $4.95 per volume.

NORMAN Moser's Illuminations Press of Mill Valley is out with "Illuminations 3," a continuation of the literary periodical that has been attracting increasing attention.

The magazine has been switched to offset printing, and some 1,000 bound and another 700 unbound copies of the current issue have been run off.

Again the contents are largely poetry, but there is a Darryl Ponicsan story and an essay by James Houston. Names represented in its pages include Pablo Neruda, Bill Margolis, Clarence A. Powell, Thomas Parkinson, John Tryford, and Doug Blazek. There are a number of Marinites including editor Moser, associate editor Hadassah, Ralph Moreno, Linda Nimmer, Walter Connely and Judy Navas.

It offers an excellent introduction to and indoctrination into the thinking and the techniques of today's lively avant garde culture. West Coast branch.

THE TOUCHSTOME Press of Portland, Ore., has followed up its earlier "Oregon Historical Markers" with the publication of another souvenir paperback, "Washington Historical Markers" by W. M. Scofield.

The book contains photographs of 49 markers, brief captions, a map of the Pacific Northwest state showing their location and blank pages for notes by the traveler.

"A GREAT Society?," to be published by Basic Books in January under the editorial supervision of Bertram M. Gross, is an outgrowth of the Arthur F. Bentley Seminar at Syracuse University, and represents an attempt by leading intellectual and academic spokesmen to evaluate just how well these United States are masuring up to their definition of a truly Great Society.

Sleuths And Suspense

THIRD GIRL by Agatha Christie, Dodd, Mead, 248 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

The appearance of a new Hercule Poirot novel is a real cause for celebration among mystery fans.

Once again, wonderful Agatha Christie proves herself the best of all the formula writers. It may not be Poirot at his greatest, but the egotistical little Belgian detective can be a step or two off-stride, and still be no less than superb. Among our contemporary fiction sleuths, he is unquestionably Holmes' most worthy successor.

This time Poirot, after a visit from a mysterious and confused young girl and with the aid of mystery story writer Ariadne Oliver, goes looking, at least at first, for a murder, not a murderer. Miss Christie works a great deal of swinging London and its young Bohemian set into her tale. Dialogue, characterizations and plotting are, as always, first-rate.

THE INSIDERS, by Susan Morrow, Doubleday & Co., 191 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

The vice president of an oil company, Hoyt Sullivan, is left a list of six names and cryptic abbreviations to decipher after Philip Lang is killed on an oil drilling rig. He must look up the names of those men and decipher the code because Lang also left a note that he believed he was going to die.

The six men and Lang were all placed as executives in Anne Repplier's New Orleans job agency, so it was natural that Sullivan and Anne would work together to solve the mystery of the list, how Lang died, and why he died. Being together also puts a strain on Anne's romance with Eric Enders, a pal of her father, Judge Repplier.

As they probe the list together they face increasing danger and reluctance of the men on the list to talk. This crime club selection is fast moving and well plotted, but the characters' conversation is a little wooden.

A Look At The Generation Gap By Powerful, Poetic Writer

ALL THE LITTLE LIVE THINGS by Wallace Stegner. Viking Press, 345 pages, 5.75. Reviewed by Gary Tischler.

Here at last is a novel that has a powerful kind of poetry without being unintelligible and fragmentary, a novel that says something about the times we live in without being a tract, or worse, a pychological bramble bush of symbols.

Stegner, an old professional ("The Big Rock Candy Mountain," "A Shooting Star") without being slick, has written a tight, but haunting book about the confrontration between generations and about the futility of withdrawal.

Joe Alston has retreated from involvement, reluctantly feeling guilty about the death of his wayward son, wanting only superficial relationships at best while living with his wife in a kind of self-made resthome on the Pacific Coast.

But Allston is soon stuck with the presence of a bearded hippie squatter on his property and a young woman and her family, his new, young neighbors. Both draw him out of his considerable shell, the former in a kind of frustrated anger, the latter with her disarming, passionate hope for "all the little live things," be they hippies, snails or crusty old men.

The girl's hope is all the more poignant because she is dying and pregnant, in an agonizing race towards an end and a beginning.

Allston bounces from jousts with the young rebels squarely against the girl's stubborn joy and warmth. The pendulum jumps between an angry rebellion he cannot accept as valid and the girl shake, anger and finally move Allston in a climax that could have been trite but isn't.

Allston may not be likeable, especially to the now generation. He may even represent the immovable square. But he comes alive as a human being, not as a symbol.

In the end, this is a moving book. Like the first winter rain, it promises life and live things, all kinds.

A REVIVAL of a novel by Colette, shown with cats, reveals her comprehension of love. The novel, "The Pure and The Impure" was first published in 1932.

Archaeology Gives View Of Humanity

THE STONE AGE HUNTERS— by Grahame Clark, McGraw-Hill, 148 pages, $5.50. Reviewed by Laura Devendorf.

"A fundamental attraction of archaeology is that it tells us not merely about the material fabric of our civilization and its history from primitive beginnings but about ouselves and our very humanity."

With this opening, Grahame Clark states his study plan of "The Stone Age Hunters" which forms part of the McGraw-Hill series, the "Library of the Early Civilizations." Clark also follows through by exploring man's origins, not just as textbook facts of bone and stone but with insight into the human aspects as well.

And primitive man never came out better. For all his bone-crushing crudeness, he seems a human being, evolving gradually according to condition and need into a plausible foundation for what he is today.

This new, more humanized look is possible because of recent discoveries and changes in scientific attitude. There is now a wider inclusion of fossil finds under the Genus Homo.

Discovery of new cave art in the west Mediterranean and in the Ural Mountains is inspiring new interpretations as to its symbolic and sexual character. And finally, there is the reemphasis on the basic continuity of prehistory, especially the transition from hunting and gathering of food to farming which illustrates dramatically, how a more stable supply freed man to develop a true culture and technology.

No less interesting are Clark's notations of Ice Age living seen today. The remarkable carvings and cave paintings, some illustrated for the first time, relate strikingly to art today.

Utilitarian objects such as skis and skin boats remain in use with little modification, while the Australian aborigines, cut off and isolated in the evolutionary scale remain unchanged, surviving through adaptation in an environment in which modern man would have less success.

Even though some of the terminology may confuse the uninitiated, Clark is never dry and his book is certainly one of the more readable, humanized versions of man at the dawn of civilization.

Countryside Key Factor

THE SECOND INHERITANCE by Melvyn Bragg, Dodd, Mead, 299 pages, $4,95. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

The harsh Cumberland countryside dominates this second novel by a coming young British author, at once the prize and the protagonist.

It seems the gentry, the Langleys, are running down and must rent one of their farms to a land-hungry laborer, who breaks his back and that of his family in his determination to make the land his.

His son John, as uninterested in the land as the young Langleys are, becomes his father's victim and attempts to soften his serfdom with their friendships. But the Langleys, son and daughter, are neurotically bound to the past, and have no hope of finding any meaning in their lives.

There is no getting around the fact that this book, admirable as it is, makes for grim, grey reading. Perhaps Mr. Bragg has let the bleakness of his character's lives wash the vitality out of his prose. At any rate, it is often labored and awkward going; still the beast-like round of the farm family and their friends comes through strongly.

Glimpses Of French Love With Knowledge Of Sex

THE PURE & THE IMPURE by Colette; Farrar, Straus & Giroux, Inc., 175 pages, $4.75. Reviewed by Bruce Coleman.

There are many kinds of love, according to the French. Colette tells mainly of one kind — Sapphic — in this reprint of her book, first published in Paris in 1932.

She draws, apparently, from experience from a period of time when — in between three husbands — she lived six years with an ex-marquise.

The book is written in brief glimpses. First Colette tells about the habits of a girl named Charlotte whom she met in an opium den.

Another glimpse is of a man who considers himself a Don Juan. She also describes how she lived in a house with male homosexuals, as an observer only, and of two women who had a beautiful relationship for 53 years in Wales.

It becomes clear, at least on second reading, that Colette has written "a serious analysis of sex, of the sexual response and of sexual variety and ambiguity," Janet Flanner says in her introduction.

She also writes of what she says Colette believed would be her "best work: "One can think of no other female writer endowed with this double comprehension whereby she understood and accepted the naturalness of sex wherever found or however fragmented and reapportioned. She seemed to have a hermaphroditic duality in her understanding and twofold loyalties."

It would be difficult to describe this sort of thing half as well as Miss Flanner.

One thing we know, Colette is a poet. She writes well.

Wilson Collection

MEMOIRS OF HECATE COUNTY by Edmund Wilson, Ballantine, softcover, 95 cents. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

First published in 1946, this is a collection of six stories and novelettes about suburban life. Dean of literacy critics, Edmund Wilson, is supposed to have revised this edition, but I failed to notice where. It's an interesting period piece. However, in light of what we're subjected to today, the fact that this book is still banned in New York must surely be an oversight.

Rio Grande Classic

RIO GRANDE by Harvey Fergusson. Apollo Editions, 291 pages, paperback, $1.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

In "Rio Grande," Harvey Fergusson 36 years ago created a classic. It has now been issued as a paperback, with a new preface by the author.

"Rio Grande" is not really a story of the river for which it is named. It is a story of the peoples of the Rio Grande Valley and the mountain valleys of its tributaries. As such, it is superlative.

The Rio Grande Valley of New Mexico is a bit of the United States that has retained its past, refusing to succumb to the recurrent waves of "progress." It has absorbed the Spaniard, the Mexican, a series of invasions by Texans, the gold seekers, even the 20th century tourists.

Harvey Fergusson was born there. He knows the country and loves it. His love shines through his writing, but it does not cloud his eyes nor slur his pen. He is at once poet and historian, and philosopher besides. Few books on the American scene can equal his "Rio Grande."

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

MARIN CLEANERS Phone 454-4792 — Member N.I.D. of San Rafael, Bel Aire & Fairfax

"What Home Garment Care Suggestions Have You?"

There are a number of handy gadgets every homemaker should have which will enhance your appearance and that of your family. They are inexpensive and excellent training aids in teaching children to preserve and freshen their clothing.

Do you have a lint roller? A few swift strokes will enliven a lint-littered garment. Belt hangers keep belts smooth and in place; clothes brushes are an obvious necessity; make-up caps and collars for young ladies prevent cosmetic damage, shelf or drawer liner paper, plastic bags for sweaters, cuff hangers for trousers, tie racks, shoe trees and other simple accessories will be most helpful.

Remember, a well-groomed appearance doesn't just happen. It is the result of constant care, personal and professional. It's a fine habit to acquire and teach to the family.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

THE IN SOUND FROM WAY OUT! Electronic Pop Music of the Future created by Perrey-Kingsley — Vanguard VSD-79222:

This is not the first or the best of the efforts to employ the techniques of "tape recorder music" in the service of popular music. However, it is interesting and may even tickle a few ears to the extent they learn to appreciate some serious electronic or musique concrete. 275 hours of work in the studio, several miles of recording tape, and a lot of scissor work in splicing were required for the assembly of these dozen selections. They are not really as far out as the titles or notes might give one the idea they are — most rock bands are farther out than this. The stereo effects are quite interesting.

ZERO MOSTEL sings Harry Ruby's SONGS MY MOTHER NEVER SANG — Orch. & Chorus cond. by Sol Kaplan — Vanguard VSD-79229:

One must be a Zero Mostel fan in order to really enjoy this LP. It is a zany, idiotic recital of satirical songs much in the style of similar efforts by Elsa Lanchester. It even uses the idea Elsa has used of mugging your way through a photo portrait for each of the songs on the LP. Zero does have a fairly good voice when he wants to use it. This writer's favorites were "Father's Day," and the super-patriotic "God Bless Every State in the USA.

AN EVENING WITH BORIS KARLOFF AND HIS FRIENDS — Original sound tracks from Universal's Greatest Monster Movies narr. by Boris Karloff — Decca DL-74833:

This really camp LP has gotten a thorough exposure on San Francisco's KSFO, but came as something of a disappointment to this monster-fan. Although all the voice tracks are taken from the actual original movies, none of the music is. It was the weird background music that made these epics of horror really horrible for me. However, everyone should enjoy reliving some of their childhood listening to choice excerpts from the great words of Frankenstein's monster, The Mummy, The Wolf Man, etc.

A NEW TIME ELEMENT — Emil Richards — Universal City Records 73003:

While the technique of applying unusual time signatures in jazz has recently been explored by many people, vibist Emil Richards is among the first to apply it to current hits of the "Georgy Girl," "Call Me," "Sunny" ilk. Everything from simple old 5/4 to complicated 15/8 is used here, and Dave Brubeck's hit, "Take Five," which was done originally in 5/4, is here done in 4/4 just to be perverse.

This LP is an indication of the growing influence of the melodies and rhythms of the East upon both jazz and popular music in the U.S. This is one of the first jazz discs this writer has received in many months which invited hearing through more than once the first time.

THE DOORS — Elektra Eks-74007:

No liner notes at all on this new rock group, not even enough to place them on the British or U.S. rock scene. Nine of the eleven tracks are originals, done in an interesting style which stresses the beat like mad but also communicates some very worthwhile lyric content.

Another Kurt Weill tune appears here as Judy Collins selected for her Elektra disc "Pirate Jenny." The Doors have chosen the next Weill favorite to be expected to fit this context — 'The Alavama Song" (Where is the next whisky bar. . .).

RAVI SHANKAR IN NEW YORK — World Pacific WP-1441:

World Pacific, now under the arm of Liberty Records, continues to add to the sizeable Ravi Shankar discography with this most exciting live concert recording in which the Indian sitar master is accompanied by Alla Rakha on tabla or drums, and Shyam But-Nagar on the tamboura drone instrument.

The recital opens with probably the shortest "raga" ever heard — a five and one-half minute one written by Shankar, probably especially designed for impatient American listeners.

As the liner notes suggest, five years ago many people thought Shankar's music sounded like a sick cat; now he is packing them in wherever he concertises and his influence on the rock movement is truly spectacular.

POET'S CORNER

SEPTEMBER

September! the loveliest month of the year,
When the old school bell rings loud and clear;
When the beckoning door swings open wide
And the precious darlings rush inside.

Gone! The sound of the thundering herd of feet;
The slamming door; the "What's to eat?"

No more making the beds at half-past noon,
Humming a mad Ophelia's tune.

No tripping over unworn shoes
Of owners cavorting on cloven hooves.

The old family wagon is once more barren;
It has taxied more souls than the mythical Charon.

September! September! The leaves have half-fallen.
The mums may be out, but the mummies are all in.
Nine months to recoup from nervous prostration;
Then it's June and the kids are (sigh!)

There Are Ways To Disguise Seamed Edges Of Plywood

The emergence of plywood some years ago as a do-it-yourself material created a problem for those who objected to the appearance of the edges in projects where such edges would be visible.

Various methods were devised to hide the seamed effect of the edges — an effect resulting from the bonding of thin sheets of wood under pressure. But some imaginative craftsmen created a trend towards untreated edges or, at the very least, an embellishment of the edges without actually hiding the seams.

IF YOU are making a table or some other plywood object in which the edges will be visible, what, if anything, should you do about these edges? The answer is easy: whatever you wish. It's an excellent area for experimentation, enabling you to come up with something a little different if you are inclined that way.

The hobbyist, who works with wood for the sheer joy of it, can spend many enjoyable hours trying different methods of covering, disguising or accenting plywood edges.

One of the simplest ways of hiding the edges is to glue onto them thin splines of lumber, which can be either butted or mitered at the ends.

THESE SPLINES can be finished in the same way as the full plywood surface or they can be treated with a contrasting color, achieved with either paint or stain. An especially effective contrast, for example, is walnut-stained edging around a table top made of birch-faced plywood.

Ready-made edging is available in the form of what is called plywood tape. It's actually a very thin veneer that comes rolled up in a small plastic container.

It can be cut with a shears or knife and is applied in much the same way as splines of stock lumber. If regular wood is used, some method of holding the veneer in place must be used.

IF CONTACT adhesive is used, no clamping is necessary, but extra care must be taken in positioning the veneer.

Half-round moulding, which has a flat side and a round side, can also be effectively attached to plywood edges, as can many other types of moldings. Metal channeling and laminated plastic are other possibilities, with the metal coverings especially popular in the kitchen.

THE EDGES of plywood take on an interesting effect when scorched, either by the use of a power sanding disc held tightly against the wood to create intense friction or a butane torch moved back and forth in a careful manner.

However, both of these methods require a certain amount of skill developed by experience and are not recommended until practiced often on scrap wood.

Those who have table saws or other suitable power tools can use beveling to good advantage. Putting bevels on the edges of a plywood table top, for instance, lends an attractive decorative touch that makes unnecessary any other finish except a clear sealer to prevent the entrance of moisture.

Planters On Stairs

Indoor or outdoor staircases take on color and fresh lines when decorated with colorful foliage plants in clay pots. Caladiums are an indoor example. Place larger pots at the bottom and reduce the sizes on progressive steps upward for a pleasing perspective. Geranium are showy outdoors.

Cluttered Closets Can Be Converted

How many closets in your home? Five? Eight? Twelve?

No matter. Each of them undoubtedly is filled to capacity. If you had fewer or more of them, the same would be true. All of us are inclined to use the space that is available — and to get along without that which is not.

ONE BUILDER says he has stopped adding extra closets to each series of homes he constructs, "because no matter how many there are, someone comes along and suggests that one or two more could have been used.

Another residential developer, Roy Server, suggests that at least one closet can be prevented from becoming a catch-all for "junk" by utilizing it for other purposes.

Especially in the case of storage areas with sliding doors, "a bit of fitting can convert closet space to a variety of alternate uses," Server points out. And the techniques can be helpful to apartment dwellers as well as homeowners.

Here are his suggestions:

1. REMOVE the sliding doors from a walk-in closet, fit its sides and back with shelving and install a pull-down lamp. Result: a mini library. Shelves may be attached to the walls or constructed from fit-together units of varying sizes. You might like the unfinished ones and add the special touch of your own finishing.

2. Substitute a glass door for all or part of a foyer closet. By inserting shelving, you can create a display cabinet for decorative pottery, silver pieces or family relics.

3. Install a pair of three-drawer cabinets in the unused half of a bedroom closet. Top them with a piece of plywood or hardboard and you've created a knee-hole desk. Shelving for the walls and perhaps an additional light fixture complete the setting for a full-fledged office — or at least an adequate space for the letter-writing, bill-paying, and vacation-planning tasks that go on in any household. And the area may be closed off, with the sliding door, when not in use.

4. For a swinging-door closet, the woman who sews may attach a full-length mirror and install additional shelves to create a dress-making nook. An extra linen closet, for example, would accommodate a cabinet-style sewing machine, with upper shelves reserved for fabric storage, patterns and accessories.

New Zealand Offers Little Of Everything In Limited Time Span

Many travelers plan their itinerary around the type of country they wish to see. For alps, they choose Switzerland or Austria. For fiords, it's Norway. For beaches, it could be Hawaii, the Riviera, Australia. Some are looking for lakes and rivers that abound in fish, while others prefer pack trips into wilderness areas.

But suppose you're one of those who wants to see a little of everything with only two or three weeks to do it.

You can't visit all these countries in several weeks, manage to see it all, enjoy your travels and arrived home rested and relaxed.

YOU CAN board a jet for New Zealand, the postage-stamp size country which probably has more beauty and more scenic variety per square mile than any place else on earth. Sometimes referred to as "the world in miniature," this "down under" nation is made to order for the traveler who wants to see and do everything in a limited amount of time.

In this compact country, which is about the size of Colorado, you can easily drive from the subtropical beaches on North Island to the snow-capped alps on South Island in a matter of days. In two weeks, you can leisurely explore the beauty spots of both islands either by rental car or by public transportation, and you can even work in a little fishing or hiking if you wish.

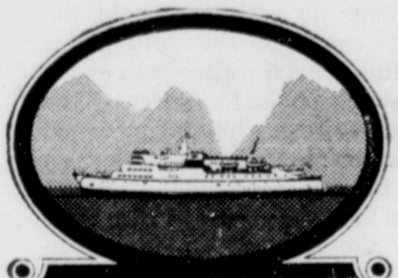
The terrain of North Island is less rugged than that of the South, providing millions of acres of pasture land which supports the nation's wool and dairy production. North Island also is a land of lakes and streams, and even the novice angler often hooks into a five-pound trout at sites such as Lake Taupo.

Near Lake Taupo is the resort area of Wairakei with its thermal region of 3,000 square miles speckled with geysers, hot springs and blowholes. Not far from here is the smaller but equally beautiful Lake Rotorua, and on its shores is a city of the same name. Visitors can inspect the reconstructed "pas" (villages) of the Maoris and gain some idea of how these original settlers of New Zealand lived before the coming of the "Pakehas" (Europeans).

THE POLYNESIAN Maoris have largely adopted the European way of life, while maintaining some of their traditional crafts, such as woodcarving. At the pas, the Maoris still stage exhibitions of ancient war dances and prepare their food in pots hung in boiling thermal pools.

Although the Maoris occupied both islands, little remains of their culture in the South. While more mountainous, South Island also possesses broad plains and fertile valleys. Set in the Canterbury Plains, the city of Christchurch has a marked English flavor, and it is well worth exploration, before making the 200-mile trip to 12,349-foot Mt. Cook and the glacier country.

ORIENTAL BAY at Wellington City is one of the beautiful scenes in New Zealand, which contains a great scenic variety in a comparatively small area.



"Drive" the Inside Passage to Prince Rupert (then "circle" back!)

Cruise Georgia Strait to scenic Vancouver Island – then drive north to Kelsey Bay and the new car-ferry, Queen of Prince Rupert. Ahead lies an unforgettable 330-mile Inside Passage cruise past coastal fjords and snow-capped mountains. At Prince Rupert, drive off and travel the "totem route" inland through a land of magnificent mountain scenery, renowned for fabulous hunting and fishing, to Prince George, hub city of British Columbia's northern interior. Then complete the "circle" with a return drive south through the historic Cariboo and Fraser Canyon. Advance berth and passage reservations recommended for Queen of Prince Rupert. Deluxe Motor Coach service makes connections from Vancouver and Victoria with the Queen of Prince Rupert at Kelsey Bay. Services also from Prince Rupert to North Central B.C., Alberta and Alaska points.

Hawaii Ready To Serve Million Visitors In '68

Hawaii tourism officials have confirmed that there will be plenty of room at Island inns to accommodate the anticipated million-visitor year in 1968.

New hotesl under construction and announced will appreciably increase the 18,500 resort rooms on five resort islands.

Hawaii's first million-visitor year, at first projected for 1970, has been moved to next year because of larger planes, more flights, and Hawaii's role as the top vacation spot for servicemen on rest and recreation from Viet Nam, according to Robert C. Allen, executive vice president and managing director of the Hawaii Visitors Bureau.

MEANWHILE, long range planning committees under the direction of HVB President, Robert R. Midkiff, have been studying the resort plant needs in the fiftieth state, the availability of trained personnel and the maintainance of Hawaii's famed "Aloha Spirit" of friendliness to visitors.

They have confirmed that the resort plant, particularly on the Neighbor Islands of Maui, Hawaii, Kauai and Molokai, will develop to meet the needs. They have asked the State to do site development of roads, beaches, parks and recreational facilities. They also are launching an educational training program for new resort employees.

Hawaii has experienced a "comfortably full" summer without leaving anoyone roomless, despite from 5,000 to 7,000 Viet Nam veterans and families monthly and the 14,000-person American Bas Association convention.

Nine new hotels and apartment-hotels are under construction at Waikiki Beach, including a 390-room hostelry tentatively named the Imperial Hawaii and a 420-unit hotel being built by Japanese interests next to the Moana Hotel for operation by Sheraton-Hawaii.

BIG NEWS locally was the announcement of new lease arrangements between Sheraton and the Bishop Estate which calls for the preservation and enlargement of the grand dame of hotels, the Royal Hawaiian, retaining its park-like grounds, but with the additional construction of a 1,200-room hotel on the beach adjacent to the Royal plus a 3,500 capacity convention facility. An earlier announcement had contemplated replacing the Royal with a number of hotel complexes.

Italian Coast Compared To California's

Italy's Amalfi Drive, from Sorrento to Salerno, is surely one of the most spectacular scenic routes in the world. Californians have compared it with their own magnificent coastal scenery from Santa Barbara to San Francisco.

In both stretches the dominating mountains stretch their limbs into the sea itself; the craggy heights seem to bar human habitation but offer vistas of pure delight — the sea is always most exhilarating when approached from a height.

THERE, HOWEVER, the resemblance ends. The Amalfi Drive has no white fringe of surf, no Big Sur redwoods, no wild country at its back. Where there is a foot of soil it is cultivated, and where the slope permits, and even when it seems not to, it is painstakingly terraced. It is no uncommon sight to see a peasant woman bearing a basket full of dirt, for patient replenishment of what has been lost by erosion.

Beautiful as is the scenery along the Amalfi Drive, it is not the natural attractions that strike the eye with force but the resourceful and artistic creations of man: The open-air belvederes, or summer houses, perched on every mountain crag; the handsome villas and palazzos, and above all the white towns and villages appearing almost to be carved into the mountain side.

How could man build on these precarious slopes, and with such rococo magnificence, where even a mountain hut would be an achievement!

AMALFI, almost literally bored into volcanic tufa, was once a seaport rivalling Venice and Genoa — was one of the queens of the Mediterranean. Its one-time population of 50,000 has dwindled to a mere 7,000. It has lost three-fourths of its area to the sea, but its former glory lingers in its Duomo, the Cathedral Sant 'Andrea, whose bronze doors were fashioned in Constantinople, and whose polychrome marble exterior reflects the period when it was ruled by artistic Pisa.

Before the Pisans were the Saracens, and before them the Normans and even earlier the Romans, who supplanted the Greeks. These last were probably from the Greek colony of Sybaris, whose name has become a synonym for high and selfindulgent living, and like too many others, they found Amalfi a place well worth fighting for.

The town has a rich history of wars and splendors for so small a place, and it still attracts invaders, who in this day are pleasure loving tourists, armed only with cameras.

SPRING IS the best time to take the Amalfi Drive, but the clement weather extends into October and beyond; even in January it faces the sun and is sheltered by the mountains in back; the air is apt to be balmy. The temperate climate holds even when one climbs the ascending road to nearby Ravello, where Wagner lived and wrote parts of Parsifal.

Ravello was a Norman city, and its antiquities date back only to the 11th Century, but it was important enough in its short history of prominence to afford 13 churches and four monasteries.

A PRIME tourist attraction there today is the Palazzo Rufolo, whose Arabic style courtyard and fantastic terrace were used by Wagner as a model for Klingsor's magic garden in Parsifal. And the Palazzo Cimbrone's belvedere is everyone's romantic dream of what a terrace should be, lined with statues and overlooking from a height of 1400 feet the sea that Ulysses sailed.

The surrounding countryside is odorous in the spring with the scent of orange and lemon blossoms, and the twisted and gnarled olive trees enhance the legendary aspect of the region.

Sightseers will feel impelled to go beyond Ravello, too, to where Salerno lies — recovered from its war wounds and bustling with manufacturing activity. It has its beauties and its antiquities as well as strikingly modern buildings and the view from the harbor is magnificent.

Not too far away is Paestum, only a village now, but containing on the outskirts of the settlements the grandest Greek temples to be found in the world, with the exception of the Athenian Acropolis.

Out of Sorrento, the Amalfi Drive follows the coastline of the peninsula and commands spectacular views of the Gulf of Salerno, where Ulysses encountered the Sirens, who still abound there in bikini-clad modern version.

THE COAST is dotted with picturesque towns and fishing villages — notably Positano which is both fashionable and historical, with brightly-colored houses perched like eaglenests on the mountain side.

THE ITALIAN COASTLINE with homes, villas and palazzos perched on mountainsides by the sea is a treat for tourists and a perfect background for photographers who have pretty girls to pose.

exciting concepts from Orinda pools

One reason more people are buying ORINDA pools this year is because ORINDA pools cost less to buy. Your ORINDA custom pool representative, in fact, can show you on paper that, not only is the base price lower in most cases, but when you add the options you want, the price advantage of an ORINDA pool becomes even greater.

And because it is an ORINDA pool, you get all the advantages of an ORINDA pool. The uncommon luxury of design and engineering by Orinda, and styling leadership that has made ORINDA Pools the best selling in northern California.

All of which is still just the beginning. *A giant Laars boiler is included with the 1967 Orinda Custom Royal Series providing low cost heating year long. You also have the traditionally conservative value of an ORINDA pool to enjoy. On top of all the other advantages.

Low monthly payments on ten year plan from northern California's oldest major pool builder.

Ornamental Evergreen Fig Plant Dramatic, Formal And Popular

Ornamental evergreen fig plants, which grow very well in Marin, are among the most popular families of house plants.

They are a group of easily grown plants that includes everything from dramatic, bold leafed shrubs to sheared, formal trees. Members of the California Association Nurserymen recommend them because they don't demand humid conditions or special care.

THE RUBBER plant is a well known member of this family, and one of the easiest plants you can grow. Large, leathery dark green leaves almost a foot long, and it grows to be a tall shrub with a handsome tropical look. The Fiddle Leafed Fig is another large leafed house plant with huge, fiddle-shaped leaves, effective in any room.

Quite different from the plants above are the figs that are grown as delightful indoor trees. The Indian Laurel Fig, often used as a street tree in mild climates, makes an effective tall accent indoors. It has a lovely weeping form with 2 to 4 inch leaves and an interesting light grey trunk.

A VARIETY of this tree called Nitida is quite different in appearance, and is becoming increasingly popular where people want a sheared, formal effect. The dense foliage of clear, lustrous green atop a straight, grey trunk is a lovely sight, adding distinction and style to any room where it's used.

The Weeping Chinese Banyan, the Mistletoe Fig, and the Creeping Fig (a vine) are other members of this family that make fine house plants, and when you visit the indoor plant section of your C.A.N. nursery you can see how they fit your decor.

All the plants above like some sun, but they shouldn't be in a west window where they get strong reflected heat. Keep thm nicely moist most of the time, but don't keep them constantly soaking wet. Light regular feedings with a balanced fertilizer will keep them at their glossy-leafed best.

The Reasons For Mildew

Mildew on leaves of plants could be caused by crowns so thick that they cut off air and light.

On shrubs, the same thing can happen if there is poor ventilation due to planting too close together or too near a house or garage.

In hot, humid weather, the most common type of summer fungi is gray mold. On dogwoods, it dries up leaves and twigs.

Trees should be trimmed to permit light to filter through. Shrubs should be opened by pruning. Apply a fungicide to control mildew or mold.

Thinning crowns of trees also will permit winds to pass through and reduce the chance of blowdowns.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

The Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Feed established lawns now to insure a carpet of green through fall.
- Spotty lawns may be renovated during the coming weeks, or a new lawn may be planted. Consult with your nurseryman for advice.
- Plant sweet peas from seed now for bloom before the end of the year. Be sure you plant the winter-flowering varieties.
- Plant new varieties of tall Bearded Iris. Established iris that have become crowded may still be lifited, divided and replanted.

BERRIED SHRUBS, such as pyrancantha, provide a colorful fall and carry through into the holiday season.

Winter Annuals Need Long Growing Season

Marin gardeners will soon have the success of their winter gardens in their hands.

Nurserymen warn that the color in the garden depends not only on choosing the right plants, but in the case of annuals, on setting them out at the right time.

In Marin the middle and latter part of September is advisable.

SUCCESS with winter annuals requires that they have a long growing season in fall before cold weather sets in. If you wait until next month to set them out, you take the chance that an early winter will cool off the ground and stop growth before the plants are mature enough to produce bloom.

There are other considerations, too. The gardener should make sure not to plant winter-blooming annuals in a place where drainage is poor. Remember that you can't control irrigation in winter and a well drained bed is essential.

So, too, is a sunny location. Annuals that might bloom well in semi-shade during warmer months of the year do better in a sunny garden spot during winter.

WITH THESE cautions in mind, let's look at what's available from California Association of Nurserymen members for planting now. Selection will vary somewhat according to the locale, but that's something you can work out with your local C.A.N. member.

One of the brightest spots of winter color comes from calendulas. These are sure-fire here in California and can be counted on to start producing color in late fall and carrying it until the spring show starts.

Another sure bet when planted early is Winter Stock. Snapdragons, Iceland Poppies, pansies, violas and fairy primroses are all available now and all recommended for bloom in winter months.

ANOTHER annual that can be counted on for color at Christmas is the lovely winter-flowering sweet pea. Your local C.A.N. nurseryman can give you a fill in on planting procedures here, but don't delay. Sweet peas should be started before mid-September if they are to produce sure color before the New Year.

Time Near To Plant New Bulbs

It will be soon be time for Marin gardeners to start planting bulbs for next spring.

Nurserymen will have their stocks ready and for some of the Cape bulbs, the sooner the planting the better.

CAPE BULBS, so called because they come to us from South Africa, will never compete with the showier daffodils and tulips, but they are lovely little things much cherished by gardeners who grow them. Some are better known than others.

Undoubtedly the best known and most popular of the lot is the freesia, a joy to behold and an even greater pleasure to sniff on a late winter day. White and creamy yellow tones dominate this group but mixed colors are available — yellow, carmine, salmon and blue. Take your pick.

Two others from the same native background are Ixia and Sparaxis, look alikes in one sense, but easy to tell apart for knowing gardeners. Both have some qualitites of the baby gladiolus, and are well suited to sunny gardens where summer water is rare. Be sure to plant them in sun, for otherwise their blooms fail to open.

THOUGH IT is not a Cape Bulb, the delightful grape hyacinth also appreciates early planting.

FROM PRINT TO FILM

Authors Surprised By TV Adaptations

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Many a television series has been spun off a feature film. If you look closely at the fine-print credits, many others are based on books.

And most often, the movie script writer and the book author never recognize their creations.

IN RECENT seasons such television conversions have included "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," which must have surprised author Jean Kerr who started the whole thing with a book of short, plotless essays.

Also, there was "Shane," an anemic series adapted from a rip-snorting Western movie, and, of course, "Peyton Place."

"The Lucy Show" was built on the framework of a book, "Life Without George," although from the outset names were changed and our heroine became a sod, rather than grass, widow. And when Lucy Carmichael mover solo to Hollywood, all resemblance ceased.

"THE UNTOUCHABLES" went on gang busting long after the book's adventures of the real Eliot Ness were exhausted.

The practice is popular because it is practical and economical. Often it is done because a studio owns the property and has gone through the tangled legalities of obtaining rights and clearances.

Often, too, it is done on the theory that people who enjoyed the movie or book will be drawn to the television series.

"WE BELIEVE there is a presold value in the old title," said Alan Courtney, MGM executive who, among his other duties, is trying to build public interest in "Maya," NBC's forthcoming adventure series based on a feature film made two years ago.

And "Maya" — stories about an American and an Indian teenage boy and an elephant wandering around India looking for the American father — has unique distinction as well as special problems.

IT IS being shot completely on location in India, which gives it some magnificent scenery and valid backgrounds hard to achieve on studio back lots. But it is tough to do preseason exploitation on the series when the principals are working in inaccessible areas of what the publicity handouts call "the sprawling subcontinent."

Television's favorite device for creating advance interest in a series is to bring together the stars and the people who write about entertainment.

"Maya," the movie, took a year to make, during which the producers — three brothers named King — developed contracts, scouted locations, trained native crews and learned to cope with local red tape.

IT WAS a natural for conversion into an early-evening, youth-oriented televison series.

Sixteen-year-old Jay North, who long ago outgrew his "Dennis the Menace" character, resumed his movie role and so did Sajid Khan, a young Indian actor.

And, of course, there was Maya, the tractable trained elephant of the title role.

LITTLE DOROTHY, her dog Toto, the Tin Woodman and the Scarecrow will be among the familiar characters when the new animated fun series, "Off to See the Wizard," based upon the timeless tale of Oz, premieres Friday over ABC-TV channels. premiers at 7:30 p.m. Friday on Channels 7 and 11.

BILLY DE WOLFE, center, is the manager of a radio station and Ronnie Schell, left, and Joby Baker are a pair of disc jockeys who broadcast an early morning show on "Good Morning World," a new comedy series on Tuesday at 9:30 p.m. in color, on Channels 5 and 10.

IRENE RYAN and Buddy Ebsen are all dressed up for their trip to England in an episode on "The Beverly Hillbillies" in color, Wednesday night 8:30 o'clock on Channels 5 and 10.

LAURA WEBER, Channel 9's popular instructor in the guitar, will be back on KQED this fall with a new program entitled "Be Instrumental," offering lessons in the banjo, recorder and autoharp, as well as advanced techniques on the guitar.

PLAYING THE LEADS in the new CBS-TV comedy series, "Good Morning World" are, left to right, Julie Parrish, Joby Baker, Ronie Schell and Golden Hawn. It debuts Sept. 15 on Channels 5 and 10.

I disagree!

And that's your privilege . . . in fact that's what John Caple wants you to do when you call-in to talk to him on "Open Forum" (weekdays, 1:20-2:00).

Subjects aren't limited . . . views run the gamut . . . talk back, or tell him how you agree!

We recommend "Open Forum" as a great releaser of frustrations . . . a great way to confirm your opinions.

We might even say, if radio had an editorial page with "letters-to-the-editor," "Open Forum" would be IT.
